HISTORY OF FORTY-SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The Forty-seventh Regiment, Illinois Infantry Volunteers, was first organized and mustered into the service of the United States, at Peoria, Illinois, on the 16th day of August, 1861.

On the 23d day of September, 1861, the regiment moved, by rail, from Peoria to St. Louis, Missouri, going into quarters at Benton Barracks, near the city, where it was clothed and armed complete. Remained in Benton Barracks, undergoing a thorough drilling, daily, until the 9th day of October, when it moved, by rail, to Jefferson City, Missouri, where it remained doing garrison duty until the 22d day of December, when it moved, by rail, to Otterville, Missouri, remained there drilling and doing garrison duty until the 2d day of February, 1862, when it marched north to the Missouri river; crossing at Booneville, marched down the north side of the river to St. Charles, where it arrived on the 18th day of February; crossed the river at St. Charles, and moved, by rail, to St. Louis, where it embarked on the steamer War Eagle, and moved down the river, arriving at Cairo on the 23d day of February.

On the 25th day of February, moved back up the river 30 miles, to Commerce, Missouri, where the regiment disembarked and joined Pope's command, then preparing for a campaign against Island No. 10 and New Madrid.

Marched from Benton, Missouri, March 2nd, arriving in front of the enemy's works at New Madrid, March 4th.

On the night of March 10th, the regiment, with the Eleventh Missouri Infantry, marched 10 miles below New Madrid, taking with them a battery of Light Artillery, to Point Pleasant, blockading the river and cutting off the enemy's communication by river below New Madrid and Island No. 10. Here the regiment was brigaded with the Eleventh Missouri Infantry Volunteers, Twenty-sixth Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers, and the Eighth Regiment Wisconsin Infantry, and placed under command of Brigadier General Joseph B. Plummer. Remained at Point Pleasant, encamped in a disagreeable swamp, with continual heavy rains, until the 7th day of April.

The enemy having evacuated New Madrid on the night of the 5th of April, the regiment marched with the Brigade up to New Madrid, on the 7th, and on the 9th were paid four months' pay by Major Witherell.

On the morning of April 10th, the regiment embarked on board of steamer Aleck Scott, and proceeded, with the army, down the river, nearly to Fort Pillow, returning on the morning of the 11th, and disembarked at Tiptonville, Tennessee, 20 miles below New Madrid. April 12th, re-embarked and moved up the river to Cairo, drew clothing and took on coal, and, on the night of the 20th, moved up the Tennessee river, arriving at Hamburg Landing, Tennessee, on the morning of the 22nd of April, disembarked and encamped near the river.

During the following 15 days, the regiment accompanied General Pope's army in its advance in the direction of the enemy's position around Corinth. A portion of the way it had to construct corduroy roads through extensive swamps. On the 9th day of May, was engaged at Farmington, Mississippi, in which engagement Lieutenant Colonel Daniel L.

Miles was killed. On the 28th day of May the regiment participated in an engagement near Corinth. On the night of May 29th, the enemy evacuated Corinth, and the regiment accompanied General Pope's army, in pursuit of their retreating forces, as far as Booneville, Mississippi, returning to Camp Clear Creek, six miles south of Corinth, June 11th, 1862, where, in a few days the regiment received two months' pay from Major Etting.

On the 3d of July, the regiment marched to Rienzi, Mississippi, remained there until the 18th day of August, on which day Colonel John Bryner took leave of the regiment—his resignation having been accepted, on account of poor health.

August 18th, broke Camp Rienzi, and marched to Tuscumbia, Alabama, rejoining the Brigade on the road, arriving there August 22d, and on the 24th received two months' pay from Major Hempstead.

Marched from Tuscumbia, September 8th, and arrived at Camp Clear Creek, September 14th. Left Clear Creek on the morning of the 18th, and marched toward Iuka, Mississippi, participated in the battle of Iuka, on the 19th, where the army, under General Rosecrans, defeated the enemy's forces under General Sterling Price. In this engagement Major John N. Cromwell was taken prisoner. Followed the retreating army of the enemy one day and then returned to Corinth, arriving there on the 3d of October, and took part in the battle of Corinth, October 3d and 4th. In the engagement of the 3d, the brave and honored Colonel William A. Thrush, was killed while bravely leading his command, in a charge. Captain David DeWolf, of Company K, was killed. Captain Harman Andrews was severely wounded and taken prisoner. The regiment lost in this engagement thirty (30) killed, and over one hundred (100) wounded.

After this battle, the regiment accompanied General Rosecrans' army in pursuit of Price and Van Dorn's defeated army, following them to Ripley, Mississippi, so closely as to cause them to abandon some of their artillery and nearly all their wagons and equipage.

On the 14th of October, the regiment returned with the army, and encamped near Corinth, until November 2d, when it marched to Grand Junction, Tennessee, and joined General Grant's expedition into Central Mississippi. Marched to Oxford, Mississippi, with the army, and returned to Grand Junction, Tennessee, January 1st, 1863.

January 8th, marched from Grand Junction, by way of Bolivar, Tennessee, for Corinth, where it arrived January 14th. Moved, by rail, from Corinth, January 26th, to Ridgeway Station, Tennessee, where the regiment remained, guarding the railroad until March 12th, when it marched to Memphis, Tennessee, and embarked on board steamer Empress, for the vicinity of Vicksburg. Remained near Helena, Arkansas, ten days, and again moved down the river, disembarking, on the 1st day of April, at Duckport, twelve miles above Vicksburg. Here the duties of the men were of various kinds—guard duty, loading and unloading steamboats, digging on a canal, and contriving the best plans at their hands to keep them from reposing in water at nights.

On the 2d of May, the regiment marched with the army down the west side of the Mississippi river, crossing it at Grand Gulf, and, with the Fifteenth Army Corps, then commanded by General Sherman, marched to Jackson, Mississippi, where, on the 14th day of May, 1863, it participated in the engagement which resulted in the capture of that city. On the morning of the 16th, was rear guard. On leaving the city, Colonel Cromwell, then commanding regiment, rode back to see if a detachment of troops, left back to bring up stragglers, were doing their duty, when a body of rebel cavalymen came up between him and his command, and called on him to surrender, which he refused to do, and tried to escape, but was killed in the attempt, several bullets passing through his body.

The regiment participated in the charge on the enemy's works at Vicksburg, May 22d, losing 12 men killed, and quite a number wounded. During the siege of Vicksburg, Major John D. McClure received a severe wound, and carries the bullet in his body to-day.

On the 4th of June, the regiment participated with the brigade, under command of General Joseph A. Mower, in the defeat of a force of the enemy at Mechanicsville, Mississippi, thirty miles from Vicksburg, near the Yazoo river.

After the fall of Vicksburg, during the months of August, September and October, the regiment encamped at Bear Creek, twenty miles east of Vicksburg.

In the middle of November, 1863, the regiment moved up the river to Memphis, Tennessee, and from there to Lagrange, Tennessee, guarding the Memphis and Charleston line of railroad. A portion of the time, however, was occupied scouting after the rebel General Forrest's command.

On the 26th of January, 1864, left Lagrange and arrived at Memphis, January 28th.

February 1st, embarked on board steamer for Vicksburg, where it arrived February 3d, and went into camp at Black River Bridge, twelve miles from Vicksburg. February 23d, marched to Canton, Mississippi. Returned to Black River, March 2d, and to Vicksburg, March 7th, where it embarked, March 10th, on board steamer Mars, for the Red River expedition. Was present at the capture of Fort DeRussey, Louisiana, March 14th.

Participated in the battle of Pleasant Hill, Louisiana, April 9th, 1864. During this expedition the regiment was under fire several times, and endured many very severe hardships.

On the 22d of May, the regiment arrived, with General Smith's command, at Vicksburg, having been for nearly three months engaged in as tedious and fatiguing a campaign as has ever fallen to the lot of any army to undergo.

June 5th, regiment embarked for Memphis. Moved up the river, to Lake Chicot, disembarked, moved inland, and came in contact with a force of the enemy under General Marmaduke, who was defeated and completely routed. Regiment lost in this engagement 11 men killed, and quite a number wounded. Major Miles received almost a fatal shot in the neck, and Captain Biser was killed.

Regiment then proceeded to Memphis, and accompanied General A. J. Smith to Tupelo, Mississippi, with the exception of the men who had re-enlisted numbering about one hundred, who left the regiment at Moscow, Tennessee, and went to Illinois on veteran furlough.

The veterans returned to the regiment on the 8th day of August, and, with the regiment, accompanied General A. J. Smith's expedition to Oxford, Mississippi. Returned to Memphis, August 27th, 1864. The original term of service of the regiment having expired, it was ordered to Springfield, Illinois, where it was finally discharged on the 11th October, 1864.

The veterans and recruits of the regiment, numbering 196 men, left Memphis, September 2d, 1864, under command of Lieutenants Edward Bonham and Royal Olmstead, accompanying General Mower's expedition up White river, to Brownsville, Arkansas, and from there marched north into Missouri, after the rebel General Price's army, which was raiding in that state.

Arrived at Cape Girardeau, Missouri, October 4th, and took steamer for Jefferson City, October 6th, arriving at Jefferson City on the 15th; thence moved, by rail, to Ottumville; thence marched to Warrensburg, where it arrived October 26th. Left Warrensburg, by rail, for St. Louis, November 2d; arrived at St. Louis on the 4th. From St. Louis, the veteran detachment was ordered to Chicago, Illinois, on 9th November, 1864, to assist in quelling any riot, should there be any on the day of election. Their services not being required, they were ordered to report to the Superintendent of Recruiting Service, at Springfield, Illinois, and were stationed at Camp Butler, where, on the 28th of November, it received 200 drafted men, and a battalion of four full companies was organized, and Lieutenant Bonham commissioned as Major, and Lieutenant Olmstead commissioned Captain of Company A. On the 3d day of December, the command was ordered to the field, reporting, by way of St. Louis, to General Rosecrans. At St. Louis, the order was modified, and its destination changed to Louisville, Kentucky. From here it was ordered to Bowling Green, Kentucky, where it remained until January 27th, 1865, when it moved, by rail, to Nashville. From Nashville, down the Cumberland and up the Tennessee river, to Eastport, Mississippi, where it rejoined its old brigade—Second Brigade, First Division, Sixteenth Army Corps—accompanying it to New Orleans; thence to Mobile Bay, taking part in the reduction of Spanish Fort.

While laying in front of Spanish Fort, six additional companies arrived from Springfield, Illinois, making the organization once more complete.

After the fall of Mobile, the regiment marched with the Sixteenth Corps to Montgomery, Alabama, where it arrived April 25th, 1865. December 31st, 1865, the regiment was stationed at Selma, Alabama.

: Mustered out, January 21st, 1866, at Selma, Alabama, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, where it received final pay and discharge.

HISTORY OF FORTY-EIGHTH INFANTRY.

The Forty-eighth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in the month of September, 1861, by Colonel Isham N. Haynie. The regiment left Camp Butler, for Cairo, November 11, 1861, nine hundred strong, and, after its arrival, constructed barracks for winter quarters. In January, 1862, was engaged in the reconnoissance in the rear of Columbus, under General Grant. February 2, embarked for Fort Henry, in W. H. L. Wallace's Brigade, General McClelland's Division. Landed a few miles below the fort, and was the first Federal regiment that formed a line of battle in Tennessee. February 6th, entered Fort Henry, which had surrendered to the gun-boats. February 11, moved toward Fort Donelson. 13th, in connection with the Seventeenth and Forty-ninth Illinois, Colonel Haynie commanding Brigade, charged the enemy's works, but was repulsed with a severe loss. 14th, was under fire during the day, losing a few men wounded.

February 15, was in position by the side of the Eleventh and Twentieth. The rattle of musketry, on the right, was incessant, and gradually approached the left, where the Forty-eighth was stationed, on the brow of the hill, and it was soon fiercely engaged. The enemy were twice repulsed from the front of the Forty-eighth, but they finally succeeded in turning the right of our line, and the regiment was compelled to retire and form a new line, where the enemy was again repulsed, and he retired within the works. The regiment lost, this day, forty killed and wounded. Among the killed was the gallant, daring and courteous Lieutenant Colonel Thomas H. Smith. The regiment moved, with General McClelland's Division, to Savannah and to Pittsburg Landing. April 6th and 7th, was engaged in the battle of Shiloh, the regiment bearing its full part, and losing over half of its men, killed and wounded. Colonel Haynie and Lieutenant Colonel Sanford were both wounded, on the 6th.

Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, May, 1862, and in June, ordered to Bethel, as garrison of that post. Remained there until 1863.

Colonel Haynie was promoted to Brigadier General November 29th, 1862.

March 9, 1863, the Forty-eighth was assigned to William S. Smith's Division, of the Sixteenth Army Corps. Colonel Sanford taking command of the Brigade, Lieutenant Colonel Greathouse assumed command of the regiment. It moved from Germantown to Memphis, June 9th, and from thence to Vicksburg, where it participated in the operations in the rear of that place, and at Snyder's Bluff. Advanced, with General Sherman's force, against Jackson, arriving at that place, July 11th, 1863. It participated in the siege and in the charge of the 16th inst., losing 45 men killed and wounded. Among the killed was Major William J. Stephenson.

The regiment left Black river, on its return north, September 30th, arriving at Memphis, October 10, and leaving for Chattanooga, 11th, a march of over 400 miles.

After arriving at Chattanooga, was engaged in the operations in Lookout Valley. Took part in the battle of Mission Ridge, following the retreating enemy to Ringgold. From here it was ordered to Knoxville, Tennessee, to the relief of General Burnside. Without rations, blankets or overcoats, and but half shod, they made a march of two hundred and seventy miles. The men used their blankets, jackets and trousers to protect their feet from the sharp rocks, the ice and the snow. Returned to Bridgeport, Alabama, December 19th. Arrived at Scottsboro, Alabama, January 1st, 1864, and although not yet recovered from their severe campaign, over nine-tenths of the men, present, re-enlisted as veteran volunteers.

Arrived at Springfield, Illinois, on veteran furlough, January 27, 1864, where the regiment was furloughed; rendezvous at Centralia.

Moved from Centralia, Illinois, March 10th, 1864, via Louisville, Kentucky, Nashville, Tennessee, and Scottsboro, Alabama, to Chattanooga. May 3d, 1864, from thence, via Resaca, Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain, to Atlanta. In the Hood campaign, moved to Marietta, Resaca and to Jacksonville, Alabama, and returned to Atlanta.

November 15th, 1864, moved with General Sherman's army, arriving at the fortifications of Savannah, December 11th, and at Fort McAllister, 13th. Thence to Savannah, January 1st, 1865. From thence, by water, to Beaufort. Thence moved, January 21, via Pocomtaligo, Branchville, Orangeburg, to Columbia. Thence, via Camden, Fayetteville and Bentonville, to Goldsboro, N. C. From thence, April 10th, to Raleigh. Thence, via Lewisburg, Warrenton, Lawrenceville, Petersburg and Richmond, to Washington, D. C. From thence, June 2d, 1865, via Parkersburg, Virginia, to Louisville, Kentucky.

June 25th, moved to Little Rock, Arkansas. Mustered out, August 15th, 1865, and moved to Camp Butler, Illinois, arriving August 21st, 1865.

Distance marched, 3000 miles. Moved by water, 5000 miles; by railroad, 3451. Total, 11,450.

HISTORY OF FORTY-NINTH INFANTRY.

The Forty-ninth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, December 31st, 1861, by Colonel William R. Morrison.

February 3d, 1862, ordered to Cairo, Illinois. 8th, moved to Fort Henry, and was assigned to Third Brigade, McClelland's Division. 11th, moved to Fort Donelson. 13th, engaged the enemy, losing 14 killed and 37 wounded. Among the wounded was Colonel Morrison commanding Brigade. Remained at Donelson until March 4th, when moved to Metal Landing, and, 6th, embarked for Pittsburg Landing, Tennessee. Disembarked at Savannah. 21st, moved to Pittsburg Landing.

Was engaged in the battle of Shiloh, April 6th and 7th, 1862, losing 17 killed and 99 wounded. Among the latter were Lieutenant Colonel Pease, commanding regiment, and Major Bishop. Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, and, on the 4th of June, moved to Bethel, and was assigned to Brigadier General John A. Logan's First Division, District of Jackson—Major General John A. McClelland commanding.

March 10th, 1863, moved from Bethel, Tennessee, by rail, via Jackson and Grand Junction, to Germantown, and, 12th, to White Station, and was assigned to the Fourth Brigade, Colonel W. W. Sanford; First Division, Brigadier General W. S. Smith; Sixteenth Army Corps, Major General S. A. Hurlbut commanding.

August 21st, moved to Helena, Arkansas, to join General F. Steele's expedition against Little Rock, Arkansas. 28th, assigned to Brigade of Colonel True, and, September 2d, joined the main army at Brownsville, Arkansas. November 10th, participated in the capture of Little Rock. 15th, moved, by rail, to Duval's Bluff, and from thence returned to Memphis, arriving November 21st, 1863.

January 15th, 1864, three-fourths of the regiment re-enlisted, and were mustered as veteran volunteers. Assigned to Third Brigade, Colonel S. H. Wolf. Third Division, Brigadier General A. J. Smith, of the Sixteenth Army Corps.

January 27th, moved to Vicksburg, Mississippi, and accompanied Major General Sherman in the Meridian campaign, returning to Vicksburg, March 3d.

March 10th, assigned to Red River expedition. 14th, participated in the capture of Fort De Russey, Louisiana. April 9th, engaged in the battle of Pleasant Hill, Louisiana. Returned to Memphis, June 10th, 1864.

June 24th, ordered to Illinois, for veteran furlough. The detachment of non-veterans remained, commanded by Captain John A. Logan, participating in the battle of Tupelo, July 14th and 15th, 1864.

After expiration of veteran furlough, rendezvoused at Centralia, Illinois, and proceeded, via Cairo and Memphis, to Holly Springs, rejoining the command. August 12th, participated in the Oxford expedition, and returned to Memphis, August 30th.

Embarked for Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, and arrived, September 30th. Moved to Franklin, and drove the enemy from the place. Moved, with the army, in pursuit of General Price, and returned to St. Louis, November 18th, 1864.

Arrived at Nashville, Tennessee, December 1st. Took part in the battle of Nashville, December 15th and 16th. December 24th, ordered to Paducah, Kentucky, to muster out the non-veterans, since which time the regiment has been doing garrison duty.

Mustered out, September 9th, 1865, at Paducah, Kentucky, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, September 15th, 1865, for final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF FIFTIETH INFANTRY.

The Fiftieth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Quincy, Illinois, in the month of August, 1861, by Colonel Moses M. Bane, and mustered into United States' service, September 12th, 1861, by Captain T. G. Pitcher, U. S. A.

October 9th, moved to Hannibal, Missouri. 19th, to Chillicothe. November 27th, to St. Joseph, reporting to Colonel R. F. Smith, commanding post. December 19th, to Palmyra. 24th, to St. Joseph.

January 21st, 1862, ordered to Cairo, Illinois, and from thence to Smithland, Kentucky, where the regiment reported to Colonel Lauman, January 28th.

February 6th, marched into Fort Henry. 12th, formed a part of Colonel John Cook's Third Brigade, of the Second Division, and moved against Fort Donelson. Took an active part, February 13th, 14th and 15th, at Fort Donelson. 23d, occupied Clarksville, Tenn. 28th, arrived at Nashville. Remained on board the boat and returned to Clarksville, March 1st.

Marched 25th, ordered to Pittsburg Landing, and landed at that place, 31st. Engaged in the battle of Shiloh, April 6th and 7th. Engaged in the siege of Corinth, May, 1862. June 4th, under Major Gen. John Pope, pursued the enemy as far as Booneville, Mississippi. Returned to camp near Corinth, June 10th. October 3d, moved out against the enemy, who were approaching, under Price, Van Dorn and Villipigue. 5th, engaged in the battle of Corinth. Pursued the enemy as far as Ruckersville, Mississippi. October 12th, returned to Corinth.

December 18th, went on scout to Lexington, Tennessee. April 15th, 1863, moved toward Tusculumbia, Alabama. Had a skirmish at Bear Creek, 17th; also, at Cherokee, and at Newsome's Farm. 24th, camped at Tusculumbia. 27th, moved toward Town Creek, and fought the enemy under General Forrest, at Town Creek, on the 28th. On the 29th, (General Streight having got well on the road for Georgia) the regiment returned to Tusculumbia, and, on the 3d of May, arrived at Corinth.

October 11th, General Dodge, commanding Left Wing, Sixteenth Army Corps, ordered the Brigade, Colonel Bane commanding, to Lagrange, Tennessee. 17th, returned to Corinth. November 6th, moved to Eastport, and crossed the Tennessee river at midnight. Passed through Waterloo on the 7th, Lauderdale and Lexington on the 10th, Pulaski on the 12th, and camped at Lynnville.

November 17th, regiment was mounted, by order of Major General Dodge

January 1st, 1864, three-fourths of the men of the regiment re-enlisted, and were mustered January 16th, and started for Illinois, for the veteran furlough

February 28th, moved from Quincy, and, March 5th, arrived at Lynnville. 13th, ordered to Athens, Alabama. 15th, moved to Decatur Junction. 22d, crossed the Tennessee river to Decatur. 27th, re-crossed to Decatur Junction. 31st, moved to Moorsville

April 12th, moved to Athens, Alabama. 30th, moved to Chattanooga, via Larkinsville. May 5th, marched to Chickamauga Creek and camped near Lee and Gordon's Mills. 8th, camped in Snake Creek Gap. 9th, moved to Resaca, and returned. 13th, moved to Resaca. 14th, to Calhoun Ferry. 15th, to Lay's Ferry, and crossed Oostanaula river. 17th, met the enemy at a cross-road, near the river, and, after some fighting, drove him from the field—the regiment losing 1 man killed, and 7 wounded. 19th, arrived at Kingston. 22d, at Rome.

June 20th, Colonel Bane having resigned, Brig. Gen. William Vandever took command of the Brigade. July 3d, one hundred and fifty men from the Brigade and one hundred of First Alabama Cavalry, made an expedition to Cedar Town, Major Hanna, of the Fiftieth, commanding, and returned, and, on 6th, to Cave Springs, and returned both times capturing prisoners and horses.

In August, Colonel Rowett, of the Seventh Illinois Infantry, took command of the Brigade.

September 27th, the Second Division, Left Wing, Sixteenth Army Corps, Brigadier General John M. Corse commanding, was transferred to Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps. 29th, the non-veterans of the regiment were started home, for muster-out.

October 4th, took cars for Allatoona, at 8 o'clock p. m.; arrived at midnight. At daylight skirmishing commenced, and by 10 o'clock the whole force was fiercely engaged with Hood's army. The enemy were repulsed. The regiment lost 87 killed, wounded and missing. Lieutenant Colonel Hanna, and Assistant Surgeon A. G. Pickett, were wounded.

October 13th, Lieutenant Colonel Hurlbut commanding Brigade, and Captain Horn commanding regiment, it moved out on Cave Spring road, and met the enemy six miles out, with two pieces of artillery. It drove them four miles, and returned to Rome.

November 10th, 1864, moved toward Atlanta. 15th, left Atlanta. 20th, crossed the Ocmulgee. 26th, crossed Oconee, at Ball's Ferry. December 7th, crossed the Ogeechee, at Mt. Vernon road. 10th, met the enemy at Little Ogeechee. 16th, went foraging to McIntosh, 30 miles from Savannah. 21st, entered Savannah.

January 27th, moved up Savannah river, crossing at Sisters' Ferry, February 4th. 12th, crossed North Edisto. 14th, camped near Congaree creek. 16th, crossed Saluda river. 17th, crossed Congaree river, and entered Columbia. 23d, crossed Wateree. 26th, crossed Lynch's creek. March 5th and 6th, did provost duty in Cheraw. 12th, arrived at Fayetteville. 18th, built barricades at Newton's Grove. 20th and 21st, fought the enemy at Bentonville, losing 2 killed and 14 wounded. 24th, marched through Goldsboro.

April 10th, Colonel Hanna commanding Brigade, moved to Raleigh. 14th, reviewed by General Sherman, as it marched through Raleigh. 16th, moved to Morrisville, and, on surrender of Johnson, returned to Raleigh. April 29th, 1865, moved northward, via Petersburg, Manchester and Richmond, and camped at Alexandria, 20th May. May 24th, participated in the grand review at Washington, and camped near Soldier's Home.

June 3d, moved, via Parkersburg, Virginia, to Louisville, Kentucky, arriving on the 8th. July 3d, in the prize drill between Sixty-third Illinois, Seventh Iowa Infantry and Fiftieth Illinois, the regiment won the prize banner.

July 13th, mustered out of United States' service by Captain W. B. Guthrie, Eighty-first Ohio Volunteers and A. C. M. Arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, July 14, 1865, for final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-FIRST REGIMENT.

The Fifty-first Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Douglas, Chicago, Illinois, December 24th, 1861, by Colonel Gilbert W. Cumming.

February 14th, 1862, ordered to Cairo, Illinois. Moved to Camp Cullum, on the Kentucky shore, on the 27th. On the 4th of March, moved to Bertrand, Missouri, and on the 7th, moved to Sykeston, and to New Madrid, and 10th, assigned to the Division of Brigadier General E. A. Paine, and Second Brigade, consisting of Twenty-second Illinois Infantry, and Fifty-first, Colonel Cumming commanding. On the 13th, made a reconnaissance in force, and, 14th, New Madrid was evacuated by the enemy.

April 7th, moved against Island No. 10. 8th, pursued the enemy, compelling the surrender of General Mackall, and 4000 prisoners. 9th, returned to New Madrid. 11th, embarked and proceeded down Mississippi to Osceola, Arkansas. 17th, moved toward Hamburg Landing, Tennessee, disembarking 22d. April 24th, the brigade of Brigadier General John M. Palmer, Twenty-second, Twenty-seventh, Forty-second and Fifty-first Illinois, and Company C, First Illinois Artillery, Captain Houghtaling, known as the "Illinois Brigade," was assigned to Brigadier General Paine's Division. Engaged in the battle of Farmington, and siege of Corinth.

Just previous to the evacuation of Corinth, the Army of the Mississippi was organized into two wings and centre. The Divisions of Paine and Stanley, constituting Right Wing, under Brigadier General W. S. Rosecrans.

June 4th, advanced to near Baldwin, Mississippi, and fell back to Booneville. Colonel F. A. Harrington, Twenty-seventh Illinois, took command of the Brigade. On the 11th, moved from Booneville, and again encamped at Corinth, 14th. 28th, General Pope being transferred to Virginia, General Rosecrans assumed command of the Army of Mississippi, and Brigadier General David S. Stanley, of Right Wing. July 9th, army organized into five Divisions, under Brigadier Generals Paine, Stanley, Schuyler, Hamilton, Jeff. C. Davis and Asboth. The Fifty-first being in First Brigade, First Division.

July 20th, the division left Big Spring, and marched to Tusculum, Alabama. The regiment was assigned to guard the railroad from Hillsboro to Decatur. August 24th, regiment concentrated at Decatur. September 4th, crossed the Tennessee river, and moved, via Athens, Alabama, to Nashville, Tennessee. Here the Divisions of Negley and Palmer remained as garrison, while the army moved to Louisville, under Buell. November 6th, engaged in repelling the attack of Breckinridge, Morgan and Forrest. From September 11th to November 6th, Nashville was cut off from communication with the North, the troops being on half rations. September 30th, Colonel Cumming having resigned, Lieutenant Colonel Bradley was commissioned Colonel.

December 10th, the Brigade was transferred to the Division of Brigadier General Philip H. Sheridan, and designated as Third Brigade, Third Division, Right Wing, Fourteenth Army Corps, and marched 7 miles on Nolensville pike. December 26th, moved against the enemy, under Bragg. December 30th, the Brigade met the enemy and was engaged during the day, losing 7 wounded. December 31st, the regiment was in the thickest of the fight at Stone River, losing 57 killed, wounded and prisoners. The Division lost its three Brigade commanders, Colonel Harrington being wounded and taken prisoner, and died a few days afterward. Colonel Bradley took command of the Brigade, and Major Davis of the regiment, and upon Major Davis being wounded and carried from the field, Captain H. F. Wescott took command. On the 6th, moved 3 miles south of Murfreesboro, and encamped.

January, 1863, the wings and centre of the army were designated as Fourteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first Army Corps. That of McCook being Twentieth Army Corps.

March 4th, moved to Eagleville—Captain John G. McWilliams commanding regiment. On the 8th, moved to Spring Hill. 10th, reached Duck creek. 11th, Van Dorn crossed Duck river, on pontoons, and Granger returned to Franklin.

June 24th, Twentieth Corps moved down the Shelbyville pike. 27th, marched to Beach's Grove. July 1st, entered Tullahoma, which had been evacuated the night before. Joined in pursuit of the enemy to Elk river, Winchester and Cowan, Bragg retreating over the Cumberland mountains, and across the Tennessee river. Remained at Cowan until the 9th, then ascending the mountains, encamped on the summit on the site of "Southern University." July 30th, moved to Bridgeport, Alabama. September 2d, crossed Tennessee river, and moved to foot of Sand Mountain. September 4th, ascended the mountain. 5th, moved to Trenton, Georgia. 6th and 7th, marched down Lookout Valley. 10th, to Winston's Gap. 11th, Alpine, Georgia. 14th, marched up Lookout Valley. 15th, from 'Stevens' Gap to McElmore's Cove.

After some days' movements, entered the battle of Chickamauga, at 4 p.m., 19th, losing, that evening, 90 men out of 209 engaged. During the night erected barricades. On the 20th, went into position on the extreme right; by noon were heavily engaged, and in the afternoon the whole Division fell back, in confusion, to Mission Ridge. 21st, threw up works at Rossville. 22d, crossed Chickamauga creek.

October 10th, the Twentieth and Twenty-first Corps being consolidated, formed Fourth Corps, under Major General Gordon Granger. Regiment being in Third Brigade, Colonel C. G. Harker; Second Division, Major General Sheridan.

November 24th, at Mission Ridge, was engaged, losing 30, out of 150 men engaged, including Major Davis wounded, and Captain George L. Billows killed. Captain A. M. Tilton commanding regiment.

November 28th, 1863, marched to the relief of General Burnside at Knoxville. December 16th, moved, by rail, to Blain's Cross Roads. January 9th, 1864, Colonel Bradley returned. January 15th, moved toward Chattanooga. February 10th, regiment mustered as veterans, and started for Chicago, where, 17th, the men received veteran furlough.

Regiment left for the front, March 28th, 1864, via Louisville, Nashville and Chattanooga, to Cleveland, Tennessee. May 3d, commenced the Atlanta campaign.

Was engaged at Rocky Face Ridge, May 9th, losing two men wounded. Resaca, 14th, losing Captain Lester killed, and 20 men wounded. At Dallas, May 25th, found the enemy in position, and were engaged 11 days, losing one officer, and 11 men wounded. June 15th, in a skirmish, lost Captain Tilton wounded, and 12 killed and wounded.

Engaged at Kennesaw Mountain and in the assault of June 27th, losing 2 officers wounded, and 54 men killed and wounded, and Adjutant Henry W. Hall, and Lieutenant A. V. McCormack killed.

July 4th, 1864, moved to Chattahoochee river. Marched to Roswell and crossed, returning to the Corps, 13th. July 20th, engaged at Peach Tree Creek. Casualties, 5 wounded. Was engaged, during siege of Atlanta, in the skirmish of Jonesboro, losing two wounded, and at Lovejoy, losing three wounded. Marched into Atlanta, 8th September. During the whole campaign the regiment lost 3 officers killed, 4 wounded, and 105 men killed and wounded.

September 28th, moved to Chattanooga, and thence to Bridgeport, Alabama. October 18th, moved to Chattanooga. Here 192 drafted men joined the regiment. Here, too, Chaplain Raymond, a venerable and good man, resigned.

Moved to Alpine, Georgia; from thence, via Chattanooga, Athens, Alabama, to Pulaski, Tennessee. November 22, marched to Lynnville. 24th, to Columbia. 29th, retreated to Spring Hill, at which place the enemy made an attack. The regiment lost 12 wounded, including Captain George I. Waterman, A. A. A. G., and General Bradley.

November 30th, moved to Franklin, and was heavily engaged in the battle of Franklin, losing Lieutenant Thomas, killed, Captain Tilton and Lieutenants Johnson and Hils, wounded, 52 men killed and wounded, and 98 missing.

December 1st, reached Nashville. Engaged in the battle of Nashville, December 15th and 16th, losing 1 man killed and 5 wounded. After the battle pursued the flying enemy, and afterwards moved to Huntsville, Alabama.

March 31st, 1865, moved to Greenville, East Tennessee. April 15th, moved to Nashville. April 11th, Company I—90 men—joined the regiment from Camp Butler.

June 15th, Company F, Lieutenant James Skidmore commanding, was mustered out of service. 16th, moved to Johnsonville, Tennessee, and embarked for New Orleans, Louisiana. July 28th, embarked for Texas. 31st, disembarked at Port Lavaca. August 1st, moved to Camp Placidor, Texas.

Mustered out September 25th, 1865, at Camp Irwin, Texas, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, October 15th, 1865, for final payment and discharge.

NOTE.—Captain Franklin T. Gilbert's company of cavalry, formerly attached to the Fifty-first, was assigned as Company H, Twelfth Illinois Cavalry.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-SECOND INFANTRY.

The Fifty-second Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Geneva, Kane county, Illinois, in November 1861, by Colonel J. G. Wilson, and mustered into United States' service November 19th, by Lieutenant J. Christopher.

November 28th, moved with 945 men to St. Louis, Missouri, and went into quarters at Benton Barracks. Here Colonel Wilson resigned.

December 8th, the regiment, Lieutenant Colonel J. S. Wilcox commanding, moved to St. Joseph, Missouri. January 16, 1862, moved to Cairo, via Palmyra, Quincy and Mississippi river. January 24th, moved to Smithland. February 7th, T. W. Sweeny was commissioned Colonel of the Fifty-second.

February 10th, 1862, embarked for Fort Donelson, and arrived 17th. 18th, was sent with prisoners to Chicago. March 7th, arrived at St. Louis. March 13th, left for Army of the Tennessee, and 20th, disembarked at Pittsburg Landing, and were assigned to Third Brigade, Second Division, Colonel Sweeny commanding Brigade and General Smith the Division.

The regiment took a prominent part in the battle of Shiloh, April 6th and 7th, losing 170 killed, wounded and missing—Major Stark commanding first day and Captain Bowen on the second. The regiment was engaged in the siege of Corinth, May, 1862. Pursued the retreating enemy to Booneville, Mississippi, and returned to Corinth, where the regiment remained until the battle of Corinth, October 3d and 4th. Was heavily engaged in this action, Colonel Sweeny commanding the regiment—the loss being 70 killed and wounded. Pursued the retreating enemy as far as Ruckerville, and returned 12th.

October 13th, moved to Hatchie river, and returned.

December 9th, 1862, moved with an expedition to Alabama. Met the enemy near Little Bear creek, drove him 15 miles, and returned to Corinth, arriving 14th. December 19th, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Wilcox, left Corinth, with the expedition of Gen. G. M. Dodge, to intercept Forrest. Marched 100 miles, in four and one-half days, and returned, weary and foot-sore.

January 2d, 1863, moved to Tennessee river, to intercept Forrest, as he had already crossed at Crump's Landing. Expedition returned.

January 26th, moved to Hamburg, Tennessee; embarked on a little steamer, and on the next day, disembarked and returned to Corinth.

February 25th, 1863, moved, Major Brown commanding regiment, Colonel Sweeny commanding expedition, to Jacinto, Mississippi. Arrived 27th. Remained until March 4th, when it returned to Corinth.

On the 15th of April, Lieutenant Colonel Wilcox commanding regiment, moved with an expedition of four Brigades of Infantry, one of cavalry, and fourteen pieces of artillery, Brigadier General G. M. Dodge commanding, to Northern Alabama. Marched to Burnsville on the 15th; through Iuka on the 16th; crossed Bear creek on the 17th—Colonel Cornyn's cavalry skirmishing with the enemy.

April 20th, Colonel Sweeny promoted to Brigadier General. 23d, the whole force advanced, driving the enemy. That night lay in line of battle. 24th, moved forward and entered Tusculum, Alabama.

April 27th, moved toward Courtland. Met the enemy at Town creek, and skirmished till night. 28th, gained possession of the railroad bridge, effected a crossing, and drove the enemy three miles. 29th, returned, arriving in Corinth, May 2d, 1863.

August 18th, moved to Germantown, and regiment assigned to guarding railroad.

October 29th, moved to Iuka. 31st, bivouacked three and a half miles east of Iuka. November 6th, the whole Left Wing of the Sixteenth Corps moved eastward. Arrived at Eastport and crossed the Tennessee. November 11th, arrived at Pulaski, Tennessee. Remained, doing provost duty.

January 9th, three-fourths of the regiment having re-enlisted, it was mustered as a veteran organization. Started for Illinois, and arrived at Chicago, January 17th. Proceeded to Geneva, Kane county, and was furloughed, 20th.

February 24th, moved for Pulaski, Tennessee, under command of Lieutenant Colonel E. A. Bowen, Colonel Wilcox having resigned. Arrived at Pulaski, 29th. April 29th, in Colonel E. W. Rice's Brigade (First Brigade), General Sweeny's Division (Second), Left Wing, Major General G. M. Dodge, Sixteenth Army Corps. Moved southward, arriving at Chattanooga, May 2d.

May 3d, 1864, commenced the Atlanta campaign. The regiment participated in the battles of Snake Creek Gap, Resaca, Lay's Ferry, Rome Cross Roads, Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain, Nickajack Creek, Decatur, July 22d and 28th, before Atlanta and Jonesboro, and went into camp at East Point.

September 26th, 1864, the Second Division, Left Wing, Sixteenth Army Corps was transferred to Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, moved to Rome, and, by rail, to Carterville; and from thence marched to Allatoona. Arriving too late for the battle, it returned to Rome.

October 11th, Lieutenant Colonel Bowen being mustered out, Major Boyd took command.

The regiment marched with the Division, Brevet Major General J. M. Corse commanding, to Savannah, Georgia.

December 18th, the non-veteran officers were mustered out, and J. D. Davis, having received a commission as Lieutenant Colonel, took command of the regiment.

December 21st, marched into Savannah.

January 29th, 1865, started on the Carolinas campaign. Was present at the battle of Bentonville, and arrived at Goldsboro, March 24th.

April 10th, marched to Raleigh. Lay at Morrisville during Johnson's surrender.

Marched, via Richmond and Alexandria, and was in the grand review at Washington, May 24th, 1865. June 2d, moved to Louisville, Kentucky.

July 5th, mustered out of United States' service. Moved to Camp Douglas, Chicago, Illinois, and received final payment and discharge, July 12th, 1865.

NOTE.—Cavalry Company A, Captain William Ford, formerly attached to Fifty-third, was assigned as Company L, Fifteenth Illinois Cavalry.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-THIRD INFANTRY.

The Fifty-third Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Ottawa, Illinois, in the winter of 1861-2, by Colonel W. H. W. Cushman. On the 27th February, 1862, moved to Camp Douglas, Chicago, Illinois.

Ordered to Savannah, Tennessee, March 23d. Arrived at Shiloh on the night of April 7th, and was placed in the First Brigade, Fourth Division, Brigadier General J. G. Lauman commanding Brigade, and Brigadier General S. A. Hurlbut commanding Division.

Engaged in the siege of Corinth. Marched to Grand Junction, and, June 26th, to Lagrange. Thence, via Holly Springs, to Memphis, July 21st. On the 6th of September, moved toward Bolivar, arriving, 13th. Moved, October 4th, from Bolivar, and, on the 5th, engaged four times their number of the enemy who were retreating from Corinth. While crossing Davis' bridge, on the Hatchie, a regiment from another state fled, breaking through our lines in disorder; but the Fifty-third moved promptly forward and formed line, and fought two and a half hours, losing 10 killed and 49 wounded. Returned to Bolivar, October 8th, and to Lagrange, November 4th, 1862.

On the 28th of November, moved southward, with General Grant's army, to Cold Water, Holly Springs, Waterford, Abbeville and Oxford, Mississippi, arriving at Yocoma creek, December 13th; and, on the 22d, commenced the northward march toward Tallahatchie river.

January 1st, 1863, the regiment was brigaded with First Brigade, Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, Colonel I. C. Pugh commanding Brigade, Brigadier General J. G. Lauman commanding Division, and Major General J. B. McPherson commanding Corps. Moved from Tallahatchie river and arrived at Moscow, Tennessee, January 11th. Was transferred, with the Division, to the Sixteenth Army Corps, (Major General Hurlbut's) and remained during the winter.

Moved to Memphis, March 11th, and, May 17th, embarked for Young's Point. On 26th, moved to Haines' Bluff. Went into position at Snyder's Bluff, and, on the 25th, joined the main army.

Was actively engaged in the siege of Vicksburg, being temporarily assigned to the Thirteenth Corps, Major General E. O. C. Ord commanding. On July 5th, moved, with General Sherman's army, against Jackson. On the 12th, was engaged, with the Third Iowa and Twenty-eighth and Forty-first Illinois, in battle of Jackson. The Fifty-third participated in the gallant but disastrous charge of that day, going into the fight with 200 men and officers, and coming out with but 66. Colonel Earl fell, pierced with four bullets. Lieutenant Colonel McClanahan was severely wounded. Captain Michael Leahey and Lieutenant George W. Hemstreet were killed, and Captain J. E. Hudson mortally wounded. Captains Potter and King wounded. Lieutenant Smith lost an arm and was taken prisoner, and Captain Lodge was taken prisoner. The entire loss being 88 killed and wounded, and 46 missing.

A few days afterward returned to Vicksburg, and was transferred to Seventeenth Army Corps, Brigadier General M. M. Crocker commanding Division. Moved to Natchez, August 18th. Returned November 30th, to Vicksburg, and camped at Milldale.

On the 1st of February, 1864, the regiment having re-enlisted, was mustered as a Veteran organization, and, on the 3d, started on the Meridian campaign, and, returning, arrived at Hebron, Mississippi, February 29th.

Left Vicksburg, March 13th, and arrived at Ottawa, 22d, where the men were furloughed for 30 days.

Company I, having been consolidated with Company E in 1863, a new company was organized and assigned to the regiment. Re-joined the Division at Cairo. General F. P. Blair having been assigned to the Corps, it moved up the Tennessee to Clifton, and marched, via Decatur and Huntsville, joining General Sherman's army at Allatoona, June 8th. The Second Brigade, Colonel George C. Rogers commanding, was ordered to garrison that place. July 13th, ordered to Marietta, and, on the 17th, joined the Division at the front.

Was engaged in the siege of Atlanta, and in the engagements of July 20th, 21st and 22d lost 101 men, killed and wounded—Captain Samuel Haynie being among the killed. After a few days' rest at East Point, moved, October 4th, in pursuit of Hood, returning to Marietta, where the Second Brigade was doing garrison duty, on November 6th.

November 13th, moved to Atlanta, and, on 15th, commenced the Savannah campaign, Brigadier General Giles A. Smith commanding Division, and Colonel B. F. Potts commanding First Brigade, in which the regiment was serving; arrived at the fortifications of Savannah, December 10th. Lost 4 killed and 6 wounded, in its advance on the works, and, on the 21st, marched into the city.

January 4th, 1865, the Forty-first Illinois Volunteers—222 men and officers, Major Robert H. McFadden commanding—was consolidated with the Fifty-third, and, on the 6th, the Division embarked for Beaufort, South Carolina, and soon after moved to Pocotaligo.

On January 29th, commenced the Carolina campaign, Brigadier General B. F. Potts commanding Brigade. Moved, via Orangeburg, Columbia, Fayetteville and Cheraw, participating in the battle of Bentonville, March 20th and 21st, 1865, and marched to Goldsboro, Raleigh and Jones' Station; and, after Johnson's surrender, marched with the army to Washington, and participated in the grand review of May 24th.

June 6th, moved to Louisville, Kentucky, and, July 22d, was mustered out of service by Lieutenant Robert M. Woods, A. C. M., and moved to Chicago, Illinois. July 28th, received final payment and discharge.

' HISTORY OF FIFTY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

The Fifty-fourth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Dubois, Anna, Illinois, by Colonel Thomas W. Harris, in November, 1861, as a part of the "Kentucky Brigade." It was mustered into United States' service, February 18th, 1862.

February 24th, 1862, ordered to Cairo, Illinois. March 14th, moved to Columbus, Kentucky. Three companies were stationed at Humboldt, Tennessee, during the fall of 1862, and, December 18th, the regiment was ordered to Jackson, Tennessee. December 20th, marched to Lexington, Tennessee, and returned on the 22d. 24th, marched to Britton's Lane and Toon's Station, returning December 28th. Meantime General Forrest captured detachments of the regiment, stationed on the railroad, and destroyed nearly all the records. The balance of the records were lost by the Quartermaster's Department, in transit from Columbus to Jackson. Remained at Jackson, with two companies at Medon Station, and two at Toon's, during January, February and March, 1863. In April, went to Corinth, and returned.

Left Jackson for Vicksburg, as part of the Third Brigade, Second Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, Brigadier General Nathan Kimball commanding Division, May 30th, 1863. June 2d, arrived at Haines' Bluff, on Yazoo river. Was on the extreme left of Sherman's army, on the Big Black, confronting Johnson's army, on the Canton road.

July 24th, 1863, ordered to Helena, as a part of General Steele's expedition against Little Rock, Arkansas. August 13th, marched, and, September 10th, arrived at Little Rock. October 15th, moved to Benton and Rockport, and returned.

January, 1864, three-fourths of the regiment re-enlisted, as veteran volunteers, and were mustered February 9th, 1864. Left for Mattoon, Illinois, for veteran furlough, March 28th. Veteran furlough having expired, the regiment re-assembled at Mattoon. The same day an organized gang of Copperheads, led by Sheriff O'Hair, attacked some men of the regiment at Charleston, killing Major Shubal York, Surgeon, and four privates, and wounding Colonel G. M. Mitchell. One hour later the regiment arrived from Mattoon and occupied the town, capturing some of the most prominent traitors.

April 12th, moved to Cairo. 14th, to Columbus. 16th, to Paducah. Left Paducah, 22d, and arrived at Little Rock, 30th.

May 18th, left for Brownsville. Moved, 19th, in pursuit of General Shelby, and arrived at Little Rock, 30th. June 25th, moved to Duvall's Bluff, and thence to Clarendon. Fought Shelby on the 26th. Returned on the 29th. August 5th, assigned to guard 16 miles Memphis and Little Rock railroad, having five stations, with two companies at each. August 24th, was attacked by Shelby, with 4000 men and 4 pieces artillery, and one station captured. Six companies were concentrated at a station, by Colonel Mitchell, and fought five hours, when their hay breast-works, being burned by the enemy's shell, they were driven out and captured by detail. Loss, Lieutenant Thomas P. James and 13 men killed, and 35 wounded. Companies F and H, at a distant station, were not attacked. Were paroled at Jacksonport, Arkansas, and arrived at Benton Barracks, Missouri, September 9th, 1864.

The regiment was exchanged December 5th, 1864, and arrived at Hickory Station, on Memphis and Little Rock railroad, January 18th, 1865, and remained as railroad guard until June 6th, 1865. Arrived at Pine Bluff, June 9th, 1865. Marched, August 18th, and arrived at Fort Smith, Arkansas, August 30th. October 4th, marched, and arrived at Little Rock, October 6th.

Mastered out October 15th, 1865. Arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, October 26th, and was discharged.

Since the organization the regiment has had 1342 enlisted men and 71 commissioned officers.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The Fifty-fifth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Douglas, Chicago, Illinois, and mustered into the United States' service October 31st, 1861.

November 9th, left Camp Douglas, by rail, for Alton, Illinois, and, on the evening of the 10th, left for St. Louis, by steamer. Remained at Camp Benton until January 12th, 1862, when it was ordered to Paducah, Kentucky, by boat. Arrived at Paducah, January 22d, and remained there until March 8th, when it embarked on steamer, for Tennessee river.

On the morning of March 15th, marched out with expedition, from a point some fourteen miles above Pittsburg Landing, for the surprise and overthrow of Corinth; but, high water defeated the movement, the expedition was re-embarked and moved down to Pittsburg Landing, and was soon in camp, east of Shiloh Church—the Fifty-fifth being on the left of the Union line. Colonel David Stuart being in command of Second Brigade, composed of Seventy-first and Fifty-fourth Ohio and Fifty-fifth Illinois, the command of the regiment devolved upon Lieutenant Colonel O. Malmberg.

The opening of the battle, Sunday morning, found the regiment in position, with an effective force of 873 men. Colonel Stuart was wounded, and nine of the line officers, three of whom died of wounds. 102 enlisted men were killed and mortally wounded, and 161 wounded and taken prisoners. The regiment was with the army in advance on Corinth, and at Russell's house. May 17th, lost, in skirmish, eight men—2 killed and 6 wounded.

Entered Corinth May 30th; thence, with General Sherman, westward, along Memphis and Charleston railroad, encamping for a few days at each of the following places: Chewalla, Lagrange, Lafayette and Moscow—marching with expeditions of two or three regiments from Lagrange and Moscow to Holly Springs, Mississippi. With Sherman's Division, marched into Memphis, July 21st, and remained doing camp duty until November 25th, when it marched with Sherman's Division for the Tallahatchie river. Was marched back to Memphis, to descend the Mississippi river to Vicksburg, with the new troops which arrived at Memphis. Embarked with the expedition, and 6 companies were engaged in the battle of Chickasaw Bayou December 29th, losing 1 Captain killed and 1 wounded, 1 enlisted man killed and 7 wounded.

During the early part of December Colonel Stuart had received his appointment as Brigadier General of Volunteers, and General M. L. Smith, commanding Division, being severely wounded in the battle of Chickasaw Bayou, General Stuart succeeded to the command.

The regiment re-embarked with army, and was present and under fire at battle of Arkansas Post, January 10th and 11th, 1863, losing three men wounded. Moved from Arkansas Post to Young's Point, Louisiana, where it was initiated into the ditching process.

April 30th, 1863, was with expedition in making feint upon Haines' Bluff, the extreme northern defense of Vicksburg.

May 16th, 1863, joined army in rear of Vicksburg, and, on 17th, was under fire at Champion Hills.

Participated in the assaults of 19th and 22d May, losing Lieutenant Levi Hill of Company A, killed, Colonel Malmberg and 2 line officers wounded, and 4 enlisted men killed and 33 wounded.

During the siege the regiment lost 1 man killed and 3 wounded. Was present at the surrender, July 4th. July 5th, marched with Sherman's expedition for Jackson, Mississippi. Participated in the siege, and lost 1 officer wounded, 1 enlisted man killed and 1 wounded.

Marched back near Vicksburg, and encamped on Black river, until September 27th, when it embarked at Vicksburg for Memphis, and moved out with the army, past Corinth, to Iuka. From Iuka was with reconnoissance to Tusculum. On 30th October, 1863, marched from East Point, on the Tennessee river, for Chattanooga. Arrived morning of the 21st November, and, during night of 23d, with rest of brigade, manned a fleet of ponton boats in North Chickamauga creek, four miles above Chattanooga, and in the midst of rain and intense darkness, with muffled oars, descended and crossed the Tennessee river, and captured the enemy's picket line.

November 25th, marched with Sherman to the relief of Knoxville, East Tennessee. Returned and encamped, successively, at Bridgeport, Bellefonte and Larkinsville, during the winter, and at Larkin's Landing in the spring, at which place the regiment veteranized, and returned to Illinois, on furlough of thirty days.

June 27th, 1864, participated in assault upon Kenesaw Mountain, Georgia, led by Captain Augustine, who was killed on the field. Loss of regiment was 2 officers killed and 3 wounded, 13 enlisted men killed and 30 wounded.

July 22d, the regiment was again engaged, with an effective force of 239 men, commanded by Captain F. H. Shaw, and came out of the engagement with 180 men—1 officer killed, 3 enlisted men killed, 12 wounded and 17 taken prisoners.

In the siege of Atlanta, the regiment lost 1 officer and 6 enlisted men killed, and 18 wounded.

August 31st, 1864, in battle of Jonesboro, Georgia, lost 23 men.

In a short campaign, of but little over two months, the regiment lost about one-half its number.

Joined in pursuit of Hood, through Northern Alabama, and returned to Atlanta, Georgia, where 162 non-veterans were discharged.

The regiment lost, near Bentonville, North Carolina, 1 man killed, 1 wounded, and 6 taken prisoners.

Marched with army, via Richmond, to Washington. Participated in the grand review, at Washington. Then moved to Louisville, Kentucky. Remained in camp but a few weeks, when moved, by steamer, to Little Rock, Arkansas, where it remained until August 14th, 1865, when it was mustered out of service. Left for Chicago, Illinois, August 19th, and arrived August 22d, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

During its term of service, the regiment marched 3374 miles.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The Fifty-seventh Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Chicago, Illinois, in December, 1861, by Colonel Silas D. Baldwin, and mustered into United States' service, December 26th, 1861. February 8th, 1862, ordered to Cairo, Illinois. Moved, by steamer, to Fort Donelson, and was engaged in the siege of that place, February 13th, 14th and 15th. From thence moved to Pittsburg Landing, and was engaged in the battle of Shiloh, April 6th and 7th.

Participated in the siege of Corinth, May, 1862, and in the battle of Corinth, October 3d and 4th, 1862. December 18th, moved to Lexington, Tennessee. Marched from thence toward Trenton, and to Henderson Station, on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, and afterwards moved to Corinth, forming a part of its garrison. Mustered out July 7th, 1865, at Louisville, Kentucky, and arrived at Chicago, July 9th, 1865, for final payment and discharge.

ORDER OF CONSOLIDATION.

HEADQUARTERS DETACHMENT ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
EASTPORT, MISS., January 23, 1865.

SPECIAL ORDER,)
No. 20. }

II. In compliance with General Order 86, War Department, series of 1863, and the third section of paragraph 1 of Circular 36, series of 1864, the veterans and recruits of the Fifty-eighth Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers will be consolidated into four companies, the first three of which shall be of the maximum strength, and the last to contain the remainder of the recruits and veterans of the regiment. The companies thus formed shall be designated by the first letter of the alphabet, as Battalion fifty-eighth Illinois Infantry. Sufficient camp and garrison equipage, arms and ordnance stores will be transferred, after consolidation, by the officers of the retained battalion, for the proper arming and equipping of the Battalion.

The following officers will be retained in the service with the battalion:

Major R. W. Healy; First Lieutenant Jonathan Kimball, Adjutant; Captain John Murphy; Captain Wash. D. Pullis; First Lieutenant Thomas Malloy; First Lieutenant John C. Parker; First Lieutenant Henry Smith; First Lieutenant John O. Kane; First Lieutenant Francis Widmer; First Lieutenant John M. Greene; Second Lieutenant George Cotton; Second Lieutenant Jacob Rippstein; Second Lieutenant Benjamin F. Atwater; Second Lieutenant Louis G. Stephenson.

Quadruplicate muster and descriptive rolls of the men to be transferred will be made, in accordance with Circular 64, War Department, series 1864.

Lieutenant George W. Fetterman, Fifteenth United States Infantry, Assistant Commissary of Musters of the Second Division, Detachment Army of the Tennessee, is charged with proper execution of this order.

By order of Major General A. J. SMITH.

J. HOUGH, A. A. G.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-EIGHTH INFANTRY.

The Fifty-eighth Illinois Infantry Volunteers was recruited at Camp Douglas, Chicago, Illinois, on the 11th of February, 1862. The Regiment left Camp Douglas, 887 strong, via the Illinois Central Railroad, for Cairo, Illinois, and reported to Brigadier General E. A. Paine, on the 12th. Was immediately furnished with arms and started from Cairo about midnight, with orders to proceed up the Ohio to Smithland, Kentucky · thence up the Cumberland to the vicinity of Fort Donelson, and report to the officer in charge of United States' forces. Arrived near Fort Donelson on the night of the 13th, and disembarked at daybreak, the 14th, having been assigned to the Third Brigade, Third Division, Colonel J. M. Thayer, First Nebraska, commanding.

Was temporarily assigned to the Second Division, General C. F. Smith commanding. On reporting to General Smith was assigned to the Brigade of Colonel Lauman, of the Seventh Iowa, and about 11 A. M., 14th, was in position, subject to considerable annoyance from the enemy's shell from the fort. In the afternoon two companies were deployed forward, and were briskly engaged for a short time. The men suffered exceedingly from the intense cold, no fires being allowed. The men were poorly prepared for the severe task imposed upon them—very few having seen service. The arms furnished them had been condemned and thrown aside by other regiments, and there was, in short, no confidence in them whatever. A few casualties occurred during the evening and night. On the morning of the 15th was re-assigned to the Third Brigade, Third Division. Was under fire a short time in the morning and in the evening. While attempting to secure an advanced and desirable position, was considerably cut up and thrown into confusion by a masked battery, upon which it approached to within 250 yards. For a few moments the ranks were considerably broken, the fire being entirely unexpected. By moving to the right, however, a short distance, it was protected from the sweeping fire of grape and cannister and re-formed, though then exposed to a murderous fire from the enemy's sharpshooters (who swarmed every tree) and skirmishers. Threw out skirmishers and drove back the enemy, and held the same. Night now closed around. When leaving the boats the Commissary was directed to bring to the Regiment rations for three days, they being unprovided with haversacks. In the many changes made, the Commissary Sergeant was unable to find the Regiment, and the men got no rations from Friday morning till Sunday morning, when they were procured from the Division Commissary at daybreak. On the morning of the 16th, Sunday, a white flag was seen waving over the fort, denoting its surrender.

The conduct of the men on this occasion was remarkable; raw men, without rations, and armed with the most worthless guns, they behaved as well as veterans of a hundred battles. Remained at Fort Donelson till the afternoon of Tuesday the 18th, when it moved out about 4 miles en route for Fort Henry. Camped for the night, and at 7 A. M., the next day resumed the march, and arrived at Fort Henry about noon. The roads were almost impassable, and consequently, the march was a most difficult one. Remained at Fort Henry till it embarked on the transport "Boston," and went up the Tennessee, with the troops commanded by Major General Smith. Arrived at Crump's Landing, about 4 miles above Savannah, and disembarked. Were at once moved out about 11 miles, into the neighborhood of Purdy. During the march it rained incessantly. Remained all night, returning to transports about 9 p. m. Men very much exhausted. Made a capture of a few rebel pickets. Remained on transport till morning, then disembarked, and went into camp about one half mile from the landing. Remained in camp for several days, drilling and completing organization of the regiment.

On the 29th of March embarked on steamer, and went up to Pittsburg Landing. Having been re-assigned to the Division of General C. F. Smith, was directed to report to Colonel Sweeny, of the Fifty-second Illinois, and was assigned to his Brigade. Went into camp quite near the river, not over one-third of a mile distant. Proceeded to change arms, secured transportation, and, in every way, completed the organization. On the morning of Sunday, the 6th of April, was awakened by heavy firing from the front; received orders to fall in and await further orders. About 8:30 a. m. was moved out one mile and a half, when orders were received from General Grant, in person, to take position across a road and hold that position. Immediately changed front and took the position, as directed. With some slight changes in position, mainly to the front and perpendicular to the front, it occupied the same ground all day. From the time of going into the fight, about 9 a. m., it was almost continually under fire. About 4 p. m., the right and left were giving way; but orders were imperative to hold the position. At length it became evident that unless some change was made the regiment would be taken prisoners. The regiment stood alone. Charge after charge was made by the stubborn and determined foe. To prevent being flanked, the order was given to fall back to the brow of a hill in the rear. Arrived there, found the enemy on our rear, (now front) on all sides, and the regiment exposed to a continuous fire. Disorganized portions of regiments were then in the utmost confusion. Orders were given to forward, and cut its way out; which could have been done with less loss than was suffered afterward in Southern prisons. About 2300 officers and men were captured in this fight by the enemy. The surrender did not all take place the same time. The surrender of the Fifty-eighth was made a few minutes before six. The loss in this engagement was frightful—amounting, in killed, wounded and prisoners, to upwards of 450. More than three-fourths of those taken prisoners were wounded, and only 218 were taken prisoners. The fact of the regiment being taken, was, undoubtedly, in a great measure, the salvation of the army. The right and left were entirely turned, and the enemy, on one wing only, needed to know of the success of the other, to press on; but while the centre held out they could not know their success. And when, at last, this small band was forced to succumb, night closed her mantle over the scene, and the haughty victors could pursue their advantage no further. Suffering all the privations and hardships which the rebels knew so well how to inflict on their helpless victims, for about seven months, the prisoners, or what was left of them, about 130 men, were paroled and allowed to go north. The few men left in camp were strengthened by men returned from hospital and sent from the state as recruits, and participated, with credit, in all the skirmishes and battles consequent on the siege of Corinth. Was engaged at the battle near Iuka, and lost 23 out of 31, in killed, wounded and prisoners.

In December, 1862, different detachments of the regiment were concentrated at Camp Butler, near Springfield, Illinois. Remained at Camp Butler, recruiting, and guarding rebel prisoners, until June, 1863, when the regiment was sent to Cairo, to garrison that post. Remained at that place till January 1st, 1864—in the meantime garrisoning Mound City, Illinois, and Paducah, Kentucky, for the greater part of the time. Some of the companies had a skirmish near Obion river, Kentucky, in October. Companies A and B garrisoned Mayfield, Kentucky, and had several slight encounters with rebels at that place.

On the 21st of January, embarked on transport, and went to Vicksburg, Mississippi. Was assigned to the First Brigade, Third Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, and, on the 3d of February, left Vicksburg, Mississippi, for Meridian, Mississippi. Was the first regiment to cross the Big Black, the first to engage the enemy at Queen's Hill, and the first infantry regiment to enter Meridian, Mississippi. During this expedition the men were seventy hours with but one day's rations, with which they marched forty-seven miles and destroyed seven miles of railroad. Returned to Vicksburg, and was sent, with the troops of General A. J. Smith, to participate in the Red River campaign. Arrived at Simmsport on the evening of the 12th of March. Disembarked, to cook, etc.

On the morning of the 13th, moved out from Simmsport about five miles, and took possession of two field works, which the rebels evacuated on the approach of the regiment. Returned to the boats in the evening, and at eight o'clock, the same night, started for Fort De Russey. Arrived at the fort, which it invested, about 4 P. M., on the 14th. A sanguinary struggle ensued; but, after a stubborn resistance, the enemy surrendered. The colors of the Fifty-eighth were the first planted on the works. The boats having come up, the troops were embarked and proceeded to Alexandria. After great and unnecessary delay at Alexandria, moved up the river (by land about twenty miles, the remainder by water) to Grand Ecore; there disembarked, and remained until the 7th of April, when the army of General Smith moved out on the Shreveport road, preceded two days by the Army of the Gulf. During the afternoon of the 8th, heavy firing was heard in the advance, and, on arrival at Pleasant Hill, learned that a severe engagement had taken place, in which the troops of General Banks had been signally defeated, and were then falling back. A council of war having been held, it was decided to give the enemy battle, and early on the following day the lines were formed. About 4 P. M. the rebels, flushed with the victory of the previous day, and heavily re-enforced by fresh troops from Texas, threw themselves upon the line. A brigade of Maine troops, on the right, was speedily driven from the ground. The Fifty-eighth occupied the extreme left of the line, and, as the brigade of eastern troops gave way, charged on the enemy, and poured upon them an enfilading and rear fire, which at once turned their flank. Following up this advantage, the regiment captured over five hundred prisoners, and recaptured from the enemy a battery belonging to the First United States Artillery, which had been taken from General Banks' troops. In this engagement the loss was very heavy. The utmost gallantry was shown, both by officers and men; and to the Fifty eighth is due the credit of having given the first check to the foe, and of taking five-sixths of the prisoners captured during the engagement. Many of the prisoners here taken were the same the regiment guarded in Camp Butler. Though the enemy was most signally defeated, the command was ordered to retreat, and at 3 o'clock, A. M., of the 10th, the army fell back, leaving the dead and wounded on the field, to be cared for by an enemy who was then some sixteen miles distant, retreating as rapidly as possible. Reached Grand Ecore on the 12th, and went into camp.

Mustered out at Montgomery, Alabama, April 1st, 1866, and ordered to Springfield Illinois, for final payment and discharge.

*Commissioned by Governor of Missouri. Regiment formerly known as the Ninth Missouri.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-NINTH INFANTRY.

The Ninth Regiment Infantry Missouri Volunteers was organized at St. Louis, Missouri, September 18th, 1861, by Colonel John C. Kelton, formerly Captain United States army. The companies composing the regiment had been raised in the state of Illinois, and mustered in at sundry times, in July, August and September, and Companies A, B and C, under Captain Clayton Hale, had been on duty at Cape Girardeau since August 6th.

September 21st, 1861, ordered to Jefferson City. 30th, moved to Booneville, and was brigaded with Thirty-seventh Illinois Infantry, Fifth Iowa Infantry, First Kansas Infantry, and Davidson's Illinois Battery. Colonel J. C. Kelton, Ninth Missouri, commanding Brigade, Brigadier General John Pope commanding Division. October 13th, marched, via Syracuse, to Otterville, arriving 17th. 21st, marched, via Warsaw and Humansville, to Springfield, arriving November 3d. November 9th, marched toward Syracuse, arriving 17th.

November 20th, Colonel Worthington, Fifth Iowa Infantry, took command of brigade. December 7th, moved to Lamine bridge, Colonel Julius White taking command of the Brigade.

December 15th, 1861, moved to Georgetown, Missouri. 23d, returned to Lamine bridge. January 1st, P. Sidney Post was commissioned Major, by Governor Gamble. January 25th, moved, via Syracuse, Tipton, Lebanon, arriving at Springfield, Missouri. February 14th, marched in pursuit of the enemy to Cassville. 19th, camped at Sugar creek. 20th, to Osage Springs.

February 12th, 1862, by an order of the War Department, the Ninth Missouri Volunteers was changed to the Fifty-ninth Illinois Volunteer Infantry. February 22d, moved to Cross Hollows. March 6th, moved to Pea Ridge. On the 7th of March, the Division of Brigadier General Jeff. C. Davis, of which the Fifty-ninth formed a part, fought the enemy all day. Major P. Sidney Post was severely wounded. 8th, moved to re-enforce Carr and Asboth, who had been forced to fall back, and were soon engaged. Lieutenant Colonel Frederick was severely wounded, and Captain Hale commanded the regiment during the fight. March 10th, moved to Sugar creek. 15th, Cross Timbers. April 1st, Colonel Kelton having resigned, Major Post was commissioned Colonel. April 6th, marched to Cassville, Missouri, and to Forsythe, April 10th. 15th, marched to Bull creek. 20th, marched eastward, arriving at Westplains, 28th. Captain Ellett, three lieutenants and fifty men of the Fifty-ninth were ordered to report for duty, to Colonel Charles Ellett's Ram Fleet. The Division arrived at Cape Girardeau, Missouri, May 20th, and embarked for Hamburg Landing, Tennessee. 27th, moved toward Farrington, Tennessee. 28th, was placed in reserve on left of General Pope's army. After evacuation of Corinth, pursued the retreating enemy as far as Booneville, and returned to Clear creek, near Corinth. June 27th, marched toward Holly Springs. Marched to Ripley, Mississippi, and afterwards returned to Jacinto. August 5th, moved to Bay Springs, Mississippi, and had a skirmish with the enemy's cavalry. Arrived at Iuka, 8th. 18th, crossed the Tennessee, at Eastport, and camped at Waterloo. Colonel Post took command of Brigade and Brigadier General Robert B. Mitchell of the Division. Arrived at Florence, Alabama, August 24th. Thence marched, via Lawrenceburg, Mt. Pleasant, Columbia, to Franklin, Tennessee. Thence to Murfreesboro, arriving September 1st, 1862.

September 3d, commenced the northward march with General Buell's army, arriving at Louisville, Kentucky, September 26th.

October 1st, the Seventy-fourth and Seventy-fifth Illinois were brigaded with Twenty-second Indiana and Fifty-ninth Illinois, forming Thirtieth Brigade, Army of the Ohio, and was assigned to Ninth Division, Brigadier General Robert B. Mitchell, Third Army Corps, Major General Gilbert. Moved, via Bardstown, in pursuit of Bragg. October 7th, met the enemy at Chaplin Hills, near Perryville—Major Winter commanding regiment, and Colonel Gooding, Twenty-second Indiana, commanding Brigade. October 8th, was heavily engaged, losing 112 killed and wounded, out of 361 men going into action.

10th, pursued the enemy. 14th, had a severe skirmish at Lancaster, Kentucky. 15th, arrived at Crab Orchard. Arrived at Nashville, November 7th, and camped at Edgefield, near which the regiment remained during the year.

VETERAN ORGANIZATION.

The Fifty-ninth Regiment Illinois Veteran Infantry was attached to the First Brigade, First Division, Twentieth Army Corps, and on the 25th of October, 1862, was in camp eight miles from Nashville. The Brigade consisted of the Fifty-ninth, Seventy-fourth and Seventy-fifth Illinois Infantry and Twenty-second Indiana Infantry and Fifth Wisconsin Battery, and was commanded by Colonel P. Sidney Post; the Division, by General Jeff. C. Davis, and the Corps, by General A. M. McCook. On the 25th of December, Colonel Post's Brigade, to which was added the Twenty-first Illinois Infantry, made a reconnaissance towards Franklin, and skirmished with the enemy all day. The Fifty-ninth pressed down the road from Brentwood towards Nolensville. On the 26th, the Army of the Cumberland was put in motion for the Stone River campaign, Colonel Post's Brigade taking the advance towards Nolensville. The Fifty-ninth was deployed as skirmishers, and drove the enemy before them nine miles, until he was found, in force, at Nolensville. The regiment took part in the attack upon Nolensville, from which the enemy was driven in confusion; and, also, was in the combined assault of Colonel Post's and Colonel Carlisle's Brigade upon Knob Gap. On the 27th, the enemy was driven to Triune, where the Regiment lay until the 29th, when it marched toward Murfreesboro. On the 30th, the enemy was found, in force, and entrenched. An unsuccessful attempt was made to drive him from his position, and the regiment lay, during the night of the 30th, within a few hundred yards of the enemy's works. Early on the morning of the 31st, the enemy turned the right flank of the Twentieth Corps. The Fifty-ninth changed front to the rear, and supporting the Fifth Wisconsin Battery, for a long time held the enemy in check, and, when withdrawn, brought with it the guns of the battery, from which the horses had all been killed. It was then put in position on the Murfreesboro pike, which it held until January 2d, when Colonel Post's Brigade crossed Stone River, to the extreme left of the army, to drive back the enemy, who had succeeded in turning the left flank. The regiment forded the river, swollen by recent rains, and assisted in driving back the enemy, and held their position in the extreme front, until the morning of January 4th, when it re-crossed Stone River, and the enemy evacuated Murfreesboro.

June 23d, the Tullahoma campaign was commenced. Colonel Post's Brigade moved to Liberty Gap, and engaged the enemy, from the 24th to the 27th; thence pressed the enemy to Winchester.

August 17th, Colonel Post's Brigade left Winchester, and, during the night of the 17th, and the day of 18th, was engaged in hauling a train of 200 wagons up the Cumberland mountains. On the 20th, reached Crow creek, near Stevenson. August 30th, the regiment left Stevenson, crossed the Tennessee river, and ascended the Sand mountain. September 2d, marched to Lookout Valley, and, on the 4th, reached Winston's. September 18th, Colonel Post's Brigade marched 26 miles to Stevens' Gap; thence, to Crawfish Springs. Colonel Post's Brigade was thus in the rear of the rebel army. Leaving Crawfish Springs, the regiment arrived at Chattanooga, Tennessee, on 22d September. Distance marched from Stevenson, 122 miles.

During the siege of Chattanooga, the Fifty-ninth was constantly under fire of the enemy's batteries. On the 21st of October, the Army of the Cumberland was re-organized, and the Fifty-ninth became a part of the Third Brigade, First Division, Fourth Army Corps.

October 25th, the regiment, with the Brigade, was ordered to Whitesides, Tennessee, a distance of 65 miles.

November 23d, regiment started on the Lookout Mountain campaign. On the 25th, the regiment led the Brigade in the assault on Mission Ridge, from which the enemy was driven in confusion. Pursued him 15 miles, to Ringgold, where it again attacked him and drove him from his position.

November 30th, regiment was sent to the battlefield of Chickamauga, where it was occupied the 1st day of December in burying the dead left upon the field in the battle of September 19th and 20th.

December 22d, regiment returned to Whitesides.

January 12th, 1864, the regiment was mustered as a veteran organization, and, on the 27th of January, marched to Chattanooga, and, on the 6th of February, started for Springfield, Illinois, which place it reached on the 10th.

March 19th, regiment, re-organized, left Springfield, via Nashville and Chattanooga, and arrived at Cleveland, Tennessee, 197 miles from Nashville.

May 3d, the Atlanta campaign was commenced. On the 7th, regiment supported the attack upon Tunnel Hill, and, on the 8th, commenced the attack upon Rocky-Faced Ridge, where it was constantly engaged, until the 13th, when the enemy abandoned his position.

On the 14th and 15th, regiment was warmly engaged at Resaca. On the 16th, again came up with the enemy, at Adairsville; thence, to the time of crossing the Chattahoochee, the regiment was engaged at Kingston, Dallas, Ackworth, Pine Top, Kenesaw Mountain, Smyrna Camp Meeting Ground, besides innumerable skirmishes.

July 12th, the regiment crossed the Chattahoochee, and presented itself before the fortifications around Atlanta; and, from that time until the 25th of August, it assailed the works of the enemy, and was under fire night and day.

On the 18th of August, the Fifty-ninth was assigned to the Second Brigade, Third Division, Fourth Army Corps, and was commanded by Colonel P. Sidney Post. On the 25th, the regiment marched around Atlanta, with the army, in the direction of Jonesboro. On the 28th and 29th, the regiment was engaged in skirmishing with the enemy at Red Oak. On the 31st, it reached the enemy's line of communication, and destroyed the railroad at Rough-and-Ready.

On the 2d of September, the regiment was engaged in the battle of Lovejoy Station.

On the 6th, the regiment started for Atlanta, and encamped on the 8th, between Atlanta and Decatur, where it remained until the 2d of October, when General Hood's army, having passed around Atlanta, commenced destroying the railroad between Atlanta and Chattanooga.

October 3d, regiment crossed the Chattahoochie, and came in the presence of the enemy, at Pine Top. The pursuit was continued through Kingston, Rome, Resaca, and across the mountains to Snake Creek Gap, and to Galesville, which place it reached on the 20th. On the 27th, the regiment started for Chattanooga, and left Chattanooga on the 30th, for Athens, Tennessee.

November 1st, marched to Pulaski, and commenced erecting fortifications. November 23d, Pulaski was evacuated, and, on the 24th, commenced skirmishing with the enemy at Columbia. November 27th, crossed Duck river. November 29th, Colonel Post's Brigade moved up Duck river, and attacked the Confederate army in the flank, as it was marching toward Spring Hill. The fight continued all day, and, at night, the regiment marched 20 miles, and reached Spring Hill, on the morning of the 30th. Resting at Spring Hill but an hour, the regiment marched to Franklin, and, during the afternoon, the battle of Franklin was fought. On the morning of December 1st, regiment arrived at Nashville, and commenced fortifying the place.

December 15th, the battle of Nashville began. Colonel Post's Brigade assaulted Montgomery Hill, and in the language of General Thomas "took the initiative in the brilliant deeds of that day." The Fifty-ninth was in the first line of the assaulting column, and planted the first colors on the captured works. In the afternoon, it assaulted and carried the enemy's works, near the Hillsboro pike. December 16th, Colonel Post's Brigade made the memorable assault upon Overton's Hill. In this battle, the regiment lost, in killed and wounded one-third of its number engaged; among whom were nine officers, including Colonel Post, who was severely wounded with a grape shot. On the 17th, the regiment started in pursuit of the flying foe; which was continued to the Tennessee river, and, on the 3d of January, it camped at Huntsville, Alabama.

For gallant and distinguished services at the battles at Nashville, Colonel Post had been appointed Brigadier General of United States Volunteers, by brevet.

January 31st, 1865, regiment moved to Nashville, returning to Huntsville, February 7th.

March 15th, moved to Strawberry Plains, East Tennessee; thence, to Greenville, Tennessee.

April 6th, regiment went to Warm Springs, North Carolina, returning to Greenville on the 10th.

April 23d, left Greenville for Nashville.

June 16th, the regiment left Nashville, for New Orleans, Louisiana, and, on the 9th of July, arrived at Indianola, Texas; thence, it marched to San Antonio, Texas, and was stationed at New Braunfels, Texas, until the 8th of December, when it was mustered out of service, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, for final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF SIXTIETH INFANTRY.

The Sixtieth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Dubois, Anna, Illinois, February 17th, 1862, by Colonel Silas C. Toler.

February 22d, ordered to Cairo, Illinois. March 14th, moved to Island No. 10. After the surrender, returned to Columbus, and to Cairo. May 7th, moved up Tennessee river to Hamburg Landing, arriving on the 12th. Was assigned to Second Brigade First Division, Army of the Mississippi, Colonel Charles M. Lynn, Tenth Michigan, commanding Brigade.

Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, May, 1862, and in pursuit of the enemy beyond Booneville, Mississippi. Camped at Big Springs, 3 miles from Corinth. July 21st, ordered to Tuscumbia, Alabama, ordered to Nashville, August 28th, and arrived September 12th. Remained during the siege, all communications being cut off until November 8th. On the 7th of November, was engaged in repelling the attack of General Morgan on Edgefield. December 12th, transferred to Second Brigade, Third Division, Fourth Army Corps.

January 5th, 1863, had a skirmish with Wheeler's Cavalry, between Nashville and Murfreesboro, repulsing them. After the battle of Murfreesboro, returned to Nashville.

On the 2nd of March, Colonel Toler died.

July 20th, moved to Murfreesboro, Lieutenant Colonel W. B. Anderson commanding. On the 26th of August, moved, via Columbia, Athens, Huntsville and Stevenson, arriving at Dallas, Tennessee, November 12th. The regiment was here assigned to First Brigade, Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, and participated in the battle of Chattanooga, and the memorable march to Knoxville, Tennessee. The ragged and footsore regiment arrived again at Chattanooga, December 24th, and went into winter quarters at Rossville. February 22d, 1864, three-fourths of the regiment having re-enlisted as veteran volunteers, were mustered. 26th, took part in the reconnoissance toward Dalton, Georgia, which resulted in the battle of Buzzard Roost. In this battle, the Sixtieth lost heavily, 42 being killed and wounded.

March 6th, ordered to Illinois, on veteran furlough. The men were furloughed from Centralia, Illinois, March 15th, 1864.

On the 18th of April, 1864, moved, via Louisville, Nashville and Chattanooga, to Rossville. On May 2d, commenced Atlanta campaign, and participated in the battles of Ringgold, Dalton, Resaca, Rome, Dallas, New Hope Church, Kenesaw Mountain, Nickajack, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta and Jonesboro. The regiment was complimented by Division and Corps commanders, for its gallantry at Jonesboro, September 1st.

Remained in Camp at Atlanta until September 29th, 1864, when it moved, by rail, via Athens, Alabama, to Florence. Had a skirmish with the enemy, driving him across the Tennessee, at Florence. October 10th, moved to Chattanooga. October 18th, marched from Lafayette, Georgia, to Galesville, Alabama, and from thence to Atlanta, via Rome, Kingston, Carterville and Marietta.

November 16th, marched from Atlanta, on the Augusta road, via Covington, Milledgeville, Sandersville, Louisville, and, thence, to Savannah, Georgia, arriving at the outer defences December 11th, 1864. During the march foraged liberally off the country, and captured many mules and horses. Many negroes left the plantation and followed us.

December 21st, 1864, marched into Savannah. Colonel W. B. Anderson having resigned, Lieutenant Colonel G. W. Evans took command.

January 20th, broke camp at Savannah, and marched, via Sister's Ferry, Barnwell, Lexington, Columbia, Winnsboro, Chesterfield, and Hanging Rock, South Carolina, and Lafayetteville, Averysboro, and Bentonville, to Goldsboro, North Carolina. Participated in the battle of Averysboro, March 16th, and Bentonville 19th, 20th and 21st March. The battle of the 19th was as severe as any in which the Regiment was ever engaged—at one time it being surrounded on all sides, but behaved gallantly.

Marched to Raleigh, April 10th, and remained there until Johnson's surrender, when it marched to Richmond, Virginia, and Washington City, arriving May 19th. Participated in the grand review, May 24th, 1865.

June 12th, proceeded to Louisville, Kentucky, and there performed duty as provost guards, headquarters Fourteenth Army Corps, until July 31st, when it was mustered out of United States' service by Captain R. Papst, A. C. M. Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, and proceeded to Camp Butler, Illinois, for final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF SIXTY-FIRST INFANTRY.

The Sixty-first Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Carrollton, Illinois, by Colonel Jacob Fry. Three full Companies were mustered February 5th, 1862. February 21st, the regiment being still incomplete, moved to Benton Barracks, Missouri. Here a sufficient number of recruits joined to make nine full companies.

March 26th, 1862, embarked for Pittsburg Landing. On arriving, March 30th, were assigned to Brigade of Colonel Madison Miller, Eighteenth Missouri, Division of Brigadier General B. M. Prentiss.

April 6th, 400 men were formed into line, in time to receive the first assault of the enemy, and stood their ground for an hour and a quarter, and until every other regiment in the Division had given way, and were then ordered to fall back. Upon retiring from this position, the regiment was complimented by General Prentiss for its gallant stand. It was then ordered to support a battery of the First Missouri Artillery, and, at 1 o'clock P. M., ordered to the support of General Hurlbut—coming to his support at a very critical moment, and maintaining his line until relieved by a fresh regiment, and when its ammunition was entirely exhausted. When the second line was broken, the regiment retired in good order and took a position supporting the siege guns.

April 7th, was in reserve. Loss, 80 killed, wounded and missing, including 3 commissioned officers.

April 18th, was assigned to First Brigade Third Division, Colonel L. F. Ross, Seventeenth Illinois, commanding Brigade.

April 28th, Major Ohr took command of the regiment, Colonel Fry being absent.

May 2d, Brigadier General John A. Logan took command of the Division, and was succeeded, May 6th, by Brigadier General Judah.

June 6th, moved to Bethel, Tennessee, Colonel Haynie, Forty-eighth Illinois, taking command of Brigade. 16th, moved to Jackson. 17th, was in Ross' Brigade of Logan's (First) Division, and moved to Bolivar, Tennessee.

September 16th, 1862, moved, via Jackson and Corinth, to Brownsville, Mississippi, on Memphis and Corinth railroad. Returned to Bolivar, after the battle of Iuka, September 25th.

October 10th, Brigadier General M. Brayman was assigned to the Brigade, and Colonel Fry to command of post at Trenton, where, on the 20th December, he was taken prisoner by General Forrest, and paroled. The Brigade remained at Bolivar, General Brayman commanding post.

December 18th, 1862, 240 men of the regiment proceeded, by rail, to Jackson, and, moving out the Lexington road, under command of Colonel Engleman, with Forty-third Illinois and a detachment of cavalry took position at Salem Cemetery, and, on the morning of 19th, repulsed the enemy under Forrest, with three pieces of artillery, and on receiving re-enforcements from General Sullivan, pursued the enemy some distance ; after which, returned to Bolivar.

May 31st, the regiment being in the Sixteenth Army Corps, moved, via rail, to Memphis, and embarked for Vicksburg. June 3d, arrived at Chickasaw Bayou. 4th, accompanied expedition up Yazoo river, landing at Satartia. Moved four miles out, to Mechanicsburg, capturing some prisoners. 6th, moved to Haines' Bluff. June 20th, moved to Snyder's Bluff.

Lieutenant Colonel Fry having resigned, Major Ohr was promoted Lieutenant Colonel.

July 17th, 1863, moved to Black River Bridge. 22d, returned to Snyder's Bluff. On 27th, moved to Helena, Arkansas. August 13th, in Major General Steele's army, Colonel McLain, Forty-third Indiana, commanding Division, and Colonel Graves, Twelfth Michigan, commanding Brigade. Moved, via Clarendon, Duvall's Bluff, Brownsville, to Little Rock, skirmishing some with the enemy after leaving Brownsville, and arriving at Little Rock, September 10th. Remained at Little Rock.

March 20th, 1864, company K joined the regiment, from Camp Butler, Illinois. Regiment mustered out, September 8th, 1865, at Nashville, Tennessee, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, for final payment and discharge, September 12th, 1865.

HISTORY OF SIXTY-SECOND INFANTRY.

The Sixty-second Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Dubois, Anna, Illinois, April 10th, 1862, by Colonel James M. True.

April 22d, 1862 ordered to Cairo, Illinois. May 7th, to Paducah. June 7th, to Columbus; and, thence, in Colonel Ditzler's Brigade, to Tennessee, where it was stationed on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, near Crockett Station, with headquarters at Kenton.

December 2d, 1862, moved to Jackson, Tennessee, and, thence, to Grand Junction and Holly Springs. 13th, at midnight, started for Jackson, leaving about 200 men sick and on duty at Holly Springs. About two miles from Jackson, found the railroad bridge on fire. Marched to Jackson, and four miles beyond, skirmishing with the enemy. 20th, followed Forrest 20 miles, and, 21st, returned to Jackson. 23d, marched to Mendon Station, Denmark, and Toon's Station, on Mississippi Central railroad, and returned to Jackson 27th.

December 20th, Van Dorn captured Holly Springs, paroling 170 men of the Sixty-second, including the Major and 3 Lieutenants, and destroying all the records, papers and camp equipage of the regiment. The regiment moved from Jackson, in Colonel M. K. Lawler's Brigade, December 31st, 1862, in pursuit of Forrest, and reached Tennessee river, opposite Clifton, January 3d, 1863; but finding the enemy well posted on the opposite bank, with heavy artillery, returned to Jackson, January 8th.

On the 18th of April, 1863, the regiment was brigaded with Fiftieth Indiana, Twenty-seventh Iowa, and First West Tennessee, in Second Brigade, Third Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, Colonel James M. True commanding Brigade. On the 18th, moved to Lagrange. June 8th, First West Tennessee was taken out of the Brigade, and Forty-ninth Illinois and Vaughn's Battery, Illinois Light Artillery, assigned in its place.

August 19th, ordered to Memphis, and, 24th, embarked for Helena, and, on the 28th, took up the line of march for Little Rock.

September 2d, overtook General Steele's army at Brownsville, and, on the 10th, met the enemy, near Little Rock, driving him back, and compelling the evacuation of the place.

January 9th, 1864, the regiment re-enlisted, as a veteran organization. April 25th, moved to Pine Bluff, where it remained until August 12th, 1864.

August 12th, started to Illinois, for veteran furlough. After the expiration of the veteran furlough, returned to Pine Bluff, arriving November 25th, 1864.

The non-veterans of the regiment were ordered to Illinois, for muster-out. April 10th, 1865, the remaining veterans and recruits were consolidated into seven companies, and remained on duty at Pine Bluff, until July 28th, 1865, when it moved, by river, to Fort Gibson, Cherokee Nation, where it was stationed as a part of Brigadier General Bussey's command, in the District of the Frontier.

Mustered out at Little Rock, Arkansas, March 6, 1866, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, for final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF SIXTY-THIRD INFANTRY.

The Sixty-third Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Dubois, Anna, Illinois, in the month of December, 1861, by Colonel Francis Moro, and mustered into United States' service, April 10th, 1862.

Ordered to Cairo, April 27th; to Henderson, Kentucky, July 12th. Returned to Cairo, 22d. August 4th, moved to Jackson, Tennessee, and assigned to Fourth Brigade, Seventh Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, Colonel John D. Stevenson, Seventh Missouri Infantry, commanding Brigade, and Brigadier General John A. Logan commanding Division.

September 29th, Colonel Moro resigned, and Lieutenant Colonel McCown took command. November 10th, moved to Lagrange. 28th, moved in the advance against Pemberton, compelling his retreat to Grenada, Mississippi, and returned to Lagrange, January 10th, 1863.

January 25th, assigned to provisional Division of Brigadier General James C. Veatch.

May 10th, 1863, ordered to Vicksburg, Mississippi, and went on picket at Young's Point till May 21st, when it crossed the river at Warrenton, and completed the investment of the city on the extreme left.

May 24th, ordered to report to General Logan, on right centre, and on same night was relieved by the Forty-sixth Illinois Infantry, who lost five companies captured that night. 25th, reported to General Logan.

June 7th, was assigned to Mower's Brigade, Seventeenth Army Corps, and moved to Milliken's Bend, to protect that place. June 16th, participated in the fight and destruction of Richmond, Louisiana, and returned to Young's Point, where it remained until after the surrender, and went on post duty at Vicksburg, July 5th, 1863.

July 16th, 1863, assigned to First Brigade, Seventh Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, Colonel Jesse J. Alexander, Fifty-ninth Indiana, commanding Brigade, and Brigadier General John E. Smith commanding Division.

September 12th, moved to Helena, Arkansas. 28th, moved to Memphis. October 6th, moved toward Chattanooga. October 7th, Division assigned as Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps. November 16th, arrived at Bridgeport, Alabama. Arrived at Chattanooga, November 20th.

Participated in the battle of Mission Ridge, 23d and 24th November, 1863.

After pursuing the enemy to Ringgold, Georgia, returned to Bridgeport, Alabama, December 3d. December 21st, ordered to Huntsville, where it arrived 26th, and went into winter quarters.

January 1st, 1864, 272 men re-enlisted as veterans.

April 3d, ordered to Illinois, on veteran furlough. Arrived at Centralia, 10th. Left Centralia, the furloughs having expired, May 13th, and reported at Huntsville, 21st.

May 23d, ordered to Triana, on Tennessee river, and, June 15th, rejoined the command, at Huntsville. 22d, moved to Kingston, via Chattanooga. The regiment was assigned to railroad guard duty, till November 11th, when the command was ordered to join General Sherman.

November 15th, 1864, left Atlanta, and December 10th, arrived at the defenses of Savannah, participating in the attack on the Ogeechee canal. 12th, moved to Miller's Station, on the Gulf railroad, and kept up strong picket line on the approaches until December 21st, when the city was surrendered.

The Sixty-second was assigned to guard duty at Forts Wimberly, Beaulieu, Bonaventure and Rose Dew.

January 19th, 1865, started on trip through the Carolinas. The Brigade was forced to return to Savannah, from Sister's Ferry, on account of high water, and proceeded by water, to Beaufort, rejoining the Corps at Pocotaligo, South Carolina, January 30th. Participated in the battles and skirmishes of this famous campaign. Lost 1 officer and 25 men, by the explosion of arsenal at Columbia, South Carolina. Lost 5 men at Little Lynch's creek. Lost Lieutenant Colonel Isaminger, commanding Division Pioneer Corps, who was captured not over 300 yards from the head of the column, and several men captured at different times by the enemy's cavalry. Participated in the battle of Bentonville, North Carolina, March 21st, and entered Goldsboro, March 24th, 1865.

The regiment was complimented by the Inspector General of the Army of the Tennessee, for the appearance of the camp and soldierly bearing of the men. The non-veterans of the regiment were mustered out April 9th. 10th, moved to Raleigh; arriving 16th. April 25th, the Third Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, was discontinued and the regiment transferred to Second Brigade, Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, Brigadier General William H. Clark commanding Brigade, and Brevet Major General Corse, the Division.

Marched from Raleigh, April 29th, and arrived at Richmond, May 10th. Left Richmond, 13th, and arrived at Alexandria, 20th. Participated in the grand review at Washington, May 24th, and camped 3 miles north of the city. June 3d, moved, via Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, to Parkersburg, on the Ohio river, and thence to Louisville, Kentucky, arriving June, and camping at Woodlawn Race Course. July 13th, 1865, mustered out of United States' service, and left for Camp Butler, Illinois, where the regiment arrived July 16th, 1865.

HISTORY OF SIXTY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

The "First Battalion of Yates' Sharp Shooters" was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in the month of December, 1861, by Lieutenant Colonel D. E. Williams. It consisted of four companies—the last of which was mustered into the United States' service, December 16th, 1861. Two additional companies were mustered into service December 31st, with Fred. W. Matteson as Major. January 10th, 1862, the Battalion was ordered to Quincy, and went into barracks. Here it was armed. Moved to Cairo, February 16th, and, March 4th, moved, via Bird's Point, Charleston, Bertrand and Sykeston, to New Madrid, and was assigned to Morgan's Brigade, Payne's Division, Pope's command. On the evening of the 12th of March, companies A, D, E and F made a night attack on the enemy's right, driving his pickets and skirmishing heavily till midnight, drawing the attention of the enemy from the Tenth and Sixteenth Illinois, who were planting siege guns on the enemy's left. Was present at the bombardment of New Madrid, the next day, and, afterward, as support to Williams' siege guns, four miles below, where Pope effected his crossing.

Under command of Major Matteson, moved with Pope's expedition against Fort Pillow, and returning, moved up Tennessee river, disembarking at Hamburg Landing, April 22d. Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, from that time till its evacuation, May 30th, being continually on skirmish and picket line. May 3d, the battalion was heavily engaged at Chambers' creek; but repulsed the enemy—the loss being 4 killed and 5 wounded. May 7th, in General Paine's reconnoissance, lost 2 men killed and 3 wounded. May 20th, the battalion entered Corinth, in time to see the enemy's rear guard leaving it. In the afternoon, took the advance in pursuit of the enemy, and came upon their rear at Tusculum creek, about dark, when a brisk skirmish ensued, continuing during the night and the next day. The pursuit was continued to Booneville, when the battalion returned. The battalion camped at Big Springs, 6 miles from Corinth.

General Rosecrans taking command of the Army of the Mississippi, the Sixty-fourth was detailed as headquarter guard, on which duty it remained until November following.

Lieutenant Colonel Williams left the battalion, on sick leave, May 17th, and never returned, being discharged September 11th.

Major Matteson commanded the battalion until August 8th, when he died in hospital. He was a gallant and much loved officer. Captain John Morrill of company A, took command, and was afterwards promoted to Lieutenant Colonel.

August 20th, moved to Iuka, Mississippi. In September, returned to Clear creek, and again moved on Iuka, via Jacinto. Was present in the battle of Iuka, but not engaged. September 20th, was in pursuit of the enemy. Returned to Corinth. The evening of October 3d, went into position, and was sent forward as skirmishers. On the morning of the 4th, the battalion met the first advance of the enemy, and was heavily engaged during the day, doing efficient and distinguished service. The Sixty-fourth lost, this day, 70 men killed, wounded and missing, including Captain David G. Grover, killed.

On November 27th, ordered on out-post duty, at Glendale, Mississippi, where the battalion erected fortifications and mounted two pieces artillery. While here, Captain James C. Cameron, Company A, raised the Second Alabama Cavalry, was commissioned Colonel, and was afterwards killed, while gallantly leading his regiment in a charge at Barton's Station, April 17th, 1863.

November 4th, 1863, the Sixty-fourth moved to Iuka, and thence to Pulaski, Tennessee, arriving November 11th.

On the 15th of January, 1864, over three-fourths of the battalion having re-enlisted, it moved north, for veteran furlough, arriving at Chicago, 22d. Was furloughed for 20 days, and re-assembled at Ottawa, February 14th. Four new companies, (G, H, I and K,) having been recruited by Captain Manning, were added to the battalion, making a full regiment. Lieutenant Colonel Morrill was made Colonel, Captain M. W. Manning, Lieutenant Colonel, and Captain Thompson, Major.

March 17th, 1864, the regiment left Ottawa, and, on the 23d, arrived at Decatur, Alabama, and was assigned to the First Brigade, Fourth Division Sixteenth Army Corps. On May 4th, moved to Chattanooga, and joined General Sherman's army. Arrived before Resaca, May 9th, and companies F and A deployed, driving the enemy into their works. In the night, marched to Snake Creek Gap. On 13th, advanced to Resaca, and was engaged till 16th, when the enemy retired. Arrived at Kingston, May 20th, at Van Wert, on 25th, and at Dallas, 27th. On this day Companies A and F, on skirmish line, lost 14 men killed and wounded. Until the 31st, the regiment was each day engaged at Dallas. June 1st to 4th, moved to the left. On the 5th, skirmished with the enemy near New Hope Church. On 6th, moved to Ackworth; 10th, to Big Shanty; 11th, advanced to foot of Kenesaw Mountain. Until 26th, was engaged at Kenesaw. On the 27th June, the Sixty-fourth was in the advance line of the assaulting forces, and was heavily engaged, losing, in killed and wounded, 57 men, among whom was Adjutant W. H. Hinckley, killed. July 3d, when the enemy fell back the flag of the Sixty-fourth was the first on Kenesaw. July 4th, the entire regiment was on the skirmish line, and drove the enemy two miles, losing 25 killed and wounded. On 7th, had a skirmish on the Chattahoochie. On the 10th, crossed the river, and fortified. On 17th, advanced to Nance's creek—the regiment being deployed, drove the enemy a mile and a half. On 18th, marched toward Decatur, and on 19th engaged the enemy, losing 5 men, Surgeon J. T. Stewart being wounded. On the 22d, marched to the support of Seventeenth Corps, and was heavily engaged, charging the enemy three times, and capturing forty prisoners and one battle flag, and recaptured the field glass and papers of Major General McPherson, who had been killed and robbed by the enemy. The loss of the Regiment in this action was 15 killed, 67 wounded and 7 missing. On 28th, the Regiment was hotly engaged, and repulsed several charges of the enemy. From this time, until August 26th, was engaged in the siege of Atlanta. On 26th moved out of the works, down the Sandtown road, and marched all night, and 27th and 28th, struck the Montgomery railroad, and, 29th, was engaged tearing up the track. On 30th, marched to Macon railroad. On September 2d, passed through Jonesboro and Lovejoy. On 8th, went into camp at East Point.

On September 23d, the Division was transferred to Seventeenth Corps. The regiment was now in First Brigade, First Division, Seventeenth Corps, Brigadier General J. W. Fuller commanding Brigade, Major General J. A. Mower commanding Division, and Major General F. P. Blair commanding Corps.

October 1st, marched to Fairburn, on a reconnoissance. On 3d, returned. On 4th, commenced march after Hood, moving via Atlanta, crossed Chattahoochie, at midnight, and marched all night in the rain and camped in works in Marietta. Thence, moved northward, passing through Kingston, near Rome, to Adairsville, and arrived at Resaca 15th. In the night, Captain Conger and Company A moved, in advance of a reconnoissance party, to Snake Creek Gap. Captain Conger was mortally wounded and two men severely wounded. October 16th, the whole Regiment on skirmish line, advanced on the Gap, driving the enemy in confusion. Marching, via Lafayette and Summerville, arrived at Gaylersville, Alabama, October 21st.

On 29th, marched, via Cave Springs, to Cedartown. Had a skirmish with the enemy's cavalry. Moved to Smyrna Camp Ground, on 5th November. On 13th, moved to Atlanta, and, on 15th, started on the "march to the sea." On December 9th, skirmished with the enemy at Poole's Station. On 10th, invested the city of Savannah. On 11th December, skirmished with the enemy all day. On the 16th, marched to King's Bridge, on the Ogeechee. On 17th, moved south, and, on 19th, reached Doctortown, on Gulf railroad and Altamaha river. After destroying railroad, returned to Savannah, December 23d.

January 3d, 1865, embarked at Thunderbolt for Beaufort, South Carolina. On 13th, left Beaufort, and, 15th, arrived at Pocotaligo. On January 20th and 25th, the Sixty-fourth was engaged in demonstrations against Salkahatchie and Combahee ferry. January 31st, moved from Pocotaligo. On February 3d, crossed the Salkahatchie, in face of the enemy, fighting in cold water three and four feet deep, and gained a footing on the opposite side, when the enemy fled. The command then marched, via Midway and Orangeburg, to Columbia. Thence, via Winnsboro, Cheraw, Laurel Hill, to Fayetteville, North Carolina. Arrived at Bentonville, 20th March, and the entire Regiment was on the skirmish line, 21st, capturing 12 prisoners, 35 horses, and 1 caisson, and General Johnson's headquarters, losing 13 men killed and wounded. On 24th March, camped at Goldsboro.

Marched, April 10th. Arriving at Raleigh, 13th. On 26th, moved to Jones' Cross Roads. On 27th, returned to Raleigh, and on 30th, marched for Washington, arriving May 19th. Was in the grand review, May 24th. June 6th, moved for Louisville, Kentucky. On July 11th, was mustered out of service by Lieutenant Robert M. Woods, A. C. M., and on 14th, arrived at Chicago, Illinois, where the Regiment received final payment and discharge, July 18th, 1865.

Colonel John Morrill, afterwards breveted Brigadier General, commanded the Regiment until July 22d, 1864, when he was severely wounded; Lieutenant Colonel M. W. Manning, until November 12th, 1864, and Captain J. S. Reynolds, afterwards Lieutenant Colonel, and Brevet Brigadier General, from November 12th until its muster out.

HISTORY OF SIXTY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The Sixty-fifth Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers, known as the "Scotch Regiment," was organized at Camp Douglas, Chicago, Illinois, in the spring of 1862, by Colonel Daniel Cameron, jr., and mustered into United States' service May 1st, 1862.

The Regiment was ordered to Martinsburg, Virginia, and, on its arrival, was brigaded with One Hundred and Twenty-fifth New York and Battery M, Second Illinois Artillery, under command of Colonel Miles. When Colonel Miles ingloriously surrendered at Harper's Ferry, the Sixty-fifth was made prisoners by the enemy. On the succeeding day, the Regiment was paroled, and sent to Chicago, where it remained until April, 1863, when, being exchanged, it moved, April 19th, and joined the Eastern Kentucky Army, serving in that campaign, and returning, via Cincinnati, to Camp Nelson, Kentucky, was sent to Knoxville, Tennessee, under General Burnside, where it was assigned to Second Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps.

Served during the campaigns in East Tennessee, taking part in the battles of November 25th and 29th, in the defense of Knoxville. The enemy, under Longstreet, was repulsed, with great loss. Shortly afterward, General Burnside was relieved by General Schofield.

After a severe winter campaign, the Sixty-fifth re-enlisted, as a veteran organization, and went home, on furlough, in March, 1864, with over 400 men. When the veteran furlough had expired, the Regiment joined General Sherman's Army, 25 miles below Kingston, Georgia. The Second Brigade was now composed of the Twenty-fourth Kentucky, One Hundred and Third Ohio, Sixty-fifth Indiana, and Sixty-fifth Illinois, commanded by Colonel Cameron, of the Sixty-fifth, General J. D. Cox commanding the Third Division.

June 15th, 1864, a general advance of Sherman's Army being made, the Sixty-fifth, on the right of the Twenty-third Corps, was brought into a sharp engagement with the enemy, between Kenesaw and Lost mountains. The enemy fell back, and, on the following day, the Sixty-fifth Illinois occupied their works. Lively skirmishing was continued on 17th, 18th and 19th, and, on the 20th, the advance was checked by a deep and almost impassible creek—the enemy disputing the passage of the only bridge with artillery and infantry. Volunteers being called for, about 50 men of the Sixty-fifth Illinois stepped forward, and charged across the bridge, driving back the enemy, and holding the position until the remainder of the regiment crossed. During July and August, was engaged in numerous skirmishes. Some of them (as on July 29th and August 6th) were quite severe. On the 18th August, Captain Duquid, with four companies, drove a superior force over 2 miles.

August 26th, with 15 days' rations, engaged in the successful movement south of Atlanta, driving the enemy from Rough-and-Ready Station, and destroying the railroad; and thence to Jonesboro, participating in that battle. From thence moved to Decatur, and went into camp, September 9th.

October 5th, marched in pursuit of Hood to Rome, Kingston, Resaca, Allatoona and Gaylesville, Alabama—back to Rome and Dalton, where it arrived, 29th. From Dalton moved, by rail, to Nashville, November 7th.

From Nashville, the regiment moved to Pulaski, Tennessee, and, on 22d November, was forced back to Columbia, by Hood. November 25th and 26th, was severely engaged at Columbia, losing 3 officers and 50 men, killed and wounded. November 30th, the "Scotch Regiment" was engaged at Franklin. More than 200 dead and wounded rebels covered the ground in front of the Sixty-fifth, and it captured the colors of the Fifteenth Mississippi Infantry. During the night, it fell back to Nashville.

December 15th and 16th, participated in the battle of Nashville, and afterward pursued the retreating enemy to Clifton, Tennessee, where the regiment remained until January 15th, 1865. Moved, by boat, to Cincinnati; thence, by rail, to Washington and Annapolis, and embarked, February 2d, for Wilmington, North Carolina. Landed at Federal Point, 7th, and was engaged in the heavy skirmishes there. 16th, crossed Cape Fear river, and, 18th, flanked the enemy out of Fort Anderson. 20th, fought the enemy at Smithtown creek, capturing 3 pieces of artillery and 350 men. February 22d, Wilmington fell.

March 6th, 1865, broke camp, and moved to Kingston. From this place, the first five companies, except veterans, were sent to Chicago, under Captain Duquid, for muster-out.

Marched to Goldsboro, North Carolina, and, thence, to Raleigh, where it remained until the surrender of Johnson's army. From Raleigh the non-veterans, Major Kennedy commanding, were ordered home for muster-out. The remaining veterans moved to Greensboro, North Carolina, and went into permanent camp.

May 1st, four new companies of recruits joined the Regiment. In June, 4 officers and 250 men were assigned to the regiment from the Ninety-second Illinois; 2 officers and 120 men from the One Hundred and Twelfth Illinois, and 25 men from the One Hundred and Seventh Illinois. Lieutenant Colonel Stewart was mustered as Colonel.

July 18th, 1865, the Regiment was mustered out, and started home, arriving at Chicago, July 22d, and received final payment and discharge July 26th, 1865.

HISTORY OF SIXTY-SIXTH INFANTRY.

An organization, known as "Birge's Sharp Shooters," was commenced at Benton Barracks, Missouri, in September, 1861, by John W. Birge, and eight companies collected, which was afterwards known as "Western Sharp Shooters." The ninth company was organized, December 5th, and Benjamin S. Compton mustered as Colonel, and John W. Birge as Lieutenant Colonel.

The Regiment was mustered as the Fourteenth Missouri Infantry Volunteers, and left for the field December 12th, 1861, moving, by rail, to Centralia, Missouri, and to Renick, Missouri, on the North Missouri railroad. The companies were kept out scouting until December 28th, when companies A, B, D, F and H were engaged in a fight at Mount Zion, Missouri, Colonel Birge commanding regiment. The enemy was repulsed, and the Regiment concentrated at Sturgeon, Missouri.

February 4th, 1862, ordered to Cairo, Illinois; thence to Fort Henry, arriving February 10th, 1862, and were assigned to Colonel Lauman's Brigade, Brigadier General Smith's Division. February 12th, moved to Fort Donelson.

February 18th, 14th and 15th, was engaged in the battle of Fort Donelson.

March 6th, moved to Tennessee river, and, on the 12th, embarked for Pittsburg Landing, arriving on the 20th. Was assigned to Colonel McArthur's Brigade, Brigadier General W. H. L. Wallace's Division, Army of West Tennessee. Was engaged in the battle of Shiloh, April 6th and 7th.

April 20th, company K, organized at Columbus, Ohio, joined the Regiment. Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, Brigadier General R. J. Oglesby commanding Brigade, and Brigadier General T. A. Davies commanding Division. Joined in pursuit of the enemy, and, on return, camped near Corinth.

July 8th, Colonel P. E. Burke took command of the Regiment. August 21st, ordered to Corinth, on provost duty. October 3d and 4th, was engaged in the battle of Corinth.

October 6th, moved to Danville, Mississippi; and, 7th, to Rienzi. Colonel Little took command of the Brigade and Brigadier General Hamilton of the Division. 8th, moved to Hatchie river. 10th, moved back to Rienzi. November 27th, moved to Tuscombua river, where it went into permanent camp, and erected a stockade.

November 20th, the Regiment was transferred to the state of Illinois, and numbered Sixty-sixth.

January 1st, 1863, the Regiment belonged to the Second Brigade, Second Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, commanded by Colonel A. Mersey, Ninth Illinois, Brigadier General G. M. Dodge and Major General S. A. Hurlbut, respectively.

During the year, the Regiment remained at this out-post. It was frequently engaged in skirmishing with the enemy, capturing 10 officers and 150 men—the loss of the Regiment being 3 officers and 15 men taken prisoner.

November 2d, 1863, ordered to Burnsville, Mississippi. 3d, marched to Eastport, on the Tennessee. 5th, crossed the river, and marched toward Pulaski, Tennessee, on the 6th, arriving 12th. Remained at Pulaski, Tennessee, until January 16th, 1864.

Three-fourths of the men having re-enlisted, moved toward Illinois, for veteran furlough.

January 25th, the men were furloughed from Chicago, Illinois, and, on the 4th of March, having reassembled at Joliet, moved for the field.

Mustered out, July 7th, 1865, at Louisville, Kentucky, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, July 9th 1865, for final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF SEVENTY-SECOND INFANTRY.

The Seventy-second Regiment Illinois Volunteers was organized at Chicago, as the first Regiment of the Chicago Board of Trade. Its first bills were put out for one Company, calling itself the "Hancock Guards," on July 23d, 1862, and, exactly one month afterwards, (August 23d, 1862,) the entire Regiment was complete and mustered into the service of the United States, for three years, or during the war. The very day of their muster, they were started off for Cairo, where they arrived on the 24th. Their strength at that time was thirty-seven (37) officers and 930 men.

On the 6th day of September, they were ordered out to Paducah, Kentucky, where they went on post duty, until the 17th, when they were sent down to Columbus, Kentucky, at which point they did guard and picket duty, mainly, until November 21st. They were not, however, idle in this time; but in addition to the thorough and constant drilling, which has since made them one of the finest organizations in the army, found time for two expeditions, one to Clarkson, Missouri, on October 6th, when they dispersed a rebel camp and captured a number of prisoners, horses, etc., and the other, on October 21st, to New Madrid, which was not so eventful. On November 21st, they were ordered to join General Quimby's command, Seventh Division, Seventeenth Army Corps, at Moscow, Tennessee, and, with that command, they arrived, on December 1st, 1862, at Lumpkin's Mills, Mississippi, whence they accompanied Grant's Army, as far as the Yaconapatafa river. Owing to the supplies being cut off at Holly Springs, the army was forced to return, after penetrating as far as the point mentioned; and the Seventy-second was sent, as guard to the wagon train, to Memphis, Tennessee. There, at a distance of about eight miles from the city, on the line of the Memphis and Charleston railroad, they went into camp, and remained until January 19th, 1863, when they were sent into the city, and quartered at the Navy Yard, to do provost guard duty. While making Memphis their headquarters, the Regiment went out on an expedition to Horn Lake creek, where they dispersed a gang of Blythe's rebel guerrillas, capturing quite a number of them.

On March 1st, the Division, of which the Seventy-second Regiment formed a part, started down the Yazoo Pass; but finding Fort Pemberton in their way, and not being able to take it just then, went back. April 23d, they landed at Milliken's Bend, Louisiana, and, from there, marched up with Grant's army to Vicksburg. On May 16th, they arrived at Champion Hill, just in time to turn the enemy's left, and, by that movement, decided the fate of the day. That was their first battle, and, fortunately for them, their share in it, although a most important one, was not very severe. On May 17th, they found themselves at Big Black, in the rear of Vicksburg, and, on the 19th, this Regiment was the first to open the attack on the rebel stronghold. In the desperate charge of the 22d, they participated with the highest honor to themselves, losing some 130 of their number killed, wounded and missing, but fighting as bravely as men could fight, until the last. From that time until July 4th, when the rebels capitulated, the Seventy-second did its duty among the foremost in the siege, and, on the capitulation were among the first to enter the city.

On July 12th, the Seventy-second embarked for Natchez, Mississippi, where they landed the succeeding day, taking possession of the town, capturing a large number of prisoners, pieces of artillery, confederate government stores, and 5000 head of Texas cattle. Here they remained until October 17th, doing provost duty, with the exception of a couple of skirmishes, at St. Catherine's creek, Mississippi, September 1st, and at Cross Bayou, Louisiana, on September 23d.

October 18th, 1863, they went on provost guard duty at Vicksburg Mississippi, where they remained until October 30th, 1864. During this year of comparative inaction, they only went on two expeditions. The first of these was to Benton, Mississippi, on May 7th, 1864, where they had a short, but pretty severe fight with a bod of rebels; and the second was to Grand Gulf, Mississippi, on July 18th.

October 30th, 1864, they were ordered to report to Major General Howard, commanding Army and Department of the Tennessee, then with Sherman's Army; and, in pursuance of this order, arrived at Nashville, Tennessee, on November 13th. They there found themselves too late to join Sherman in his great "march to the sea," and were ordered to Columbia, Tennessee, to join Major General Schofield's command, which they did, on November 21st, when Hood crossed the Tennessee river, and seemed coming down, "like a wolf on the fold." Schofield's Army found it convenient to retire towards Nashville. On November 29th, they evacuated Columbia, and the Seventy-second was in a severe skirmish with the enemy at Spring Hill, on the road between Columbia and Franklin. On the succeeding day, they arrived at Franklin, and hastily threw up some light earthworks. About 4 o'clock that afternoon Hood attacked them, and the battle raged from that hour until midnight, with terrific fury. In that fight the Seventy-second lost 9 officers out of 16 engaged, and 152 men, who were either killed or severely wounded. That night they left their works and retreated towards Nashville, which they reached on December 1st; and here the Seventy-second was thrown on the extreme right of the Federal lines inclosing Nashville, under command of General A. J. Smith. On December 15th, the whole Union Army was moved outside its works, to give battle to Hood; and on that and the succeeding day the great battle of Nashville took place, resulting in the complete whipping of the "Rebs." From that time until January 3d, 1865, they were engaged in the pursuit of Hood's Army following it up closely, as far as Clifton; but Hood managed to escape across the Tennessee river. From Clifton, the Regiment went, by boat, up the Tennessee river, to Eastport, Mississippi, arriving there January 13th, 1865, and there remaining in quarters until February 9th, making, in that time, but one expedition, and that a fruitless one, to Iuka and Corinth, Mississippi.

February 9th, they started for New Orleans, where they arrived February 21st. Until March 21st, they remained in camp eight miles below the city, and then they were embarked, and taken across the Gulf to Dauphine Island, Alabama, where they arrived on March 17th. The next day the Brigade which included the Seventy-second, crossed over to the main land, on the western shore of Mobile Bay. Here they remained a few days, skirmishing with the enemy, when, having accomplished the object of the expedition, which was merely a feint on Mobile from that direction, they re-joined the army at Fish river, near Smith's Mills, Alabama.

On March 26th, the Corps to which they were attached moved, and, on the morning of the 27th, appeared in front of Spanish Fort. From that time until the night of April 8th, the Regiment was actively engaged in the siege. At 5 o'clock, on the evening of the 8th, the Union troops were ordered up into the first line of their works. The attack began and at near midnight. The First Brigade (including the Seventy-second) and the Third Brigade, Sixteenth Army Corps, charged on the enemy's works, and carried them, capturing the fort. The next morning they moved out on the road to Blakely, when their Division was held in support of the other Divisions charging the enemy's works at that place. The place having been taken, the command went into camp here, until the 14th, on which date they moved forward on the road to Montgomery, Alabama—marching over the 200 miles to that place in exactly 11 days. At Montgomery, they remained in camp until May 23d, when they were ordered to Union Springs, Alabama, 45 miles from Montgomery. There they remained, doing post duty, until July 19th, when they started on their homeward journey.

On August 6th, they were mustered out of the service, at Vicksburg, and thence marched directly home to Chicago.

During their term of service, they received some 450 recruits, and, when ordered home, they transferred 270 of these to the Thirty-second Regiment Illinois Veteran Volunteers, at Meridian, Mississippi. They brought home 22 officers and 310 men.

In an attack upon some of the Regiment, by a gang of drunken rebels, at Yerger's Landing, on their way home, private Levi Derby, of company E, was killed and Sergeant Major Blake was so seriously injured by a pistol shot, that his life was endangered.

The following little table of statistics is furnished by the Adjutant of the Regiment, and gives some idea of what their service has been:

MEMORANDA OF SEVENTY-THIRD REGIMENT.

SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS, March 19, 1867.

GENERAL HAYNIE, Adjutant General State of Illinois:

GENERAL:—Having no records of the Regiment with me, a history would be impossible.

The Regiment was organized at Camp Butler, state of Illinois, in August, 1862, and immediately became part of General Buell's Army. Fought nobly at Perryville. Finished, under General Thomas, at Nashville. The Seventy-third Illinois Volunteer Infantry, was in every battle fought by the Army of the Cumberland, from October, 1862, until the route of General Hood's Army, at Nashville, and the winding up of the whole matter.

The only report I can make, General, is, that our dead are found at Perryville, Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, away in East Tennessee, and, then, in the succession of battles from Chattanooga to the fall of Atlanta. And, when Sherman pushed down South, the Seventy-third remained with General Thomas. It formed a part of Opedyke's Brigade, at Franklin, which saved the day, and gave him his star, and lost its last man killed in driving Hood's Army from Nashville. It has more than once been complimented by its Generals. It lost heavily in Murfreesboro, Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge and Franklin. It had two Majors and two Adjutants killed, and nearly every officer of the Regiment wounded, at some one time—several of them many times; but as to the number of killed and wounded, I know not. We left the state one of the largest and returned one of the smallest Regiments. Her officers and men, and especially the men, have never been surpassed for bravery, endurance and devotion to the country. I believe that nearly two-thirds of the organization wasted away, either by disease, death or battles, during the three years' service.

General, I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your humble servant,

JAMES I. DAVIDSON,
Late Lieut. Col. 73d Ill. Vol. Inf.

HISTORY OF SEVENTY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The Seventy-fifth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Dixon, Illinois, on the 2d day of September, 1862, by Colonel George Ryan.

Ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, September 27th. Was brigaded with Thirtieth Brigade, Colonel Post; Ninth Division, General Mitchell, of Buell's army.

October 1st, marched in pursuit of Bragg. October 8th, engaged in the battle of Chaplin Hills, losing 47 killed, 166 wounded, and 12 prisoners. Marched to Crab Orchard, Colonel Woodruff assuming command of the Division. Returned, via Lebanon and Bowling Green, to Nashville—General Jeff. C. Davis taking command of the Division.

Encamped four miles from Nashville, on the Lebanon pike, November 7th, 1862.

Since which time no historical memoranda has been furnished.

Mustered out June 12th, 1865, at Camp Harker, Tennessee, and arrived at Chicago, June 15th, 1865, where the Regiment received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF SEVENTY-SIXTH INFANTRY.

The Seventy-sixth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Kankakee, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel A. W. Mack, and was mustered in August 22d, 1862. Ordered to Columbus, Kentucky, immediately after its muster, and, October 3d, to Bolivar, Tennessee. November 24th, was sent with General Grant on his campaign along the Mississippi Central railroad. January 6th, 1863, Colonel Mack resigned, and soon after Lieutenant Colonel Busey was promoted to Colonel. In February, the Regiment moved to Memphis, and, in May, proceeded to Vicksburg. May 22d, was engaged in the charge of the fortifications. After the charge, was placed on the extreme left of the besieging lines. July 5th, moved with Sherman's army against Jackson. At this place the Seventy-sixth occupied the extreme right of the attacking forces.

Marched to Vicksburg, and from thence moved to Natchez, where it remained in camp some time. Was in General Sherman's campaign to Meridian.

In February and May, 1864, was in expeditions up the Yazoo, and, on the latter, participated in the battles of Benton, Vaughn's Station, and Deasonville.

In July, 1864, was on Slocum's Jackson expedition, and bore a prominent part in the battle of July 6th and 7th. On the latter day it was cut off from the balance of the command, but cut its way out, losing 98 men. Was engaged in expeditions, etc., in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, up to the time of Steele's expedition from Pensacola to Blakely, Alabama, in which the Seventy-sixth was engaged, arriving April 1st, 1865.

May 9th, engaged in the assault and capture of Fort Blakely, losing 17 killed and 81 wounded. The colors of the Regiment were the first planted on the enemy's works. Long marches and tedious waiting in camp at Seldon, Mobile and Galveston, occupied the time until the Regiment was mustered out and ordered home.

Mustered out July 22d, 1865.

The regiment has traveled over 10,000 miles. Has received 156 recruits, who were transferred, on its muster-out, to the Thirty-seventh Illinois.

ORDER OF REORGANIZATION.

HEADQUARTERS THIRTEENTH ARMY CORPS,

GALVESTON, TEXAS, June 23, 1865.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 77. } Extract.

I. The organization formerly known as the One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois Volunteer Infantry, discontinued January 25, 1865, by Special Orders, No. 18, Headquarters Defences of New Orleans, is hereby, subject to the approval of the War Department, revived.

All men of the Seventy-seventh Illinois Volunteer Infantry, whose term of service will not expire on or before September 1, 1865, and all officers and men now with said regiment, who were transferred from the One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois Volunteer Infantry, will be formed into a battalion, composed of companies of maximum strength. The officers and men will be transferred on the rolls required by Circular No. 64, War Department, A. G. O., August 18, 1864.

Brigadier General Benton, commanding Third Division, is charged with the execution of this order.

By order of Major General GRANGER.

HISTORY OF SEVENTY-SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The regiment was fully organized and mustered into the United States' service, September 3d, 1862, at Peoria, Illinois. Remained in camp at that place until October 4th, at which time it proceeded to Covington, Kentucky, and reported to Major General Gordon Granger, commanding Army of Kentucky, who assigned it to duty in the Division commanded by General A. J. Smith.

Marched from Covington, with the Division, October 17th, and reached Lexington on the 29th, and Richmond, 2d November. Marched from that point on November 11th, and arrived at Louisville on the 17th.

Nothing of any interest transpired during the sojourn of the regiment in Kentucky—there being no force of the enemy in the state at that time; and the campaign there was merely a march of about 150 miles into the interior, and a march back again.

November 20th, 1862, the regiment embarked on steamer for Memphis, Tennessee, in company with the whole Division, under same commander. Arrived at latter place, November 27th.

Remained there until December 20th. The Division was re-organized and reported for duty to Major General Sherman. Embarked, at Memphis, on the 20th of December, and proceeded down the river with Sherman's Army, for the capture of Vicksburg. Disembarked in the Yazoo river, near Chickasaw Bayou, on the 27th. The Seventy-seventh occupied the extreme right of the line, and participated in the attack on the rebel works. After four days' fighting the attack was abandoned, and the army embarked on their boats and proceeded to Milliken's Bend, Louisiana.

At this place Major General McClelland arrived and assumed command of the Army. He organized it into two Corps—the Thirteenth and Fifteenth. The Seventy-seventh was assigned to the Tenth Division, Thirteenth Army Corps. Division commanded by General A. J. Smith, and Corps by General McClelland.

Left Milliken's Bend, January 5th, 1863, and arrived at Arkansas Post on the 10th. Immediately disembarked, and, on the following morning, participated in the assault. After a few hours' hard fighting, carried the place, by assault, capturing all it contained. The loss of the Regiment here was 6 killed and 39 wounded—some of the latter mortal. The Regiment in this battle, behaved admirably, and was complimented by the commanding General for its gallant conduct.

January 14th, again embarked, and proceeded to Young's Point, Louisiana. Arrived there on the 22d, and went into camp, remaining until the 9th of March, engaged in the digging on the canal across the point opposite Vicksburg. In March, changed camp to Milliken's Bend.

In the first part of April, the Thirteenth Corps marched from Milliken's Bend, for Grand Gulf. The Seventy-seventh broke camp and moved forward about the middle of April. Crossed the river below Grand Gulf, on the last day of April, and marched all night, arriving at Port Gibson early on the morning of the 1st of May, and participated in the engagement there during the entire day. The Regiment remained with General Grant's army during the entire campaign around Vicksburg, and the siege of the latter place until its surrender.

The Regiment was engaged in the actions at Champion Hills, May 17th, Black River Bridge, May 19th; first charge on Vicksburg, May 22d, and 23d, losing, in these engagements, twenty (20) killed, eighty-six (86) wounded, and twenty-six (26) missing.

Vicksburg surrendered on the 4th of July, and the next day the Regiment marched for Jackson, with the army under Sherman. Arrived there July 9th, and was under the fire of the enemy at that place until the 16th, when Jackson was evacuated, and the Seventy-seventh returned to Vicksburg. Remained in camp at Vicksburg until August 25th, when embarked for New Orleans, where it remained in camp until October 3d.

Left New Orleans, at that time, for Western Louisiana. Marched up Bayou Teche, through Franklin to New Iberia, Louisiana. Camped there until December 6th, 1863, when marched back to New Orleans. Left New Orleans on the 17th December, on steamer, and disembarked at Paso Cavalo, Texas, on the 20th December. Remained in camp until the last of February, then embarked on vessels and were transported to Berwick Bay, Louisiana. From there marched through to Alexandria, Louisiana, with the army, under General Banks, bound for Shreveport. From Alexandria, marched up Red river, driving the enemy until Sabine Cross Roads was reached, on the 8th of April, 1864, where it met the enemy in force, and was immediately engaged.

The Seventy-seventh belonged to the Division under command of General Ransom, which Division was first ordered forward to support the advance cavalry. Before the army could be brought forward to their support the whole rebel army came down on them, and overwhelmed the whole Division. In this engagement, the Seventy-seventh suffered terribly. Lieutenant Colonel Webb was killed, instantly, by a musket ball through the brain, and 176 officers and men were killed, wounded and made prisoners, leaving only about 125 men in the Regiment for duty.

On the next day General A. J. Smith's Corps came up, and at Pleasant Hill another battle was fought, ending in the complete defeat of the rebels. The Regiment remained with General Banks throughout his retreat down Red river, and until he reached the Mississippi. Here it was ordered into camp at Baton Rouge, until the first part of August. At that time, with five or six other regiments, it embarked, and was transported to Dauphine's Island, under the command of General Gordon Granger. Here assisted in the reduction of Forts Gaines and Morgan, and then returned to Morganza Bend, on the Mississippi. In October, Regiment ordered to New Orleans, for provost duty, and remained there until the first part of March, 1865, when it was assigned to the First Brigade, Third Division, Thirteenth Army Corps, and transported to Mobile Point, where it joined General Canby's army for the capture of Mobile. General Granger collected his Thirteenth Corps at this point, and, during the month of March, moved up the Peninsula towards Spanish Fort. The Regiment was with General Canby's army during the entire siege and capture of Spanish Fort, Blakely and Mobile, and was under fire during the entire time.

The day following their entry into Mobile, the Third Division, in which the Seventy-seventh served, marched out of the city and proceeded up the Tombigbee river, in search of General Dick Taylor's army. It proceeded up the river about sixty miles, when it was re-called to Mobile—the rebel forces throughout the country having surrendered.

Remained in camp in Mobile until July 10th, 1865, at which time it was mustered out of service, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, for final payment and discharge, where it arrived July 23d, 1865.

The Seventy seventh Illinois, during its term of service, was engaged in sixteen battles and sieges, and in every one of them carried itself with honor and credit to the state.

HISTORY OF SEVENTY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The Seventy-ninth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Mattoon, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Lyman Guinnip, and was mustered into United States' service August 28th, 1862.

Ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, and September 13th, assigned to Third Brigade, Brigadier General Craft's Division, Army of Kentucky. On the 29th, it was transferred to Colonel Buckley's (Fourth) Brigade, General Sill's (Second) Division.

October 1st, 1862, commenced the march through Kentucky. At Frankfort, it was transferred to General Kirk's Brigade (Fifth). Arrived at Perryville, Kentucky, October 9th, and continued its march to Crab Orchard; thence to Lebanon, Bowling Green, and Nashville, Tennessee, arriving November 7th.

Colonel Guinnip resigned October 17th, and Lieutenant Colonel Sheridan P. Read was promoted Colonel.

Moved toward Murfreesboro, December 26th, and, on the 31st, entered the battle of Stone River. Colonel Read was killed early in action, and the command devolved upon Major Buckner. The Regiment was engaged until the 4th January, 1863, losing one officer killed, 3 wounded and 3 missing; 23 men killed, 68 wounded and 121 missing.

During the winter, the Regiment remained at Murfreesboro, and was assigned to Second Brigade, (Colonel Dodge commanding) Second Division Twentieth Army Corps.

April 25th, Major Buckner promoted Colonel.

June 24th, 1863, moved to Liberty Gap. 25th, engaged the enemy, losing Captain John Patton killed, Captain H. D. Martin mortally wounded, Captain Lacey and Lieutenants Foulke, Jones and King wounded, 5 men killed and 36 wounded.

The Division then marched to Tullahoma.

August 16th, crossed Cumberland mountains, Tennessee river, Sand mountain, Lookout mountain, and went into the battle of Chickamauga, September 19th, and was engaged during the day and on the 20th. Loss 7 officers missing, 4 men killed, 13 wounded and 97 missing. On the evening of the 20th, fell back to Chattanooga, with the army.

The Regiment was assigned to Colonel C. G. Harker's (Third) Brigade, General Sheridan's (Second) Division Major General G. Granger's (Fourth) Army Corps.

On the 23d, 24th and 25th of November, was engaged in the battle of Chattanooga. On the 25th, stormed Mission Ridge, and captured two pieces of artillery.

On the 27th of November, 1863, marched with Fourth Corps toward Knoxville, Tennessee, went to Blain's Cross Roads, and remained there till January 15th, 1864, when it advanced to Dandridge, but fell back, January 18th, to Knoxville. The Second Division being ordered to Loudon, the Seventy-ninth went to Sweetwater, 42 miles south of Knoxville, on the railroad. April 27th, moved to Cleveland.

On the 3d of May, started on the Atlanta Campaign—General Newton commanding Division, and General Howard commanding the Corps. Was engaged at Rocky-Faced Ridge, May 9th; Resaca, May 13th and 14th; Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain, June 27th; Peach Tree Creek, July 20th; Atlanta, July 22d, 27th and August 3d; Jonesboro, September 1st, and Lovejoy, September 2d. The losses were 4 officers wounded, 6 enlisted men killed and 53 wounded.

September 25th, ordered to Chattanooga—Brigadier General Bradley commanding Brigade, and Major General Stanley commanding Corps. Moved to Bridgeport, Alabama, and remained until October 19th, when it returned to Chattanooga. On 22d, moved to Alpine Pass, and, 30th, returned. November 1st, moved to Pulaski, Tennessee.

November 22d, commenced falling back toward Nashville. 29th, the Brigade was attacked by Pat Cleborne's Division, and driven into the city. At Franklin, the Seventy-ninth was engaged four hours, losing, out of 210 veteran soldiers, 3 officers and 80 men killed, wounded and captured. That night fell back to Nashville.

December 15th and 16th, took part in the battle of Nashville, and afterward followed the retreating enemy until he crossed the Tennessee river. The Third Brigade was sent to Decatur, Alabama, arriving January 6th, 1865. March 30th, moved to Bull's Gap, by rail, 60 miles east of Knoxville, Tennessee, and remained until April 22d. Moved to Nashville.

June 12th, 1865, mustered out of service. Arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, June 15th; and June 23d, received final pay and discharge.

HISTORY OF EIGHTIETH INFANTRY.

The Eightieth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Centralia, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel T. G. Allen, and mustered into United States' service August 25th, 1862

Ordered to Louisville, September 4th, and was assigned to Thirty-third Brigade, Tenth Division, Army of the Ohio, Brigadier General Terrell commanding Brigade; Brigadier General Jackson commanding Division, and Brigadier General McCook commanding Corps.

October 1st, under General Buell, marched in pursuit of Bragg, and, passing through Taylorville, Bloomfield and Mackville, was engaged in the battle of Perryville, October 8th, losing 14 killed and 58 wounded, including Lieutenant Von Kemmel killed, Lieutenant Andrews mortally wounded, and Lieutenant Colonel Rodgers and Lieutenant Pace severely wounded. Generals Terrell and Jackson were also killed.

October 12th, moved through Danville, Lebanon and New Market, to Mumfordsville. October 31st and November 26th, made two marches to Cave City and returned. November 30th, moved, via Glasgow and Hartsville, to Bledsoe creek. December 26th, started in pursuit of John Morgan, marching, via Scottsville and Glasgow, to Bear Wallow, arriving December 31st.

January 2d, 1863 having discontinued the pursuit of John Morgan, marched to Cave City, Bowling Green and Nashville, Tennessee, January 8th, and Murfreesboro, January 10th.

Was assigned to the Fourteenth Army Corps, General J. J. Reynolds' Division.

March 20th, the Brigade, of 1500 men and two pieces of Artillery, while on a scout, was attacked by John Morgan and 5000 of the enemy; but they were repulsed, with heavy loss.

April 7th, moved to Nashville, and was assigned to Brigade of Col. A. D. Straight, Fifty-first Indiana Volunteers. Brigade consisting of Fifty-first and Seventy-third Indiana, Third Ohio, Eightieth Illinois, and two companies Tennessee Cavalry, with two mountain howitzers, embarked, moving down the Cumberland and up the Tennessee rivers, and landed at Eastport, Mississippi, April 19th.

Marched to Tusculumbia where the Regiment was mounted. April 26th, moved from Tusculumbia. Were attacked at Dug's Gap and Sand Mountain, but, on both occasions repulsed the enemy, and, at Sand Mountain, captured a battery of two guns. Loss in the Regiment, 2 killed and 16 wounded. Captain E. R. Jones killed, Adjutant J. C. Jones mortally wounded, and Lieutenant Pavey severely wounded.

At Blunt's farm, May 21, again defeated the enemy, and, May 3d, was surrendered to a vastly superior force, under General Forrest, who, contrary to stipulation, stole its blankets, watches and money. We were taken to Rome, and paroled and sent in coal cars to Atlanta. From this place the officers were sent to Libby prison. The enlisted men were sent, via Knoxville, Tennessee and Lynchburg, Virginia, to Richmond, arriving May 18th, and thence to City Point, arriving at Annapolis May 17th. On the 19th, moved to Camp Chase, Ohio.

On June 23d, having been declared exchanged, moved to St. Louis. 29th, moved to Nashville, Tennessee, Lieutenant Herman Steinecke taking command of the Regiment.

September 8th, moved to Stevenson, Alabama, Captain Cunningham taking command. October 16th, moved to Battle Creek, Tennessee. 23d, marched to Bridgeport, and reported to General Howard, commanding Eleventh Army Corps. Was assigned to Third Brigade, Colonel Hecker; Third Division, General Carl Shurz. On 27th, moved up Lookout Valley, and was present at the battle of Wauhatchie.

November 24th and 25th, was engaged in the battle of Mission Ridge.

On the 29th, commenced march to Knoxville, Tennessee, reaching Louisville, 14 miles from Knoxville, December 5th. Longstreet having retreated, the command returned, arriving at Lookout Valley December 17th. This march was made without wagons, tents or baggage, and rations were foraged from the country. The command suffered from want of clothing and shoes.

On the 24th of December, was assigned to third Brigade, Colonel William Grose, Thirty-sixth Indiana; First Division, General D. S. Stanley; Fourth Corps, Major General Gordon Granger commanding.

January 27th, 1864, moved from Whiteside, via Chattanooga and Cleveland, to Charleston, Tennessee, and thence to Blue Springs.

May 3d, 1864, commenced the Atlanta Campaign. Participated in the battles of Dalton, Resaca, Adairsville, Cassville, Dallas, Pine Mountain, Kenesaw Mountain, Marietta, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta, Jonesboro, and Lovejoy Station. During the campaign, the Regiment captured about 150 prisoners, and lost 25 killed and 60 wounded.

Camped at Atlanta, September 9th. Marched, October 31, in pursuit of Hood, to Allatoona, and via Kingston, to Rome; thence to Galesville, Alabama; thence, via Alpine, Fayette, and Rossville, to Chattanooga, arriving October 30th. Moved to Athens, Alabama, and to Pulaski, Tennessee. 23d of November, commenced falling back to Nashville.

December 15th and 16th, participated in the battle of Nashville, and captured a three gun battery and 100 prisoners. January 5th, arrived at Huntsville, Alabama. 7th, Major E. N. Bates, having returned, assumed command.

March 12th, moved to Knoxville, Tennessee; thence to Bull's Gap and Shields' mill, March 28th. Moved to Greenville, April 1st, and from thence returned to Nashville.

June 10th, 1865, mustered out of service, and proceeded to Camp Butler, Illinois, for final pay and discharge.

Only 4 of the captured officers ever returned to the Regiment.

The Eightieth has traveled 6000 miles, and been in over 20 battles.

HISTORY OF EIGHTY-FIRST INFANTRY.

The Eighty-first Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers was mustered into the United States' service at Anna, Illinois, August 26th, 1862. In the month of November, following, with full ranks, it went forth to the field of conflict under Col. James J. Dollins, who fell at the charge upon the fortifications of Vicksburg, May 22d, 1863. It was brigaded in General John A. Logan's Division of the Seventeenth Army Corps, commanded by Major General Jas. B. McPherson. It was in that memorable series of battles fought in Mississippi, under General Grant, in 1863—Port Gibson, May 1st; Raymond, May 12th; Jackson, May 14th; Champion Hills, May 16th; investment and charge on Vicksburg, May 19th and 22d, and, on the 4th of July, it marched in triumph into the city. It was also in the engagement at Brownsville, Mississippi, on the 16th October, following.

Lieutenant Colonel F. Campbell succeeded to the command, on the death of Colonel Dollins; but being absent, under orders, the Regiment, under command of Major A. W. Rogers, now promoted to Lieutenant Colonel, was sent out, in the month of March, 1864, on the Red River expedition, under General Banks. During that arduous expedition, it participated in the battle and capture of Fort DeRussey, Louisiana—two battles of Cloutierville, Old river, Marksville, Yellow Bayou, and in numerous skirmishes while aboard the transports in their attempt to ascend the river to Shreveport.

The Regiment was in the expedition to Guntown, Mississippi, in June, 1864, under General Sturgis, and bore a prominent part in the battle that occurred on the 10th of that month. Out of a command of 400 men it lost 140, including officers, in killed, wounded and prisoners.

On the 3d of August, 1864, the Division to which it belonged was ordered to St. Charles, Arkansas, on White river. The Regiment, with some other troops, having been sent up the river to Augusta, to drive away the enemy concentrating there, after accomplishing the work, returned to Duvall's Bluff, and from there, went to Brownsville, on the Little Rock railroad, where the expedition, under General Mower, was organized and sent in pursuit of the rebel General Price, who was threatening to invade Missouri. This little army, with 12 days rations, marched over mountains, through swamps, fording and bridging streams, to Cape Girardeau, a distance of 325 miles, in 19 days.

From Cape Girardeau, the troops were sent, by river, to St. Louis and Jefferson City, and from thence, by rail and land marches, to Warrensburg, in Western Missouri. General Price having been driven from the country, the Eighty-first, now assigned to General A. J. Smith's command, was hurried to oppose Gen. Hood, in Tennessee, who was marching upon Nashville. It participated in the celebrated fights, of the 15th and 16th of December, before that city, and bore a noble part in the pursuit of Hood's forces, to Pulaski, 80 miles south, and thence to Clifton, eighty miles west, on the Tennessee river. Here it took boat for Eastport, Mississippi, and after making the reconnoissance of Corinth, started for New Orleans. On the 8th of February, 1865, Colonel Campbell having resigned, in consequence of protracted ill health, Lieutenant Colonel Rogers was commissioned Colonel of the Regiment. Remaining in camp three weeks at New Orleans, it proceeded to Mobile, by way of Forts Gaines and Morgan, and, landing on the eastern shore of Mobile Bay, its approaches to Spanish Fort—the most formidable of the defences of Mobile—were at once commenced.

On the 26th of March, the Third Division of the Sixteenth Army Corps was ordered to make a reconnoissance in force into the immediate vicinity of the enemy's stronghold, under General Eugene A. Carr. In executing this order the Eighty-first led the advance, deploying one-third of the Regiment as a skirmish line and receiving a heavy volley of musketry from the enemy. The troops were now ordered into position, and the siege of Spanish Fort commenced.

On the 16th day of the siege, late in the afternoon, Colonel Gaddis, of the Eighth Iowa Veterans, in command of the Third Brigade, obtained permission to charge the extreme left of the enemy's entrenchments, the Eighth Iowa leading, closely followed by the Eighty-first Illinois, led by Colonel Rogers, in person. The charge was a complete success, the works being taken and held. In a day or two after, Fort Blakely fell, when Mobile speedily surrendered.

The Sixteenth Army Corps was now moved up to Montgomery, where the Third Brigade of the Third Division remained on provost duty, until mustered out of service.

Lt ft Montgomery, July 17th, 1865. Mustered out at Vicksburg, Mississippi, August 5th, 1865, and ordered to Chicago, Illinois, for final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF EIGHTY-SECOND INFANTRY.

The Eighty-second Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Frederic Hecker, and was mustered in October 23d, 1862.

Moved from Camp Butler to Washington City, November 3d, arriving at Arlington Heights, November 9th, and was assigned to Sigel's Division, Army of Potomac, General Burnside commanding. Marched to Fairfax Court House, November 19th. Moved to Stafford Court House, December 11th, and was attached to the First Brigade, Colonel Schimmelfennig; Third Division, General Sharz; Eleventh Army Corps, General Stahl. Moved, December 19th, to camp, near Aquia creek. Participated in General Burnside's second movement against Fredericksburg, January 20th, 1863, and encamped at Hartwood Church, 21st.

General Burnside was relieved by General Hooker, January 25th, 1863, and the Eighty-second moved to Stafford Court House, February 6th. April 1st, General Howard took command of the Eleventh Corps. Crossed the Rappahannock and Rapidan, and participated in the battle of Chancellorsville, May 2d, 1863, losing 155 killed, wounded and missing. May 6th, returned to camp, near Stafford Court House. Moved to a camp near Brook's Station, 16th; made an expedition to Dumfries, January 2d, and returned on the 5th.

Moved from camp, June 12th, on the campaign which ended in the battle of Gettysburg, July 1st, 2d and 3d, 1863. Was heavily engaged in the battle of Gettysburg, and sustained a loss of 112 killed, wounded and missing.

Followed the enemy back to Virginia, and, after a nearly uninterrupted march of two months, encamped at Walnut Branch Church, near Catlett's Station, August 19th, 1863. General Tyndale took command of the Brigade July 13th.

September 25th, 1863, marched to Manassas Junction, and thence, by rail, for Department of the Cumberland, arriving at Bridgeport, Alabama, October 1st, 1863. Colonel Hecker, at this time, commanded the Brigade and Lieutenant Colonel Solomon the Regiment. The Eighty-second was transferred, October 19th, to the Third Brigade and Colonel Hecker assigned to command of Brigade.

Moved to Russel's Gap, October 19th, and occupied and defended it during the fight, in which General Hooker obtained possession of a line of hills near Lookout Mountain, October 28th, 1863.

Mustered out June 9th, 1865, at Washington, D. C., and arrived at Chicago June 16th, 1865, where they received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF EIGHTY-THIRD INFANTRY.

The Eighty-third Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Monmouth, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel A. C. Harding, and mustered in August 21st.

Moved from camp, August 25th, via Burlington and St. Louis, to Cairo, arriving 29th, and reporting to Brigadier General Tuttle, commanding post. September 3d moved to Fort Henry, and, on the 5th, leaving 2 companies at Fort Heiman, and 3 at Fort Henry, moved to Fort Donelson, where the headquarters of the Regiment remained during the year. Colonel W. W. Lowe, Fifth Iowa Cavalry, commanding Brigade.

The companies from Forts Henry and Heiman subsequently rejoined the Regiment, and it remained at Fort Donelson until September 20th, 1863, when the Right Wing moved to Clarksville. The Regiment had heavy guard duty to perform, and, as the whole country, especially the banks of the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers, were infested with guerrillas, had daily skirmishes with the enemy. Some of them were quite severe, as at Waverly, Tennessee, and at Garritsburg, Kentucky, where the lamented General Ransom, then Colonel of the Eleventh Illinois, had command.

On the 3d of February, 1863, at Fort Donelson, 9 companies of the Eighty-third, with company C, Second Illinois Light Artillery, successfully resisted the attack of Forrest and Wheeler, with 8000 men. The battle lasted from 1½ o'clock until 8½ o'clock, P. M., when the enemy were compelled to retire, with a loss of 800 killed and wounded. The loss of the Regiment was 13 killed and 51 wounded. Colonel Harding was promoted to Brigadier General, for gallant conduct on this occasion, and Lieutenant Colonel A. A. Smith to Colonel.

While at Clarksville, the Regiment was engaged in several expeditions, under Major General L. H. Rosseau, in pursuit of Forrest and Wheeler, who were attempting the destruction of General Sherman's communications.

During the year, 1864, the Regiment had some 200 miles of communications to guard, and much heavy patrol duty. During the winter of 1864-5, the Eighty-third was on provost duty at Nashville, Tennessee.

On the 26th of June, 1865, was mustered out at Nashville, and moved for Chicago, Illinois, Brevet Brigadier General Arthur A. Smith commanding, where it received final pay and discharge.

HISTORY OF EIGHTY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

The Eighty-fourth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Quincy, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Louis H. Waters, and mustered into United States' service September 1st, with 951 men and officers.

Ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, September 23d, 1862, and was assigned to Tenth Brigade, Colonel Grose commanding; Fourth Division, Brigadier General William Sooy Smith commanding, and marched, September 29th, in pursuit of Bragg.

Moved, via Bardstown, Danville, Perryville, Crab Orchard, Wild Cat, Somerset, Columbia, Glasgow, Scottsville, Gallatin and Silver Springs, to Nashville. From thence, via Murfreesboro, Bradyville, and Manchester, to Elk river, and back, via Hillsboro, to Manchester. From thence, across the Cumberland Mountains, and, via Dunlap, Jasper, Battle Creek, Shell Mound, Whiteside, Chattanooga, Greyville, Ringgold, Gordon's Mills, and Crawfish Springs, to Chickamauga,. On retreat to Chattanooga, and thence, over Walden's ridge, to Shell Mound and Whiteside. From thence, via Chattanooga, Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge, Ringgold, to Chickamauga battle ground, and back, by the same route, to Whiteside. Thence, moved to Chattanooga, Tyner's Station, Ooltowah, Cleveland, Charleston, back to Cleveland, Blue Springs. Thence, to Red Clay, Catoosa Springs, Tunnel Hill, Buzzard's Roost, and back to Blue Springs. Thence, by the same route, to Dalton; and, moving forward, was engaged at Resaca, Calhoun, Adairsville, Kingston, Cassville, Pumpkin Vine, Burnt Hickory, Dallas, New Hope Church, Aekworth, Big Shanty, Pine Mountain, Kenesaw Mountain, Rough Station, Pace's Ferry, Chattahoochie river, and Peach Tree Creek.

From thence, moved on the fortifications of Atlanta. Thence, to Rough-and-Ready, Jonesboro, and Lovejoy Station.

From Atlanta, moved, via Marietta, Aekworth, Cartersville, Allatoona, Kingston, Calhoun, Resaca, Snake Creek Gap, Galesville, Alabama, Chattanooga, Stevenson, Bridgeport, Huntsville, Athens, Pulaski, Columbia and Franklin, to Nashville. Thence, to Pulaski, Lexington and Huntsville. Thence, by rail, to Knoxville, Tennessee. Thence, to Strawberry Plains and to Bull's Gap, and returned to Nashville, where, June 8th, 1865, the Regiment was mustered out of United States' service.

SPECIAL ORDER, } Extract.
No. 77.

VIII. In accordance with telegram order from War Department, dated May 18, 1865, the enlisted men of the Eighty-sixth Illinois Infantry whose term of service do not expire prior to October 1, 1865, are hereby transferred to the Thirty-fourth Illinois Veteran Volunteer Infantry. By command of Brevel Major General J. C. DAVIS,

A. C. McCLURG, A. A. G. and Chief of Staff.

HISTORY OF EIGHTY-SIXTH INFANTRY.

The Eighty-sixth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Peoria, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel David D. Irons, and mustered in August 27th.

Moved for Louisville, and camped at Jo Holt, on the Indiana side, September 10th, 1862. Was assigned to Thirty-sixth Brigade, Colonel D. McCook, with Fifty-second Ohio and Eighty-fifth Illinois, and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Illinois, Eleventh Division, Brigadier General P. H. Sheridan commanding.

Marched from camp, October 1st, and on the 8th, was engaged in the battle of Perryville, losing 1 killed and 14 wounded. Moved, thence, to Crab Orchard and to Nashville, arriving November 7th. Soon after moved to Mill Creek. Returned to Nashville, December 10th. Moved to Brentwood, April 8th, 1863. Returned to Nashville, June 3d. On the 30th, moved to Murfreesboro. Returned July 19th. Marched, August 20th, via Franklin and Columbia, to Huntsville, Alabama, and, on the 4th of September, marched to Chattanooga. The Eighty-sixth was here assigned to the Reserve Corps, under Major General Gordon Granger.

Engaged in the battle of Chickamauga, September 19th, 20th and 21st.

Brigade assigned to Second Division, Fourteenth Army Corps. Moved into Lookout Valley, October 29th. In the night of November 23d, crossed the river on a pontoon, and camped at the foot of Missionary Ridge. Pursued the enemy, on the 26th, to Ringgold, and was then ordered to Knoxville, Tennessee. Marched as far as Little Tennessee river, and returned to Chattanooga, December 18th, after a most severe march.

Was engaged in the reconnaissance to Buzzard Roost Gap, near Dalton, February, 24th, 1864, fighting the enemy two days. Lost 1 man killed, and 7 wounded.

March 6th, moved to Lee and Gordon's Mills, and, May 3d, joined General Sherman's army at Ringgold, Georgia. Was engaged at Buzzard's Roost, May 9th, 10th and 11th; Resaca, May 14th and 15th; Rome, 17th—6 killed, and 11 wounded; Dallas, from May 27th to June 5th; Kenesaw Mountain, from June 11th to 27th—losing 110 killed and wounded.

It again engaged the enemy, on the banks of the Chattahoochee, on the 18th of July; at Peach Tree Creek on the 19th, and, near Atlanta, 20th and 22d.

Engaged in the siege of Atlanta, Colonel Dillsworth commanding Brigade, Brigadier General J. D. Morgan commanding Division, and Brevet Major General Jeff. C. Davis commanding Corps. Engaged at Jonesboro, September 1st.

September 29th, moved, by rail, to Athens, Alabama, and marched to Florence, driving Forrest across the Tennessee. Moved to Chattanooga, and thence to Galesville, Alabama, Kingston, and to Atlanta, arriving November 15th.

Commenced the "march to the sea" November 16th. Arrived at Savannah, December 21st. Moved, January 20th, 1865, on the campaign of the Carolinas—Brevet Brigadier General B. D. Fearing commanding Brigade.

Engaged in the battle of Averysboro, March 16th, and of Bentonville, 19th and 20th, and arrived at Goldsboro, March 23d. Marched to Raleigh, April 10th.

After the surrender of Johnson, marched, via Richmond, to Washington City, at which place was mustered out of service, June 6th, 1865, by Lieutenant George Scroggs, A. C. M., and ordered to Chicago, Illinois, where received final pay and discharge.

Died, killed, and wounded, 346. Marched, 3500 miles; by rail, 2000 miles.

HISTORY OF EIGHTY-EIGHTH INFANTRY.

The Eighty-eighth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Chicago, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Francis T. Sherman, and was known as the "Second Board of Trade Regiment." It was mustered in September 4th, 1862.

Ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, September 4th, and went into camp below Jeffersonville. Received arms on 11th. Moved to Covington, Kentucky, 12th. On the 15th, was brigaded with Twenty-fourth Wisconsin, and Second and Fifteenth Missouri, Colonel Greasel's (First) Brigade, Granger's Division, Army of the Ohio. On the 21st, moved to Louisville, and was brigaded with Twenty-first Michigan, Twenty-fourth Wisconsin, and Thirty-sixth Illinois, Colonel Greasel commanding Thirty-seventh Brigade; Eleventh Division, Brigadier General P. H. Sheridan commanding.

October 1st, 1862, marched in pursuit of Bragg. Engaged in the battle of Perryville, October 8th—losing 4 killed, 5 mortally wounded, and 36 wounded. Marched to Crab Orchard, and thence to Lebanon and Bowling Green, Kentucky, arriving October 30th, 1862. Moved toward Nashville, arriving at Edgefield, November 7th. Moved November 17th, 6 miles south of Nashville, on Nolensville pike.

November 20th, 1862, brigaded First Brigade, Second Division, under Major General P. H. Sheridan, of the Right Wing, Army of the Cumberland.

December 26th, 1862, marched in the advance upon Murfreesboro.

December 31st, 1862, to January 3d, 1863, engaged in the battle of Stone River.

January, 1863, to June, 1863, encamped at Murfreesboro, with the exception of a scout to Columbia, Tennessee, in pursuit of Van Horn.

June, 1863, to July, 1863, brigaded in First Brigade, Second Division, Twentieth Army Corps. Engaged in the advance in movement against and pursuit of Bragg, from Middle Tennessee.

August, 1863, encamped at Bridgeport, Alabama.

September, 1863, joined in the Chickamauga Campaign, and advanced to Alpine, Georgia.

September 19th and 20th, 1863, engaged in the battle of Chickamauga.

October, 1863, encamped at Chattanooga. Brigaded First Brigade, Second Division, Fourth Army Corps.

November 23d to 25th, 1863, engaged in the battle of Mission Ridge. Formed part of the assaulting column upon the left center of the enemy's position, and was among the first to place its colors upon the enemy's works.

December, 1863, to February, 1864, engaged in scouting through East Tennessee, when it encamped at Loudon, where it remained until April, 1864.

April, 1864, moved to Cleveland, Tennessee.

May, 1864, joined in the advance upon the Atlanta Campaign. It continued with the advance, as part of the Fourth Corps, commanded by Major General Howard, throughout the whole of that campaign, up to and including the capture of Atlanta—participating in the following principal battles and skirmishes; Rocky-Face Ridge, Resaca, Adairsville,

New Hope Church, Pine Mountain, Mud Creek, Kenesaw Mountain, Smyrna Camp Ground, Atlanta, Jonesboro, and Lovejoy Station. Its services in the advance movements were continuous and constant, from May to September, 1864.

September, 1864, was ordered to Chattanooga, and was engaged during the month in duty at that place and Whiteside and Bridgeport.

October, 1864, moved to Gaylesville, Alabama, and returned to Chattanooga.

November, 1864, moved to Pulaski, Tennessee, and thence, upon the advance of Hood, to Columbia, Franklin and Nashville. It was engaged in skirmishes at Columbia and Spring Hill, and in the battle of Franklin, upon the right centre, the main point of attack of the enemy.

December 15th and 16th, 1864, engaged in the battle of Nashville.

December 16th, 1864, to January, 1865, joined in the pursuit of Hood, from Tennessee.

January, 1865, to March, 1865, encamped at Huntsville, Alabama.

March, 1865, moved to Bull's Gap, East Tennessee. May, 1865, moved to Nashville, where it remained until its muster-out.

During the period of its service the Regiment was always in the front. It was never upon garrison duty. Its losses in the engagements in which it participated aggregate two-thirds of its number; and its conduct in every battle was such as to merit and receive the commendation of its Brigade, Division, and Corps commanders. For its conduct at Stone River, Mission Ridge, and Franklin, it was made the subject of special mention.

The Regiment was mustered out June 9th, 1865, at Nashville, Tennessee, and arrived at Chicago, June 13th, 1865, where it received final pay and discharge, June 22d, 1865.

HISTORY OF EIGHTY-NINTH INFANTRY.

The "Rail Road Regiment" was organized by the railroad Companies of Illinois, at Chicago, in August, 1862. Captain John Christopher, Sixteenth United States Infantry, was appointed Colonel, and Charles T. Hotchkiss Lieutenant Colonel. It was mustered into United States' service August 27th.

Ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, September 4th, and was assigned, by Major General Wright, commanding Department of Ohio, to Third Brigade, Colonel Woodruff; Second Division, General Cruft; Army of Kentucky, General Nelson. Assigned, October 1st, to Sixth Brigade, General Willich; Second Division, General Sill; McCook's Corps of Buell's Army.

The Regiment, on leaving Louisville, started in pursuit of the rebel forces under General Bragg, and, after a fruitless and wearisome march of a month, reached Bowling Green, Kentucky. At this point the tenth Company, F, joined the Regiment. When in the service but about four months, it took an active part in the memorable battle of Stone River, where, by its gallant conduct, the men soon became classified among the old, tried soldiers. It did well, and among the heroes who that day died in liberty's cause was Captain Henry S. Willett, of Company H.

On the 7th of January, 1863, Colonel Christopher, who had never joined the Regiment, resigned. The line of promotion then ensuing made Captain William D. Williams, of Company F, Major.

At Liberty Gap another loss was sustained: Captain Herbert M. Blake, Company K, a truly brave and efficient officer fell mortally wounded. Chickamauga seemed to affix the seal of its devotion. There fell Lieutenant Colonel Duncan J. Hall, Captains Rice, Spink and Whiting, and Lieutenant Ellis, besides the scores of brave men who fought with noble heroism, and who dared to "do and die" in defense of the "old flag."

Upon the reorganization of the Army of the Cumberland, the Regiment was transferred, with Willich's command, to its new position in the First Brigade, Third Division, Fourth Army Corps. At Mission Ridge it again encountered the foe, scaling the enemy's entrenchments and driving him from them. In this charge fell those gallant officers, Lieutenant E. O. Young, Company A, and Captain Henry L. Rowell, Company C.

It then marched to the relief of Burnside, besieged at Knoxville. This accomplished, it moved on with the Brigade, in the marches and counter marches through East Tennessee.

Early in April, 1864, it marched with the command to Southern Tennessee, preparatory to General Sherman's glorious campaign through Northern Georgia, for the occupation of Atlanta.

With the Brigade, it participated in the splendid victories of Rocky Face, Resaca, Pickett's Mills, Kennesaw Mountain, Peach Tree Creek, and the flank movement of Atlanta, and pursued the routed enemy in his retreat to Jonesboro and Lovejoy's Station.

On this campaign, Lieutenant Nathaniel Street, of Company D, and Captain William Harkness, Company A, offered up their lives a sacrifice to their beloved country.

After the unsuccessful attempt of the rebel forces to destroy the railroad communications of the army, between Atlanta and Chattanooga, the regiment rendered very important service, while on detached duty, in repairing the damages on the railroad inflicted by the enemy.

On the 30th of October, 1864, it was ordered to rejoin the command at Pulaski, Tennessee. It participated in the brilliant achievements of Spring Hill, Columbia, Franklin and Nashville, in the latter of which fell Lieutenant P. G. Taite, of Company G, pierced by cannon ball. Subsequently it pursued Hood's shattered forces, in their flying retreat across Tennessee.

It passed winter quarters at Huntsville, Alabama, in January, 1865, and on the 1st of February traveled by railroad for Nashville, and after lying there five days, returned to Camp Green. About the middle of March, the command embarked on the cars for East Tennessee, to re-establish communications through to Virginia, and prepare to repel rebel invasion.

On the surrender of Lee's army, further movements in that section were abandoned, and the Fourth Corps returned by cars to Nashville, to muster out of service its non-veterans.

On the 10th of June, 1865, the regiment was mustered out of the United States' service, in the field, near Nashville, Tennessee. Left there June 13th, by the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago Railroad, and arrived in Chicago on the night of June 12th, 1865, and was discharged at Camp Douglas, on the 24th of June, 1865, making its term of service two years, nine months and twenty-seven days.

HISTORY OF NINETIETH INFANTRY.

The Ninetieth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Chicago, Illinois, in August, September and October, 1862, by Colonel Timothy O'Meara.

Moved to Cairo, November 27th, and to Columbus, Kentucky, 30th. From thence proceeded to Lagrange, Tennessee, where the Regiment arrived December 2d. On the 4th. ordered to Cold Water, Mississippi, where it relieved the Twenty-ninth Wisconsin Infantry.

On the morning of 20th December, a detachment of Second Illinois Cavalry arrived at Cold Water, having cut their way through Van Dorn's forces, out of Holly Springs. Soon after, 4 companies of One Hundred and First Illinois came in, and were followed by the enemy to our lines. The demonstrations made by the Ninetieth deterred the enemy from making any severe attack, although he was 4000 or 5000 strong, and, after some skirmishing, he withdrew.

The Regiment was mustered out of service June 6th, 1865, at Washington, D. C., and arrived at Chicago June 12th, 1865, where it received final pay and discharge.

HISTORY OF NINETY-FIRST INFANTRY.

The Ninety-first Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Henry M. Day, and was mustered in September 8th, 1862.

Ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, October 1st, and was assigned to duty, guarding the L. and N. R. R., in General Gilbert's Division.

On the 27th December, 1862, at Elizabethtown, Kentucky, after a fierce engagement, the Regiment was captured by Morgan, and, after being paroled, was sent to Benton Barracks, Missouri.

July 14th, 1863, having been exchanged, arrived at Vicksburg, Mississippi. Moved to Port Hudson, 26th. Marched to Carrollton, Louisiana, August 13th. Embarked for Morganzia, September 6th, and, arriving on the 9th, moved out toward Atchafalaya river. Had a brisk skirmish with the enemy, under General Green, losing 6 or 7 wounded. The enemy was repulsed. On the 10th of October, moved to Morganzia.

The Regiment was in the Second Brigade, Colonel H. M. Day commanding; Second Division, Major General N. J. T. Dana commanding, of the Thirteenth Corps. Embarked for New Orleans, going into camp, October 12th.

The Ninety-first was transferred to the First Brigade. Embarked, October 22d, for Brownsville. Landed at Brazos Santiago, November 3d, and at once proceeded to Brownsville, capturing the fort and city, and driving the enemy, under General Bee, from that part of Texas.

In July, 1864, the Division was ordered away from Texas, and the Ninety-first and two Regiments of colored troops, were left at Brazos Santiago, as garrison, Colonel Day commanding post.

About the last of December, the Regiment was relieved by the Thirty-fourth Indiana, and sent to New Orleans, and placed on provost duty. Was assigned to Second Brigade, Third Division, Thirteenth Army Corps.

In February, joined the Corps at Fort Morgan. Colonel Day was placed in command of the Brigade.

The Ninety-first took an active part in the campaign which resulted in the capture of Spanish Fort and Fort Blakely, and caused the surrender of Mobile.

After the surrender of Mobile, the Division moved up the Tombigbee river, some sixty miles, in pursuit of the enemy. Overtook his rear guard at Eight-Mile creek—the Ninety-first in advance—when a sharp engagement ensued, the enemy being driven from the field at the point of the bayonet—the Regiment losing a few men wounded. This engagement was probably the last one of the war, east of the Mississippi river.

The Regiment was mustered out of service July 12th, 1865, at Mobile, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, July 23d, where it received final payment and discharge.

III. The following named officers of the Ninety-second Illinois Infantry are hereby transferred, with two hundred and twenty-five (225) enlisted men of that regiment, to the Sixty-fifth Illinois Infantry, and will report to Lieutenant Colonel Stewart, commanding, for duty:
Captain John T. Nelson, Captain Harvey W. Timms, First Lieutenant Norman Lewis, Second Lieutenant James D. White.
By command of Brevet Major General RUGER.

HENRY A. HALL, Captain and A. A. G.

HISTORY OF NINETY-SECOND INFANTRY.

The Ninety-second Regiment Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Rockford, Illinois, and mustered into the United States' service September 4th, 1862. It was composed of five companies from Ogle county, three from Stephenson county, and two from Carroll county.

The Regiment left Rockford, October 11th, 1862, with orders to report to General Wright, at Cincinnati, where it was assigned to General Baird's Division, Army of Kentucky. It marched immediately into the interior of the state, and, during the latter part of October, was stationed at Mt. Sterling, to guard that place against rebel raids, and, afterwards, at Danville, Kentucky. On 26th January, 1863, the Regiment, with General Baird's Division, was ordered to the Army of the Cumberland. Arriving at Nashville, the command moved to Franklin, Tennessee, and was engaged in the pursuit of the rebel General Van Dorn. Advanced to Murfreesboro, and occupied Shelbyville, June 27th. On July 5th, Regiment was engaged in rebuilding wagon bridge over Dutch river. July 6th, was ordered by General Rosecrans to be mounted, and armed with the Spencer rifle, and attached to Colonel Wilder's Brigade, of General Thomas' Corps; in which Corps it remained while General Rosecrans had command. The Regiment crossed the mountains at Dechard, Tennessee, and took part in the movements opposite and above Chattanooga, when it re-crossed the mountains, and joined General Thomas, at Trenton, Alabama.

On the morning of 9th September, it was in the advance to Chattanooga, and participated in driving the rebels from Point Lookout, and entered the rebel stronghold unfurling the Union banner on the Crutchfield house, and kept in pursuit of the rebels. At Ringgold, Georgia, was attacked by a Brigade of Cavalry, under command of General Forrest, and drove them from the town, killing and wounding a large number.

During the Chickamauga battle, the Regiment took part in General Reynolds' Division, of General Thomas' Corps.

In April, 1864, it was again at Ringgold, Georgia, doing picket duty.

April 23d, Captain Scovil, with 21 men, were captured at Nickajack Gap, nine miles from Ringgold, and 1 man killed. Of the men thus taken prisoners, 12 were shot down and 6 died of wounds, after being taken prisoners. The remainder were taken to Andersonville; and very few ever left that place, having died from the cruel treatment received there.

From Ringgold, May 7th, 1864, the Regiment entered upon the Atlanta Campaign, and was assigned to General Kilpatrick's command, and participated in the battles of Resaca, raid around Atlanta, Bethesada, Fleet River Bridge, and Jonesboro. The Regiment lost, at Jonesboro, one-fifth of the men engaged. From Mount Gilead Church, west of Atlanta, October 1st, the Regiment moved, and took active part in the operations against Hood's Army. At Powder Springs, it had a severe engagement, losing a large number of men, killed and wounded. The Regiment then returned to Marietta, and participated in the various engagements and skirmishes in Sherman's march to the sea. At Bentonville, Captain Hawk, company C, was severely wounded, losing a leg.

The Regiment, during its term of service, was in some 40 battles and skirmishes. It was mustered out at Concord, North Carolina, and paid and discharged from the service at Chicago, Illinois, July 10th, 1865.

HISTORY OF NINETY-THIRD INFANTRY.

The Ninety-third Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Chicago, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Holden Putnam, and mustered in October 13th, 998 strong.

Was ordered to Memphis, Tennessee, November 9th, and, arriving on the 14th, moved with General Grant's army, in the Northern Mississippi Campaign, to Yocona creek, and thence, via Lumpkin's Mills, to Memphis, arriving December 30th. Marched again, immediately, to LaFayette, Tennessee, and returned to Ridgeway, where the Regiment remained during January and February, 1863.

Embarked for Lake Providence, March 3d, and from thence moved to Helena, 10th. From thence moved down the river, on the Yazoo Pass Expedition. Entered Moon Lake the 22d, and landed near Greenwood. After reconnoitering the enemy's position, re-embarked and returned to Helena. On the 13th April, moved to Milliken's Bend, and, on the 25th, commenced the Vicksburg Campaign. Marched, via Bruinsburg, Port Gibson, Raymond and Clinton, and arrived at Jackson, May 14th. The Ninety-third was first under fire here. Participated in the advance, losing 3 killed and 4 wounded.

Remained at Jackson until the 15th, and then moved toward Vicksburg. On the 16th, was engaged in the battle of Champion Hills.

The Ninety-third was in the Third Brigade, Seventh Division, Seventeenth Army Corps. At 2 o'clock p. m., Brigadier General Hovey's Division being severely pressed, the Brigade was ordered forward, and placed on the extreme left. After 20 minutes' fighting it was flanked on the left, and, retiring steadily, changed front to the left. Being again flanked, it again retired, and in this position held its ground against a most furious attack. After which the enemy retreated to Black River Bridge. The loss of the Regiment was 1 officer and 37 men killed, 6 officers and 107 men wounded, and 1 officer and 10 men missing.

On the 17th, again moved toward Vicksburg. At noon, of the 19th, came on the enemy's line, about 3 miles from the city. On the 22d May, was engaged in the assault on the enemy's works, on the left of Fort Fisher, losing 10 or 12 men killed and wounded. In the afternoon was ordered to re-enforce General McClernand's command, near the railroad. At 4 o'clock p. m., charged the enemy. Loss in this charge, 5 enlisted men killed, and 1 officer and 49 enlisted men wounded. On the 22d of June, moved to the rear, and, on July 4th, was stationed at McCall's plantation.

July 13th, 1863, started for Jackson. Arrived on 15th, and immediately moved to Vicksburg, arriving 25th. On the 12th September, moved to Helena, Arkansas, and, on the 30th, to Memphis. Moved to Glendale, October 3d. Marched to Burnsville, Mississippi, October 8th. On 19th, marched toward Chattanooga, via Iuka, Florence, Alabama, Winchester, Tennessee, and Bridgeport, Alabama, arriving November 19th.

November 24th, the Regiment crossed the Tennessee river, and threw up a tete de pont, occupying the works until the pontoon bridge was built, and November 25th, was heavily engaged at Mission Ridge, losing Colonel Holden Putnam and 19 men killed, 1 officer and 44 enlisted men wounded, and 2 officers and 25 men missing. Pursued the enemy, November 26th and 27th, to Grayson, and returned to Chattanooga. Moved toward Bridgeport, Alabama, Dec. 3d. On 22d, moved to Larkinsville, Alabama, and, January 17th, 1864, to Huntsville. On the 12th of February, participated in the reconnoissance to Dalton. On the 24th and 25th, lay in line of battle all day, near Dalton. Returned to Huntsville, March 6th.

Moved, by rail, to Decatur, Alabama, and June 14th, marched, via Huntsville and Larkinsville, to Stevenson, Alabama, arriving on the 25th.

On the 27th, moved by rail to Chattanooga, and, 28th, to Kingston. One mile north of Dalton, the train collided with an up-train, and 1 officer and 30 men were wounded.

July 2d, moved to Etowah, to guard crossings, until 11th, when the Regiment returned to Kingston.

August 2d and 3d, marched to Allatoona. On the evening of 15th, moved, by rail, to Resaca, and, on 17th, marched to Spring Place; but, Wheeler's cavalry having retreated, the command returned to Resaca and to Allatoona.

On the 3d of September, 10 men were captured, while out foraging.

On the 5th of October, the Ninety-third was a part of the force, 2100 strong, which so signally defeated General French's rebel Division of 7000 men. At one o'clock, A. M., the picket firing commenced. At seven, A. M., the artillery, on both sides, opened, and at nine, A. M., the enemy made his first charge, and, after desperate fighting, succeeded in pressing the Union forces back, from the outer line of works, into the forts. Until three P. M., the battle raged with intense fury, when the enemy hastily withdrew, in the direction of Dallas. The Ninety-third lost 21 killed, 3 officers and 49 men wounded, and 10 missing.

On the 12th of November, 1864, the Regiment started on "the march to the sea," and marched, via Atlanta, McDonough, Jackson, Planter's Factory, Hillsboro, Clinton, Gordon, Irwinton, Summerville, and Eden, reaching the enemy's lines around Savannah, December 10th. On the 11th, skirmished with the enemy at Ogeechee canal, losing 1 killed and two wounded. On 12th, moved to "Station 1," on the Gulf Railroad, and remained till 21st, when it marched into the city and there remained until January 19th, 1865.

Commenced the Campaign of the Carolinas, on the 19th January. Marched across the Savannah river and two miles into the swamp. On the 20th, returned to Savannah, and, 23d, embarked for Beaufort, South Carolina. Landed on 24th, and, on 29th, marched northward, via McPhersonville, Hickory Hill, Owens' Cross Roads, Baneburg, Graham, (destroying one and a half miles of railroad) Bismaker's Bridge, Orangeburg, Bates' Ferry, on the Congaree, (where skirmished with the enemy, 15th February,) and to Columbia, arriving 17th. While here one man was mortally wounded by the accidental explosion of shells.

From Columbia, marched, via Muddy Springs, Peay's Ferry, on the Wateree, Liberty Hill, west's Corner, (here had 1 man wounded by enemy's cavalry,) to Cheraw, South Carolina; thence, via Laurel Hill, Big Raft Swamp, Fayetteville, Jackson's Cross Roads, Cox's Bridge, and Bentonville, arriving at Goldsboro, March 24th. On the 10th of April, moved to Raleigh, arriving 14th.

After the surrender of Johnson's army, marched, via Petersburg and Richmond, Virginia, to Washington City. Participated in the grand review May 24th, and, on the 31st, moved to Louisville, Kentucky.

June 23d, 1865, mustered out of service, and, on the 25th, arrived at Chicago, Illinois. Received final payment and discharge, July 7th, 1865.

During two years and seven months' service, the casualties, in battle, of the Ninety-third were 446, and 1 officer and 31 men accidentally wounded.

The Regiment has marched 2554 miles, traveled, by water, 2296 miles, and by railroad, 1237 miles. Total, 6087 miles.

HISTORY OF NINETY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

The Ninety-fourth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Bloomington, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel William W. Orme, and mustered into the United States' service, August 20th.

Ordered to Benton Barracks, August 25th. In September, moved to Rolla. Thence, via Waynesville, Lebanon and Mill Springs, to Springfield. Moved, November 12th, to Ozark. Moved, 14th, to White Oak Springs. 18th, returned. 19th, moved to Wilson's creek. December 3d, moved to Crane creek, and thence to Cassville, Sugar creek, and, on 5th and 6th, marched 28 hours, without intermission, meeting the enemy on the 7th, at Illinois creek, Arkansas, 2500 strong, under Hindman. The Union forces were Second and Third Division, Army of the Frontier, under Brigadier General Heron, and comprised 6000 men and 24 pieces artillery. Attacked the enemy at 2, P. M., and held him in check 3 hours, and, being re-enforced by General Blunt's First Division, continued the action until night, when the enemy withdrew. The Ninety-fourth lost 1 man killed and 32 wounded.

The Regiment was mustered out of service July 17th, 1865, at New Orleans, Louisiana, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, August 2d, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

ORDER OF TRANSFER.

HEADQUARTERS DISTRICT OF MONTGOMERY,
MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA, August 25, 1865.

SPECIAL ORDERS, {
No. 13. } Extract.

III. The enlisted men of the detachment of the Ninety-fifth Illinois Volunteer Infantry are transferred to the Forty-seventh Illinois Volunteer Infantry. The transfers will be made in accordance with Circular No. 64, War Department, series of 1864. The Commissary of Musters, District of Montgomery, is charged with the execution of this order.

By command of Brevet Major General J. McARTHUR.

JAMES B. COMSTOCK, A. A. G.

HISTORY OF NINETY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The Ninety-fifth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Fuller, Rockford, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Lawrence S. Church, and mustered into the United States' service September 4th, 1862.

The Regiment moved from camp, November 4th, and proceeded, via Cairo and Columbus, to Jackson, Tennessee, and, afterward, to Grand Junction, Tennessee, where it was assigned to General McArthur's Division, Army of the Tennessee. Took part in General Grant's campaign in Northern Mississippi, in the winter of 1862.

Moved from Memphis to Milliken's Bend in the spring of 1863. Participated in the march to Grand Gulf, and all the battles between that place and the rear of Vicksburg. Was in the charges of May 19th and 22d, losing 25 killed, 124 wounded, and 10 missing—a much heavier loss than that of any other Regiment in the Division.

In March, 1864, went on Red River expedition, under General A. J. Smith, and was engaged at the capture of Fort DeRussey and in the battles of Old River, Cloutierville, Mansouri, Yellow Bayou, and all the movements of that advance and retreat.

In May, 1864, returned to Vicksburg, and soon after moved to Memphis and took part in the ill-fated Sturgis expedition. Was in the battle of Guntown, and fought with undaunted bravery, but was overpowered, and, with the whole of Sturgis' army, retreated in confusion to Memphis. Colonel Thomas W. Humphrey was killed, and nearly the whole Regiment was killed, wounded or made prisoners. This campaign nearly annihilated the Regiment.

After recruiting at Memphis the command, in August, joined General Mower. Moved up White river, and marched from Brownsville, through Arkansas, to Missouri, in pursuit of Price. The Ninety-fifth arrived at Benton Barracks, Missouri, November 1st, 1864.

November 30th, moved to Nashville, Tennessee. Took part in battle of Nashville, December 15th and 16th, 1864, and in pursuit of Hood's defeated army to Tennessee river. January 2d, 1865, moved up the river to Eastport.

In February, 1865, embarked for New Orleans, arriving February 21st.

On the 14th of March, moved to Dauphin Island, at mouth of Mobile Bay. On the 18th, landed at Cedar Point, with Colonel Moore's Brigade, and commenced the first offensive operations against Mobile. Took part in General Canby's movement from Fish river. During the siege of Spanish Fort, carried its trenches to within 30 yards of the enemy's works, and participated in the storming and capture of the fort, April 8th, 1865, being the first Regiment to occupy what was known, in the rebel line, as the "Red Fort."

After the fall of Mobile, the Ninety-fifth marched to Montgomery, Alabama, arriving April 25th. From thence, moved to Opelika, Alabama.

July 18th, started home. August 3d, arrived at Vicksburg. 10th, at St. Louis, and moved to Camp Butler, Illinois, where, August 18th, 1865, it was mustered out of service.

During the summer of 1864, the Regiment had a detachment of 100 men, with Major Charles B. Loop, Captain James Nish and Captain A. S. Stewart, in charge. They participated in the battles of Kenesaw Mountain, Chattahoochie river, Atlanta, Jonesboro and Lovejoy Station.

The Regiment has marched 1800 miles, and moved, by rail and water, 8160 miles. 84 men have been killed in battle or died of wounds, and 176 died of disease. Total number of men who have belonged to the Ninety-fifth, 1355.

HISTORY OF NINETY-SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The Ninety-seventh Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Friend S. Rutherford, and mustered in September 16th.

Moved, October 3d, for Cincinnati. On 17th, marched to Nicholasville, and remained till November 10th, when it was assigned to the Division of Brigadier General A. J. Smith, and moved to Louisville, arriving 15th. On 17th, embarked for Memphis, Tennessee, and went into camp, November 26th. Was assigned to Second Brigade, Colonel W. J. Landrum; Tenth Division, Brigadier General A. J. Smith; Thirteenth Army Corps, Major General John A. McClelland.

Left Memphis, December 20th, and landed near Walnut Hill, on the Yazoo, and was on the extreme right during the operations on Vicksburg.

When the attack was abandoned, on the 1st of January, 1863, moved to Arkansas Post, and participated in the battle at that place, January 11th.

On January 15th, went down the river, to Young's Point. March 6th, moved to Milliken's Bend. April 15th, marched to Grand Gulf. May 1st, was engaged at Port Gibson, and May 16th, at Champion Hills.

Arrived in the rear of Vicksburg, May 19th, and participated in the siege, until July 4th, 1863.

The Ninety-seventh took part in General Sherman's expedition to Jackson, and returned to Vicksburg, where it remained until August 25th. At which date it embarked for New Orleans, Brigadier General M. K. Lawler commanding Fourth Division, and camped at Carrollton, 27th.

The Regiment was mustered out of service July 29th, 1865, at Galveston, Texas, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, August 13th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIVISION OF THE TENNESSEE,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, June 28, 1865.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 5. } Extract.

XXVI. Those men of the Ninety-eighth Illinois Volunteers who are ineligible to be mustered out with that command, now at Edgefield, Tennessee, will proceed, without delay, to Franklin, Tennessee, under charge of Captain J. E. Judy, Sixty-first Illinois. On arrival at Franklin, these men will be transferred to, and permanently consolidated with the Sixty-first Illinois Volunteer Infantry.

Brevet Major A. L. Hough, Chief Commissary of Musters, M. D. T., is hereby charged with the execution of this order. The transfer to be made under provisions of Circular No. 64, series 1864, War Department.

By command of Major General THOMAS.

HENRY M. CIST, A. A. G.

HISTORY OF NINETY-EIGHTH INFANTRY.

The Ninety-eighth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Centralia, Illinois, September, 1862, by Colonel John J. Funkhouser, and mustered in September 3d.

September 8th, 1862, the Regiment was ordered to Louisville, Kentucky. At Bridgeport, Illinois, whilst en route, the train was thrown from the track, by a misplaced switch, and Captain O. L. Kelly and 7 men killed, and 75 wounded. On the 9th, moved to camp Jo Holt, at Jeffersonville. On 19th, moved to Shepherdsville. On 30th, moved to Elizabethtown, and, from thence, moved to Frankfort, arriving October 9th. On 11th, moved to Versailles, from which the enemy retreated, leaving 200 sick in hospital; and, on 13th, returned.

The Regiment was in Fortieth Brigade, Seventy-second and Seventy-fifth Indiana, Ninety-eighth Illinois, and Thirteenth Indiana Battery; Colonel A. O. Miller, Seventy-second Indiana, commanding; Twelfth Division, Brigadier General Dumont commanding; Army of Ohio. On October 26th, the Brigade marched, via Bardstown, Mumfordsville and Glasgow, to Bowling Green, arriving November 3d.

November 10th, 1862, moved with Brigade and Division to Scottsville; 25th, to Gallatin; 28th, to Castillian Springs, and, December 14th, to Bledsoe creek. General Reynolds took command of the Division, December 23d. The Seventeenth Indiana was assigned to the Brigade—Colonel Wilder, of that Regiment taking command of the Brigade. On 26th December, began march northward, in pursuit of Morgan, arriving, 31st, at Glasgow.

January 2d, 1863, marched to Cave City, and, on the 4th, moved to Nashville. From thence, marched to Murfreesboro, 6th. On 14th, the Regiment was assigned to First Brigade, Fifth Division, Fourteenth Army Corps. Brigade composed of Seventeenth and Seventy-second Indiana, One Hundred and Twenty-third and Ninety-eighth Illinois. January 24th, moved through Bradyville, and, on 25th, returned.

On the 8th of March, the Ninety-eighth was ordered to be mounted. During the winter and spring of 1863, it had been doing guard duty for forage trains and on scouts. On 14th March, 350 men were mounted. Shortly afterward the whole Brigade was mounted. On the 1st of April, moved out on an 8 days' scout, going to Rome, Lebanon and Snow's Hill, and returned.

On April 13th, moved to Lavergne and Franklin, and returned the next day. Moved to McMinnville, April 20th, and destroyed a cotton factory and captured a railroad train. On 22d and 23d, moved, by way of Liberty, to Alexandria, and joined General Reynolds' command. On 27th, moved to Lebanon, having captured a large number of horses and mules. 29th, returned to Murfreesboro.

May 6th, the One Hundred and Twenty-third Illinois was assigned to the Brigade, and mounted in place of the Seventy-fifth Indiana.

On May 23d, made a reconnoissance to the front, driving in the enemy's pickets, killing 2 and wounding 4. On the 31st, the Regiment was armed with the Spencer repeating rifle.

June 4th, moved out on the Liberty road, and attacked the First Kentucky and Eleventh Texas rebel cavalry, capturing 20 prisoners and 5 wagons. Moved, June 16th, to Dark Bend, on the Tennessee. On the 10th, attacked the enemy at Liberty, driving their rear guard, of 150 men, to Snow's Hill.

On 24th June, moved, with the Army of the Cumberland, to attack the enemy. The Ninety-eighth Mounted Infantry, on the right flank, came upon the enemy at Hoover's Gap, repulsing them—the Regiment losing 1 man killed and 5 wounded.

From June 24th to 28th, moved flank of Fourth Division, cutting the railroad at Decherd, and driving the enemy from the stockades. Returned to Manchester, July 1st. From July 1st to 16th August, was in the vicinity of Wartrace and Decherd, and captured over 1000 horses and mules.

The Ninety-second Illinois, Colonel Atkins, was assigned to the Brigade.

On August 16th, moved, over Cumberland Mountains and Waldron's Ridge, to Poe's Tavern, and, September 9th, forded Tennessee, and moved in advance of Chittenden's Corps, toward Ringgold. 11th, moved to Tunnel Hill, skirmishing with Forrest. 12th, moved to Gordon's Mills. 13th, lay in line of battle, skirmishing with the enemy, and, 14th, moved to Stephenson's Gap. On 17th, moved to Alexander's Bridge, and on 18th, the battle of Chickamauga began. The Ninety-eighth did good service in this action, and lost 5 killed and 36 wounded—Colonel Funkhouser being severely wounded.

During the remainder of the month, the Regiment marched to Stevenson, guarding prisoners, and returned. On 1st of October, the Brigade, Colonel A. O. Miller commanding, with First and Second Brigades of Cavalry, under General Crook, started in pursuit of Wheeler. On 2nd crossed Walden's bridge, and moved through Sequatchie to summit of Cumberland Mountains. 3d, the Ninety-eighth Illinois and Seventeenth Indiana attacked a Brigade of the enemy—their rear guard—and defeated it, killing or wounding 15 or 20 of the enemy. On the 4th, drove the enemy from McMinnville. 7th, came up with the enemy near Shelbyville, and charged him, capturing 50 prisoners, and losing only two wounded.

Was engaged in battle of Farmington.

On the 8th, was engaged in pursuit of Wheeler and followed him until he crossed Tennessee, 19th.

Went into camp at Maysville. On 21st November, moved to Chattanooga, where the Brigade was numbered the Third, and assigned to Second Cavalry Division, Brigadier General Crook commanding. The Ninety-eighth, numbering only 200 effective men, mounted.

The Division crossed the Chickamauga, on pontoons, and marched up the Tennessee, to Bly's Ferry, and thence, to Tine's Station, cutting the railroad, and telegraph wires, in sight of Bragg's camp fires. On November 24th, captured wagon train of 60 wagons, and moved into Cleveland. On 26th, had a slight engagement with the enemy, losing 2 wounded.

On 28th, Major Marquiss and Lieutenant Rickard, in charge of dismounted men, returned to Huntsville.

29th, the Ninety-eighth, numbering 150 men, moved to Benton.

December 1st, took advance of Sherman's army, driving the enemy to Loudon, and, on 2d, forded Little Tennessee, and moved to Knoxville. Moved to Maysville, on 5th, and Murphy on the 8th. Went into camp at Calhoun, on the Hiawassee river, on 15th—the Regiment being reduced to 111 men and officers. On 28th December, had a skirmish with Wheeler's Cavalry, driving them some distance and capturing the Inspector General of Kelly's rebel Division.

February 4th, 1864, Colonel Funkhouser joined the Regiment with the balance of the command.

In January, 1864, the Third Brigade had been assigned to Second Cavalry Division. On 23d and 24th February, the command was engaged at Buzzard's Roost, losing 12 wounded. On March 1st, moved to Cleveland. 16th, moved to Ringgold, and went on picket duty, extending the line toward Nickajack. Lost 2 men wounded. On 11th April, ordered to Columbia, and marched, via Bridgeport, Battle Creek, Decherd and Shelbyville, arriving April 24th. On 30th April, the Ninety-eighth, 400 strong, moved to the front, arriving at LaFayette, Georgia, May 9th. On 11th, marched to Villanov, and, on 14th, moved toward Rome. 16th, to Lay's Ferry, and, on 19th, marched through Kingston. On 23d, crossed Etowah and moved toward Van Wert, and, on 24th, through Van Wert, and within 2 miles of Dallas, met the enemy and drove him to Dallas. Skirmished with the enemy on 25th, and moved toward Powder Springs.

On 28th May, took position on McPherson's right, dismounted, and repulsed a charge of the enemy; and, on 29th, moved to Burnt Hickory. June 9th, made a reconnoissance beyond Big Shanty. Dismounted, and drove the enemy 5 miles. On 19th and 20th June, moved out to Noonday creek, and skirmished with the enemy.

On July 3d, marched through Marietta, and, on 4th, skirmished heavily. On 5th, moved toward Roswell Factory, and, on 9th, drove the enemy's pickets from the Chattahoochie and took possession of Roswell Factory.

Colonel Funkhouser resigned, to take effect July 5th. Crossed Chattahoochie to Cross Keys, on 17th, and struck Atlanta and Augusta Railroad 16 miles east of Atlanta, destroying several miles of track, and, on 19th, returned to McAfee's Bridge. Moved to Decatur on the 21st, and to Oxford and Covington, capturing a railroad train and 16 prisoners, burning railroad bridge, and returned to Decatur, 24th.

On 25th July, moved in support of Stoneman, in the movement on Atlanta and Mobile Railroad. The Division (Garrard's) was, at one time, entirely surrounded by the enemy, but cut its way out, and returned to rear of Atlanta.

On the 1st of August, 1864, the Division was ordered to occupy the works vacated by the Twenty-third Corps. On 15th, moved out of the works, and, on 20th, moved with Kilpatrick on the reconnoissance to Decatur.

Participated in Sherman's flank movements to Rough-and-Ready, and went on picket at Jonesboro, September 4th to 8th. Moved to Decatur, 8th September, to Blake's Mills, 9th, and on 19th, went on scout towards Lawrenceville. On 21st, moved to support of Kilpatrick, via Atlanta, Dry Pond and Sandtown. Crossed the Chattahoochie on the 24th, and reconnoitered toward Campbelltown. Moved to Lost Mountain and Ackworth.

Was engaged in watching movements of Hood's army, then marching north. Camped, October 4th, near Kenesaw. On 12th, moved to Rome. On 13th, moved out and attacked the enemy, defeating him. On 15th, moved to Adairsville. On 16th, to Snake Creek Gap. On 19th, to Chattoogaville. On 20th, to Gaylesville. On 21st, attacked and routed Wheeler, near Little River, at Rudd's farm.

November 1st, turned over our horses and equipments to Kilpatrick.

On Second November, moved to Calhoun. On 4th, moved toward Chattanooga, arriving 6th, and, on 13th, arrived at Nashville. Moved thence to Louisville. Lay in camp until December 26th, waiting for horses and equipments, and then ordered to Bardstown, to intercept enemy, under General Lyon. December 31st, moved to Elizabethtown.

On 12th January, 1865, the command passed through Nashville, Tennessee, and marched, via Columbia and Mount Pleasant, to Gravelly Springs, Alabama, remaining in camp at that place until March 13th. Moved to Waterloo and Chickasaw Landing. On 22d March, commenced the spring campaign, with the First, Second and Fourth Cavalry Divisions, 12,000 strong, Brevet Major General Wilson commanding. On 31st, arrived at Montrevalle—Roddy's rebel command being driven out by General Upton. On April 1st, the enemy made a stand at Ebenezer Church, but were routed by four companies of Seventeenth Indiana. On April 2d, participated in capture of Selma. The Fourth Cavalry Division, having failed in their assault, 1600 men of Second Division, General Long commanding, made the attack and carried the works. The loss of the Ninety-eighth, in this action, was 9 killed and 2 mortally wounded, 6 officers wounded and 21 men wounded. Number of the Regiment engaged, 172.

On 9th, crossed Alabama river, and, April 13th, marched through Montgomery. On 16th, marched through Columbus, and, on 20th, entered Macon, without opposition. The Ninety-eighth was detailed for provost guard, and Lieutenant Colonel Kitchell as Provost Marshal of the city. May 23d, started for Chattanooga, arriving June 1st; and, thence, to Nashville, arriving 15th, and camping near Edgefield. Was here joined by Major Marquiss and a detachment of Ninety-eighth.

Mustered out June 27th, 1865, by Captain L. M. Hosea, A. C. M. The recruits were transferred to Sixty-first Illinois Volunteers. Arrived at Springfield, Illinois, 30th June, and received final payment and discharge, July 7th, 1865.

HISTORY OF NINETY-NINTH INFANTRY.

The Ninety-ninth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized in Pike county, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel George W. K. Bailey, and was mustered in at Florence, August 23d, 1862 by Captain J. H. Rathbone.

On the same day, moved to St. Louis, and went into Benton Barracks on the 24th—being the first regiment out of the state, under the call of 1862.

On September 8th, ordered to Rolla, and served in that Department until the spring of 1863. Was assigned to the Brigade of Brigadier General Fitz Henry Warren, and was engaged in a skirmish at Bear creek, losing 1 killed, 4 wounded, 1 taken prisoner, and, in the battle of Hartsville, Missouri, losing 35 killed and wounded. Went into camp at Houston.

On 27th January, moved to West Plains, Missouri, reporting to Brigadier General Davidson. On March 3d, moved to Pilot Knob, and, thence, to St. Genevieve, arriving on the 12th, and, on the 15th March, 1863, embarked for Milliken's Bend, Louisiana. Arrived on 26th, and was assigned to First Brigade, Brigadier General W. P. Benton commanding; Fourteenth Division, Brigadier General E. A. Carr commanding; Thirteenth Army Corps.

Moved from Milliken's Bend, April 11th, and arrived at New Carthage, 12th. Was at Grand Gulf, April 29th. Crossed the river, and, May 1st, was engaged in the battle near Port Gibson, called Magnolia Hills, losing 37 men, killed and wounded. Marched with the army toward Jackson, and returned, via Champion Hills and Black River Bridge.

On 19th May, was at the defences of Vicksburg. On the 22d, the Regiment took a prominent part in the assault, losing, out of 300 men, 103 killed and wounded. The Colonel and Major were wounded early in the day, leaving Captain A. C. Mathews in command. Its line, during the day, was close to the enemy's works, and its colors planted on their breastworks. This position was held by the Ninety-ninth until 4 o'clock P. M., when it was relieved by another regiment, and moved back, 150 yards, to where its knapsacks had been left. While calling roll, the line which had relieved the Regiment was driven back in great confusion. The Ninety-ninth advanced, and opening a heavy fire, drove the enemy back into his works, and held him there, probably saving the whole Division from stampede.

Was engaged, during the siege, in General Benton's Brigade—Eighth and Eighteenth Indiana, and Thirty-third and Ninety-ninth Illinois. The Ninety-ninth lost, during the entire campaign and siege, 253—killed, wounded and missing.

On July 5th, the Ninth, Thirteenth and Fifteenth Corps, Major General Sherman commanding, moved after Johnson's army, to Jackson. Returned to Vicksburg, July 24th. On 21st of August, moved to New Orleans, and on 26th, went into camp at Brashear City.

October 3d, 1863, the Campaign of the Tescbe was commenced. The Regiment was in several skirmishes, and a detachment of the Regiment Captain A. C. Mathews commanding, was engaged in the battle of Grand Coteau. On 9th November, returned to Brashear City, and moved to New Orleans.

November 16th, embarked for Texas. On 25th, landed at Mustang Island, and, marching up to Matagorda Island, commenced the attack on Fort Esperanza, which was soon surrendered. The Ninety-ninth remained in Texas during the spring of 1864.

On 16th of June, 1864, it evacuated the Island, and reported to General Reynolds, at Algiers, Louisiana. The Regiment performed garrison duty on the Mississippi, during the entire summer, in First Brigade, Brigadier General Slack; First Division, General Dennis; Nineteenth Corps, General Reynolds. The Ninety-ninth was brigaded with Twenty-first Iowa, Twenty-ninth Wisconsin and Forty-seventh Indiana.

In November, 1864, moved to Memphis. Here the Regiment was consolidated into a Battalion of 5 companies, and Lieutenant Colonel A. C. Mathews assigned to command. Colonel Bailey, and the other supernumerary officers, being mustered out.

Moved to Germantown, and went on duty guarding railroad. On December 25th, three men of the Battalion were captured and murdered, by guerrillas. Moved to Memphis, December 28th. On January 1st, 1865, embarked for New Orleans, and arrived on the 9th. On 1st February, embarked for Dauphine Island, Alabama. Was assigned to First Brigade, First Division, Thirteenth Corps, with Twenty-first Iowa, Forty-seventh Indiana, and Twenty-ninth Wisconsin—General Slack commanding Brigade, Brigadier General Veatch commanding Division.

On March 17th, moved to Fort Morgan, and, on 26th, arrived at Fish river. Took part in the siege of Spanish Fort, until the 30th, when the Division was sent to General Steele's army, and, April 1st, went into position at Fort Blakely. The Ninety-ninth assisted in its investment and capture, and, on the 12th, entered Mobile.

In June, 1865, the Division was ordered to Red river, to receive the surrender of Kirby Smith, and it proceeded to Shreveport, Louisiana. From this place Colonel Mathews was detailed to proceed, with a body-guard of the Sixth Missouri Cavalry, to the Indian Territory, and receive the surrender of Brigadier Generals Cooper and Standwaite, and to form temporary treaties of peace with the Indian tribes. The Colonel formed treaties with ten tribes—including the Choctaws, Cherokees, Chickasaws and Osages—and returned (having traveled a thousand miles) on the 3d of July.

On 19th July, ordered to Baton Rouge. On 31st of July, mustered out by Captain E. S. Hawk, A. C. M.

Arrived at Springfield, Illinois, August 6th, and received final payment and discharge August 9th, 1865.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDREDTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundredth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Irwin, Joliet, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Frederick A. Bartleson, and mustered in August 30th.

On the 2d September, the Regiment moved, via Springfield, Illinois, to Louisville, Kentucky, where it was placed in First Brigade, Colonel E. N. Kirk commanding; Second Division, Brigadier General Cruft commanding; Army of Kentucky.

On 1st of October was transferred to Fifteenth Brigade, Sixth Division, Army of the Ohio, General Haskill commanding Brigade, and General Wood commanding Division.

Marched in pursuit of Bragg to Wild Cat, Kentucky, and, moving via Columbia and Scottsville, Kentucky, and Gallatin, Tennessee, to Nashville, it arrived, November 26th, 1862.

The Regiment was mustered out of service June 12th, 1865, at Nashville, Tennessee, and arrived at Chicago, June 15th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIRST INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and First Infantry Regiment Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Duncan, Jacksonville, Illinois, during the latter part of the month of August, 1862, and, on the 2d of September, 1862, was formally mustered into the United States' service, by Captain Charles Ewing, Thirteenth Infantry.

For about a month after muster-in, the Regiment remained at Camp Duncan, engaged in drilling and equipping for the field. At last, on the 6th of October, marching orders came, and, embarking on the cars, the Regiment, on the evening of the 7th, reached Cairo at sunset.

Here the Regiment remained for over a month, doing garrison duty. The interim was devoted to drill, in which the Regiment became so proficient as to win a very fair name. In consequence of the rainy weather, there was a great deal of sickness while at Cairo, and a good many men were discharged or died from disease. November 26th, the Regiment left Cairo, and proceeded down the river to Columbus, Kentucky, and thence, by rail, to Davis' Mills, Mississippi, where it was assigned to Loomis' Brigade of Ross' Division, Army of the Tennessee.

November 28th, it started on its first march, and, on the 30th, reached Lumpkin's Mills, six miles south of Holly Springs, where the Regiment first heard the "clash of contending arms," from the Tallahatchie river, six miles beyond. The Regiment remained at Lumpkin's Mills three days, when it received orders to return to Holly Springs, Mississippi, for provost and garrison duty.

December 12th, Company A, Captain John B. Lesage, was sent to Cairo, with rebel prisoners. December 20th, Holly Springs was captured, and Companies B, C, E, F, I, and the sick men of Company A, who had been left behind, were taken prisoners and paroled. Soon after they were sent to Memphis, and, thence, to Benton Barracks, Missouri, where they remained until exchanged, in June, 1863.

At the Holly Springs disaster, the men of this Regiment, on duty, did all they could have done, under the circumstances. Another Regiment was doing the picket duty, while the One Hundred and First was in the town, doing provost duty, and divided about the town, in squads, too small to make successful resistance to the overpowering numbers that surrounded them. Wherever the blame of this disaster shall rest, it surely should not attach itself to the One Hundred and First Illinois. When the town was captured, Companies D, G, H and K, which were stationed along the railroad, fell back to Cold Water, where they fell in with the Ninetieth Illinois (Irish Legion), and assisted greatly in repelling Van Dorn's attack on that place.

Afterwards, these four companies were formed into a battalion, and temporarily assigned to the Fourteenth Illinois Volunteers, and did a great deal of scouting service over Tennessee, finally bringing up at Memphis, Tennessee, in February, 1863. Here they were joined by Company A, Captain Lesage, who took command of the Battalion. Upon leaving Holly Springs, Company A proceeded to Cairo, and thence to Vicksburg, but was sent back up the river with prisoners. About the first of February the prisoners were turned over at Alton, Illinois, but not until the Company had been fearfully decreased by the sickness incurred while on that duty. Often Captain Lesage could not muster half a dozen men for duty, and this, too, when he had over a thousand prisoners under his charge.

Early in March, the battalion was ordered down to Vicksburg, where it was broken up, and the companies assigned to various independent duties. Company K was assigned to provost duty at General Grant's Headquarters; Company A was assigned to the "General Bragg;" Company G to the ram "Switzerland;" Company D to the "Rattler" and the "Crocket;" and Company H to the "Lafayette."

From this, until the final reunion of the Regiment, each company had its separate history of scouts, skirmishes and expeditions, up and down the Mississippi and its tributary streams. Company G had the honor of running the blockade at Vicksburg, for which service, after its fall, General Grant furloughed the entire company.

On the 7th of June, the other part of the Regiment was exchanged, and sent down to New Madrid, Missouri. July 11th, they were sent to Columbus, Kentucky, whence they were started out on a series of scouts and expeditions, which only terminated about the 25th of August, by their bringing up at Union City, Tennessee. Here they remained about a month, during which time Companies A, D, G, H and K rejoined them, and completed the reunion of the Regiment, which remained a unit thenceforth.

September 24th, 1863, the Regiment received orders transferring it to the Department of the Cumberland, and it started, at once, for Louisville, Kentucky, via Cairo and Sandoval, Illinois, and Mitchell and New Albany, Indiana, arriving in Louisville, September 27th. September 30th, it left Louisville, via Nashville, and arrived at Bridgeport, Alabama, October 2d, 1863, and remained there until the 27th. This period of service is always referred to as a hard time, owing to the severe rains and destitution of tents. In fact, most of the Regiment was tentless, until the 1st of January, following.

October 27th, the Regiment was temporarily assigned to the First Brigade, Third Division, Eleventh Army Corps, and started on the march to the front, arriving next day at Lookout Valley, where, on the night of its arrival, it participated in the night battle of Wauhatchie, where, by singular good fortune, not a man was hurt. For nearly a month, following, the Regiment lay encamped in the Valley, exposed to the daily shelling from Lookout Mountain, which, during that time, killed one man and wounded another.

November 22d, the Regiment received marching orders, and proceeded to Chattanooga, where it participated in the battle of Chattanooga, losing one man killed. Immediately after the battle, it was ordered to the relief of Knoxville, and participated in that severe march; and, finally, returned to Lookout Valley, December 17th. Many of the men were barefooted, and, in that condition, had marched many a weary mile, over the frozen ground and sharp rocks, even as their forefathers had done in revolutionary times, leaving their blood to mark their steps.

Recruiting its strength in the Valley, for a few days, the Regiment was then set to work building corduroy roads; after which, on the 1st of January, 1864, they were sent to Kelley's Ferry to relieve the Sixteenth Illinois, then about to return home on veteran furlough. Here the regiment remained until the last of January, when, upon the completion of the railroad to Chattanooga, they were ordered to Bridgeport, where they went into camp, and quietly remained there until the 2d of May, when they started for the front. The Eleventh and Twelfth Corps had been consolidated into the Twentieth Army Corps, and the old Brigade, to which the One Hundred and First had been attached in the Eleventh Corps, had been transferred to the First Division of the new Corps, and became the Third Brigade of that Division. This Brigade was commanded by Colonel (afterwards Brigadier General) Robinson, of the Eighty-second Ohio. Leaving Bridgeport, May 2d, on the 6th, reached Taylor's Ridge, which was crossed next day, and encamped at Anderson Post Office. Remained there until midnight of May 10th, when it marched for Snake Creek Gap, which was reached next day and held for two days. On the 13th, having marched through the Gap, the troops were ready for action, near Resaca, but were held in reserve all day. On the 14th, were again held in reserve, until three P. M., when they started on the double-quick for the left, which was reached just in time for the Brigade to render important service in the action then progressing.

During this engagement, it is said, the One Hundred and First was ordered to take a hill in front of them, which they did in so gallant a style as to win the admiration of General Hooker, who happened to be standing near, and who cheered the troops with the encouraging shout of "Go in, my Illinois boys." The next afternoon it was ordered forward, and, at four o'clock, while in column, was charged by a rebel force.

Both officers and men of the Regiment conducted themselves gallantly, and rendered valuable services, losing one man killed, six mortally wounded, and forty wounded. Pressing the rebels, it again came upon them at Cassville, Georgia, on the 19th, but did not get into a fight, as the rebels left. Again, followed on the 23d, and, on the 25th, got into a hot and heavy fight at New Hope Church. Among the wounded at this place, were Adjutant Padgett, Lieutenant Hardin, and Lieutenant (afterward Captain) Belt, who subsequently died of wounds.

After this, the Regiment bore an honorable share in the various manœuvres around Kenesaw and Pine mountains, losing one killed and five or six wounded. During the battle of Kulp's farm, June 22d, it supported Battery I, First New York, which did signal execution during the fight. June 27th, lost Lieutenant Dimm, who was killed on the skirmish line. After the rebels evacuated Kenesaw, was engaged in the pursuit, and, on the 6th of July, took position on Chattahoochie Heights, where the Regiment remained eleven days.

July 17th, crossed the river, and, on the 20th, just after crossing Peach Tree creek, the rebels assailed the Corps with terrible force. Forming line under fire, the enemy was held at bay, and their charges repelled, until at 8 P. M., when he abandoned the attack, and returned to his fortifications. In this engagement five were killed and thirty-five wounded. Among the killed was Captain Thomas B. Woof. The morning report, next morning showed only 120 effective men, for duty, having left Bridgeport with 365 men.

July 22d, took position in front of Atlanta—the Regiment supporting Battery I, First New York, in which position it remained until the 25th of August, when it was ordered back to the Chattahoochie Bridge, which the Corps was to guard while the rest of the army swung into the rear of Atlanta.

September 2d, the Regiment was sent out on a reconnoissance, (together with the Thirteenth New Jersey and One Hundred and Seventh New York,) and claims the honor of having been the first Regiment that entered Atlanta, Georgia, after its fall, which occurred on the second anniversary of its muster into service. It remained in Atlanta until the destruction of the place—most of the time having charge of the fire department.

November 15th, started on the "great march," and participated in all its glories, its trials, and its triumphs; and, whether as advance guard, driving rebel cavalry before it, or as rear guard, pulling wagons out of the mud or corduroying roads, over unfathomable mud-holes, the One Hundred and First Illinois always did its duty so well as to win high commendations from its Brigade and Division commanders. The story of that march is about the same for all regiments, and need hardly be repeated. The Regiment reached Savannah, and entered the place, December 22nd, 1864.

January 17th, 1865, crossed over into South Carolina, and went through the great campaign of the Carolinas, participating in the battles of Averysboro and Bentonville, losing only one man wounded.

March 24th, entered Goldsboro, and, on the 13th of April, entered Raleigh, where the Regiment remained until the final surrender of the rebel army, after which, on the 30th, it started overland for Richmond, Virginia, which was reached May 8th. Here it remained until the 11th, when it marched through Richmond, and took up the line of march for Alexandria, where it arrived on the 19th.

May 24th, participated in the "grand review," and then went into camp at Bladensburg, where, on the 7th of June, it was mustered out, and started for Springfield, where, on the 21st of June, 1865, it was paid off and disbanded.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND SECOND INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Second Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Knoxville, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel William McMurtry, and mustered in September 1st and 2d.

On 22d September, the Regiment moved to Peoria, Illinois, and, October 1st, moved to Louisville, Kentucky, and was assigned to Ward's Brigade, Dumont's Division, and immediately moved southward, marching, via Shelbyville, Frankfort, Bowling Green, and Scottsville, to Gallatin, Tennessee, arriving November 26th.

The Regiment went into winter quarters at Gallatin.

On June 1st, 1863, moved to Lavergne, and, from thence, marched to Stuart's creek, where the regiment was divided, and stationed to guard bridges.

On the 9th of November, 1863, moved to Lebanon, and returned on the 11th. Surgeon Stanway was severely wounded by guerrillas.

On February 25th, 1864, broke winter quarters at Lavergne, and marched, via Tallahoma, Decherd, Stevenson, Alabama, and camped in Wauhatchie Valley, Tennessee.

The One Hundred and Second was assigned to First Brigade, Third Division, Twentieth Army Corps, Brigadier General W. T. Ward commanding Brigade.

While at Wauhatchie, five companies of the Regiment, which had been mounted, gave up their horses, but retained their Spencer rifles during the Atlanta campaign.

On May 2d, commenced the campaign. May 14th, was engaged at Resaca, losing 3 killed and 19 wounded. On the 15th, the Brigade captured a battery from the enemy at Camp creek—the One Hundred and Second losing 18 killed, 6 mortally wounded, and 70 wounded. On 25th May, encountered the enemy at Burnt Hickory, and was engaged four days, losing 4 killed and 14 wounded.

On June 1st, was engaged at Big Shanty. June 15th and 16th, was engaged, losing 13 wounded, including Colonel Smith and Captain McManus. Engaged at Peach Tree creek, July 20th, losing 2 killed and 11 wounded. On September 16th, moved to Atlanta.

On November 15th, 1864, commenced the Savannah march. On 22d, arrived at Milledgeville; crossed the Ogeechee on the 29th, and, December 11th, established line of battle at Savannah, and on 21st, entered that city.

On January 5th, 1865, moved to Hardeeville, and, on 30th, to Robertville, near Sisters' Ferry.

On February 2d, marched westward to Blackville and Willistown, and thence, northward, to Columbia, arriving February 19th.

March 11th, reached Fayetteville. March 16th, was engaged at Averysboro, losing 2 killed and 19 wounded; among the latter were Captains Merritt and Matteson and Lieutenant Trego. On 23d of March, camped at Goldsboro. On April 10th, marched toward Raleigh, where the army remained until Johnson's surrender.

On 30th, marched for Washington, arriving May 19th.

On May 24th, passed review with our army.

June 6th, 1865, mustered out of service, and started home, arriving at Chicago, Illinois, on the 9th. June 14th, received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND THIRD INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Third Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Peoria, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Willard A. Dickerman, and mustered in October 2d.

On October 30th, moved to Cairo, and moved thence to Columbus, Jackson and Bolivar, where it was assigned, November 2d, to First Brigade, Colonel J. C. Pugh, of Forty-first Illinois, commanding; Fourth Division, Brigadier General J. G. Lauman commanding; of Thirteenth Corps.

The Regiment was engaged in sundry marches and reconnoissances, from Jackson and Bolivar, during November and December, 1862.

On the 9th of November, it captured 70 prisoners and killed 15 of the enemy, near Cold Water, Mississippi.

On 28th November, went on campaign to Tallahatchie river, driving the enemy from his position at that place. On 30th December, went into camp at Jackson.

The Regiment was mustered out of service, June 21st, 1865, at Louisville, Kentucky, and arrived at Chicago, Illinois, June 24th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FOURTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Fourth Illinois Infantry formed a part of the First Brigade, First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, in which it remained until muster-out.

On the 24th of November, 1863, the Regiment was engaged on Lookout Mountain, near the White House, when the First Brigade, First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, repulsed an attack made by the rebels, about 9 o'clock P. M., to regain possession of the ground.

On the 25th of November, 1863, was engaged in the capture of Missionary Ridge, and captured a number of prisoners. On the 26th, followed the retreating rebels to Grayville, and, on the 27th, to Ringgold, returning from thence to Chattanooga, on the 29th. The men behaved well in all the engagements during this campaign. Remained in and around Chattanooga, until the 10th of February, 1864, when it was ordered to Nashville, by General Johnson, to get transportation for the Fourteenth Corps. Returned to Chattanooga, with the same, on March 15th, 1864, joining the remainder of the Division at Grayville, on the 19th. Remained until the 3d of May, when the Regiment went to Ringgold, to prepare for the campaign about to commence against Atlanta.

Commenced the march on the 7th of May, and, on the 9th, was in front of Buzzard's Roost Gap, where the Regiment remained, doing some skirmishing, until the 12th, when it marched to the right, passing Snake Creek Gap. On the 14th, was engaged in the battle of Resaca, losing 1 man killed and 9 wounded. Remained in front, skirmishing, until the 16th, when the Regiment marched to Resaca—the enemy having evacuated the night before. Followed the retreating rebels to Kingston, arriving there on the 19th. Remained there until the 23d, when the Regiment marched to Dallas, arriving there or in that vicinity on the 26th. Remained there, skirmishing, and losing some men, until the 5th of June, when the Regiment moved to the left, in front of Kenesaw Mountain, where it was engaged, skirmishing, nearly all the time, until the 3d of July, when the enemy left the mountain. The command followed them through Marietta, until they made a stand near the railroad bridge across the Chattahoochie river. The Regiment remained here, skirmishing, until July 10th, when the rebels fell back across the Chattahoochie. Did not move until the 17th, and, on the 20th, crossed Peach Tree creek. About four o'clock, P. M., the enemy attacked the line (connecting with the Twentieth Corps on the left, and no troops on the right,) and soon enveloped the right flank, planting their colors near the works. They were repulsed, however, and re-enforcements soon coming up, the Regiment was enabled to hold its ground. The men fought nobly, and the loss was heavy, it being 50—2 officers and 14 men killed, 1 officer and 28 enlisted men wounded, and 5 missing.

On the 22d, the command again moved forward, the enemy having left their works in front and went into Atlanta; but were met by Loring's Division, strongly entrenched, and the command halted, and commenced throwing up works. Remained until August 3d, when the Regiment moved to the right 3 miles, and, on the 6th, were formed on Utoy creek. On the 7th, was engaged at Utoy creek, losing 1 officer and 4 enlisted men killed, and 18 enlisted men wounded. On August 26th, marched to the right, towards Jonesboro, and, on September 1st, fought the battle of Jonesboro, which gave possession of Atlanta; and, on the 6th, started for Atlanta, arriving there on the 8th.

The campaign, from May 7th, when the Regiment left Ringgold, to September 6th, when it left Jonesboro, was very severe. The Regiment skirmished nearly all the time with the enemy, and never halted for the night without throwing up works and preparing for an attack. The Regiment was engaged in three battles: Resaca, Peach Tree Creek, and Jonesboro. Losses in skirmishing were heavy, in killed and wounded.

The Regiment behaved nobly during the whole campaign, especially at Peach Tree Creek, where the right of the Regiment was nearly annihilated, and, although the line grew shorter every day, the men were in the best of spirits.

The Regiment remained in Atlanta until October 3d, when the rebels having crossed the Chattahoochie, and were moving towards Allatoona, the command commenced moving north, and, crossing the Chattahoochie on the 3d, passed through Marietta, reaching Kenesaw Mountain on the 6th, and remaining in that vicinity until the 9th, when the Regiment marched along the railroad to Kingston, reaching there on the 11th. Marched to within three miles of Rome, on the 12th; to Calhoun, on the 13th; to Resaca, on the 14th; crossed the Chattogata Mountain, at Red Run Gap, on the 15th; passed through Vinkow, LaFayette and Summerville, reaching Galesburg, Alabama, on the 20th, where the Regiment remained until the 28th; then marched, through Rome, to Kingston, to get ready for the campaign to be commenced in a short time.

The Regiment was not engaged with the enemy after it left Atlanta; but the marches were very hard—a great portion of the distance being traveled by night. The men were, also, short of rations, until they reached the Summerville Valley, when requisitions were made on the country for supplies.

Remained in Kingston until November 12th, when the Regiment marched to Atlanta, arriving there on the 15th, when rations and clothing were issued. On the 16th, commenced the "march to the sea," taking possession of Savannah on the 21st of December. As this was but a succession of marches, and but little opposition was met with, until the army reached Savannah, it is deemed unnecessary to detail the march. The Regiment had its share of the hardships, marches, etc., as also the fine foraging which the country passed through afforded.

Remained in Savannah until January 15th, when was commenced the march through the Carolinas. This, like the preceding campaign, was a succession of marches—the bad roads impeding more than the rebels. It required more troops with the trains, to build corduroy roads, than it did on the skirmish line. The Regiment was engaged in the battle of Bentonville, and had several skirmishes, with small loss.

The command remained at Goldsboro, North Carolina, fitting up for another campaign, until April 10th; then marched to Raleigh, where the Regiment remained until the surrender of Johnston's army.

The Regiment commenced the march from Raleigh to Washington, on April 30th, arriving there on May 19th, and participating in the grand review, on the 24th of May.

Made muster-out rolls, and were mustered out on the 7th day of June. On the 8th, the Regiment left Washington for Chicago, arriving there on the 10th. Were paid off, and the men returned to their homes.

The Regiment was engaged in the battles of Hartsville, Chickamauga, Lookout Mountain, Mission Ridge, Resaca, Peach Tree Creek, Utoy Creek, Jonesboro and Bentonville, besides a great many skirmishes, in which they lost men.

In the first battle (Hartsville), the Regiment lost 44 men killed, and about 150 wounded—a greater loss than the Regiment sustained in any other battle. The men fought nobly, and whatever blame may rest on the commander of the post, the Regiment did its duty, successfully resisting the attack of two veteran infantry regiments, for nearly two hours and, until a part of the command had been driven from the field by Morgan's cavalry.

After the Regiment was exchanged, in the spring of 1863, it was ordered to the Second Brigade, First Division, Fourteenth Army Corps, and was in all the engagements in which that corps was engaged after that time, marching with it from Murfreesboro to Chattanooga, Atlanta, Savannah, Goldsboro, Raleigh and Washington.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Fifth Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers was mustered into the service of the United States, September 2d, 1862, at Dixon, Illinois.

On the 8th, moved to Camp Douglas. On the 30th, left Camp Douglas for Louisville, Kentucky, arriving on the 2d of October, and, reporting to General Dumont, was attached to his Division, Brigadier General W. T. Ward's Brigade. On the 3d, moved in the direction of Frankfort; arrived on the 9th, after a severe march. Were engaged in guard and picket duty, with occasional slight skirmishing with the enemy. While at Frankfort, made a raid to Lawrenceburg, and returned. On the 26th, moved, en route to Bowling Green, arriving on the 4th of November, and remaining one week, was ordered to Scottsville. November 25th, moved to Gallatin, Tennessee; December 11th, moved to South Tunnel; February 1st, 1863, returned to Gallatin, remaining till the 1st day of June, 1863, when it moved to Lavergne. From thence to Murfreesboro, Tennessee, returning to Lavergne the last of July. Moved to Nashville, August 19th. Was quartered in Fort Negley, doing guard duty in it and the city of Nashville. Exchanged the Austrian musket, with which the Regiment had been armed, for the Springfield rifle musket. Meanwhile, it was attached to the Eleventh Army Corps, Major General O. O. Howard commanding.

On the 24th day of February, 1864, it took the line of march in the direction of Chattanooga, Tennessee. On the — day of March, it arrived at Wauhatchie, at which place it remained until the 2d day of May, being brigaded with the One Hundred and Second and One Hundred and Twenty-ninth Illinois, Seventieth Indiana and Seventy-ninth Ohio, with which it remained during the war. In the meantime, the Eleventh and Twelfth Army Corps were consolidated, under the name of the Twentieth Army Corps, Major General Joseph Hooker commanding.

May 2d, moved to Gordon's Mills. May 6th, marched to Leet's farm; thence to Taylor's Ridge, on the 7th. May 10th, moved to Snake Creek Gap. May 12th, to Sugar Valley. May 13th, moved in the direction of Resaca, Georgia, skirmishing that evening and the next day. The morning of the 15th, moved with the corps to the extreme left of the lines. Immediately upon its arrival taking part in a charge upon the enemy's works, which were carried, losing several men in the engagement. On the 16th, pursued the retreating enemy, arriving at Calhoun the 17th. On the 18th, moved to near Cassville. On the 19th, the One Hundred and Fifth being the advance, skirmished with the rear guard of the enemy, driving them at every point. Remained near Kingston until the 23d, when ordered forward, crossing the Etowah river. 24th, moved to Burnt Hickory. On the 25th, continuing its march towards Dallas, Georgia, encountering the enemy, having a brisk engagement till dark, the casualties numbering fifteen, including two commissioned officers.

From this time until the 1st of June the Regiment was engaged in advancing the line, building and strengthening the works and skirmishing, losing 16 men.

On the 1st of June moved to the extreme left, with the Twentieth Corps. On the 2d, the One Hundred and Fifth was ordered out as flankers, in which position it lost a most excellent officer, Surgeon Horace S. Potter, being killed by a shell. On the 3d, moved around and beyond the enemy's right, encamping near Ackworth, Georgia. Here it remained until the 6th, when it moved forward and took position near Golgotha Church, in line of battle, throwing up entrenchments and remaining until the 15th, when it again moved forward, encountering the enemy behind breastworks. A steady fire was kept up until dark. That night and the next day (the 16th) was occupied in strengthening the position, by erecting breastworks, being exposed to the fire of the enemy. Lost 19 men during the two days. The night of the 16th, the enemy retreated. On the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th, followed the retreating enemy, with slight skirmishing, at intervals. 21st, severe skirmish firing. 22d, moved forward about a mile, in close proximity to the enemy's works, exposed to their fire—losing 11 men. The enemy evacuated his position during the night of July 2d. On the 3d, moved in the direction of Marietta, Georgia. The Brigade to which the One Hundred and Fifth was attached being the advance, skirmished with the enemy—losing 1 man killed and 2 wounded. Camping about four miles from Marietta, Georgia, in plain view of a portion of the rebel army. On the evening of the 4th, continued the march in the direction of the Chattahoochee river, camping within two miles of that stream, on the north side, the night of the 6th. Remained there until the 17th, when it crossed the river and encamped until the afternoon of the 18th. Moved forward about five miles, and rested till the morning of the 20th. Crossed Peach Tree Creek, and came upon the enemy. A line of battle was formed—a charge of the enemy was repulsed in the afternoon, and several prisoners captured; also, the colors of the Twelfth Louisiana. 21st, was occupied in burying the dead of both sides, and collecting and turning over ordnance and other property. On the 22d, moved forward about three miles, where the enemy was again encountered, posted behind the defenses of Atlanta. Intrenchments were immediately thrown up. Remained in this position until the 26th, when relieved and placed on reserve. 29th, moved six miles to the right of the lines. Making the position secure, by throwing up works, remained until the 2d day of August. Returned to the left and took position, which was fortified and strengthened. Constant skirmishing and artillery firing was kept up until the night of the 25th of August, when ordered to fall back to the Chattahoochee river. Here it remained until the 27th, when it took position on the north side of that stream, doing picket and guard duty.

The 2d day of September, the city of Atlanta surrendered. The Regiment remained in the vicinity of Atlanta until the 15th of November, when the "grand march to the sea" was begun. The One Hundred and Fifth accompanying the expedition, bore its full share of the trials and hardships incident thereto. Passing, on the route, Decatur, Sithonia, Social Circle, Rutledge and Madison, at which last named place it arrived on the 19th of November. From thence, marching southward to the city of Milledgeville, the capital of Georgia, arriving on the 22d, and remaining until the 24th. Thence to the north of the Mississippi and Georgia Central railroad. Passing through Sandersville, Davisboro, and Louisville—(the One Hundred and Fifth and part of the One Hundred and Second routing a body of rebel cavalry between the last two named places) reaching Millan on December 3d. Continuing the march towards Savannah, passing through Springfield on the 7th, having a slight skirmish with guerrillas, arrived in the vicinity of Savannah, on the 10th. The One Hundred and Fifth being the advance that day, had a brisk skirmish with the enemy's pickets, driving them within the defenses of the city. Participated in the siege of Savannah. That city was evacuated on the night of the 20th of December. On the 31st of December, 1864, and January 1st, 1865, was occupied in crossing the Savannah river—losing 1 man by a musket shot from the enemy—moved five miles and encamped until the 4th of January. Marched north to Hardee's farm, and again encamped, remaining until the 17th, with slight skirmishing at intervals. Moved to Hardeeville, remaining there until the 29th, when it started on the Campaign of the Carolinas.

Moving, northward, nothing of interest occurred until the 2d day of February, when the One Hundred and Fifth, being in advance, encountered the enemy near Lawtonville, strongly posted behind barricades. It immediately charged the enemy, driving them from their position, through the town—losing 8 men in the engagement.

Continued the march on the 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th, when the One Hundred and Fifth again had the advance; had some slight skirmishing with Wade Hampton's cavalry 8th, 9th and 10th, was engaged in tearing up railroad between Graham Station and Williston. From thence, crossed the South and North Edisto rivers, on the road to Columbia, arriving opposite that city on the 16th, after a very disagreeable march through swamps and marshes. Not being able to cross the Congaree at that point, moved up the river, and crossed the Broad and Saluda rivers, which unite and form the Congaree. Marching northward, arrived at Winnsboro on the 21st. On the 22d, the Regiment, again in the advance, had some skirmishing with Butler's rebel cavalry, and crossed the Wateree river. Reached Hanging Rock on the 27th, rested one day; 29th, moved northward, arriving at Chesterfield, March 3d; at Cheraw, March 6th. Crossed Great Pedee and Lumber rivers, and arrived at Fayetteville, North Carolina, on the 11th. Resting three days, 15th, moved in the direction of Raleigh, North Carolina, some ten miles, where it encountered the enemy, heavily entrenched, near Averysboro. Then, on the 16th, followed the battle of Averysboro—the enemy being driven from their position. The One Hundred and Fifth lost 6 killed and 16 wounded.

On the 19th, 20th and 21st, took part in the engagement near Bentonville. The enemy evacuated that place on the night of the 21st. Arrived at Goldsboro on the 24th. Thus ended the Campaign of the Carolinas.

Remained at Goldsboro until April 10th, 1865. Continued the march toward Raleigh, arriving at Smithfield on the 11th, and at Raleigh on the 13th, encountering but little opposition from the enemy. Resting until the 25th, moved out some fourteen miles on the Holly Springs road, in the direction of General Johnston's army. Encamped during the 26th and 27th. In the meantime, General Johnston surrendered. On the 28th, returned to Raleigh, and immediately began making preparations for the homeward march.

On the 30th, left Raleigh, en route to Washington City, via Richmond, passing through the latter city on the 11th of May. Arrived in the vicinity of Alexandria, Virginia, on the 19th. Took part in the grand review at Washington, on the 24th, where the Regiment received a compliment for their movements, in the manual of arms, and their military appearance.

Remained in the vicinity of Washington until the 7th of June, when the Regiment was mustered out of the service, and started, by rail, for Chicago, Illinois, where it arrived on the 10th.

Remained at Camp Fry, until the 17th, when paid off and disbanded.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Sixth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Lincoln, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Robert B. Latham, and mustered into the United States' service, September 18th, 1862.

Moved from camp, November 7th, 1862, via St. Louis, to Columbus, Kentucky, arriving November 10th, and, from thence, moved to Jackson, Tennessee. Colonel M. K. Lawler commanded the post of Jackson, and Brigadier General J. C. Sullivan, the District.

The Regiment was mustered out of service July 12th, 1865, at Pine Bluff, Arkansas, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, July 24th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Seventh Regiment Illinois Volunteers was mustered into the United States' service at Camp Butler, Illinois, September 4th, 1862, and was composed of six companies from DeWitt and four companies from Piatt counties.

September 30th, 1862, Regiment left Camp Butler for Jeffersonville, Indiana, where it arrived on the morning of October 1st. Owing to want of drill and discipline, it was ordered into camp, where it remained until October 12th, employing the time in drill, and otherwise preparing for active field service.

Crossed Ohio river, October 12th, to Louisville—General Buell's army, meantime, having moved in direction of Perryville. Remained in Louisville until October 18th, when it was ordered to Elizabethtown, Kentucky, to meet the rebel General John Morgan, who was advancing in that direction. A slight skirmish ensued between the One Hundred and Seventh and Morgan's advance, which resulted in the capture of some of the enemy and no casualties to the Regiment.

Moved, thence, to Mumfordsville, Kentucky, early in December following, where it remained until March, 1863, when it left for Glasgow, remaining there until the following June.

The Twenty-third Army Corps, being organized, by order General Burnside, Brigadier General H. M. Judah was ordered to Glasgow, to assume command of all troops organizing for the Second Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, Department of the Ohio; and the One Hundred and Seventh Illinois, being assigned to this Division, marched, on the 18th of June, for Tompkinsville, Kentucky, on Cumberland river, in order to meet an anticipated movement of John Morgan, who was preparing for the invasion of Kentucky. Followed him to Mumfordsville, Kentucky, and from thence, by rail, to Louisville, and then, by steamer, to near Buffington Island, where he was finally captured.

Returned to Lebanon, Kentucky, late in August, when, after reorganizing, proceeded with General Burnside on Campaign of East Tennessee. General Judah, being in delicate health, was relieved by General Julius White, who assumed command of the Division, August 24th.

The enemy retiring from East Tennessee, the command arrived at Loudon, September 1st, 1863. Remained there until middle of October; then proceeded toward Greenville. Having marched some sixty miles east of Knoxville, received orders to countermarch, and move, with all speed, to the assistance of General Rosecrans. Reached Sweet Water, seventy-five miles north of Dalton, where it heard of the battle of Chickamauga.

Returned to Loudon, where was soon confronted by advance of Longstreet. Retired to north side Holston river, where it remained until November 13th, when it was ascertained that the enemy had effected a crossing, by aid of pontoons, at Huff's Ferry, four miles below. Division retired to Lenoris Station. Was met by General Burnside, who ordered a countermarch in direction of enemy, who was found 3 miles below Loudon.

Company A, One Hundred and Seventh Illinois, as skirmishers, commanded by Captain Millholand, attacked the enemy's skirmishers, who retired. Line was formed and an attack made by the whole Division, driving the enemy back to pontoons. Regiment lost 1 killed and several wounded.

Encamped, on night of 15th November, at Lenoris. General Burnside issued order No. 81, requiring all baggage and part of ammunition trains destroyed, in order to facilitate movements of artillery, etc. The Regiment lost all books and papers. Having destroyed trains, retired, at 3 o'clock A. M., in direction of Knoxville. Engaged the enemy at Campbell's Station, 11 A. M., November 16th. Engagement lasted till night. Arrived at Knoxville, November 18th. Engaged enemy at Dandridge, December 21st. Returned to Knoxville, by order of General Schofield, where it remained until April.

Broke camp at Massey creek, Tennessee, April 27th, and moved to join Sherman's Army. Arrived at Calhoun, Tennessee, April 30th, and remained until May 3d. Moved to Red Clay, Georgia, and, on 7th, to vicinity of Rocky Face Ridge. Engaged enemy on 8th May. Moved, on 9th, for Resaca, via Snake Creek Gap. Engaged at Resaca, 14th and 15th May. Moved, with command, from Resaca to Dallas. Regiment, while on picket, May 28th, was attacked by the enemy, in force, and, before re-enforcements came up, lost a number of its men. June 18th, while engaged near Kenesaw Mountain, Captain Ed. Camp, Company H, while on the skirmish line, was instantly killed. Regiment participated in all engagements around Kenesaw Mountain, and the subsequent fighting around Atlanta. Followed the enemy to Lovejoy Station, and withdrew on night of September 4th, 1864, arriving at Decatur, Georgia, September 6th, 1864.

Left Decatur, September 28th, in pursuit of Hood's army, passing over old lines, around Dallas and Kenesaw Mountain, to Resaca. Thence to Rome, Georgia. Thence, on 18th October, to Cedar Bluffs, Alabama. Returned to Resaca, where remained until November 6th, 1864. Moved, by rail, to Nashville, Tennessee, and from thence to Johnsonville.

November 18th, Regiment, with Division, proceeded, via Nashville, to Columbia, Tennessee, where, on 22d November, met the advance of Hood's Army. Skirmished with enemy until 28th, when, finding enemy crossing Duck river, fell back to Franklin. Regiment engaged the enemy at Spring Hill, November 28th, with small loss.

November 29th, assigned position in the lines near Columbia pike, and, owing to lateness of arriving, had not breastworks complete when the battle commenced. Regiment suffered a severe loss in the death of Colonel Lowry, who fell, mortally wounded, from a minnie ball in head. First Lieutenant Isaac C. Morse, commanding Company A, was also killed. After fall of Colonel Lowry, the command of the Regiment devolved upon Captain McGraw, (Major Millholand being on staff duty).

Arrived at Nashville, December, 1st. During battle of Franklin, the Regiment captured two stands of enemy's colors, and had its own colors seized, but they were recovered by Private Walker, of Company G, who killed the enemy seizing them.

December 1st, 1864, Regiment went into position, with Division, near Fort Negly, Nashville. It drew new arms, and was fully clothed and equipped. Remained, doing picket duty, and skirmishing, until December 15th, when broke camp, and attacked enemy at 11 A. M. At 3 P. M. charged enemy's lines, with success. Captain S. S. Williams, Company K, was wounded. The enemy being completely routed, Regiment encamped near Brentwood Hills, on night of 16th. Next morning, moved towards Franklin, in pursuit of retreating enemy. Arrived at Columbia, December 20th. January 2d, 1865, left Columbia for Clinton, Tennessee. Remained in camp until January 26th, when embarked on board transports, bound for Washington, D. C., and arrived February 2d. Moved to Alexandria, Virginia, February 9th.

February 11th, embarked on steamer for Fort Fisher, North Carolina. Arrived off the fort on 15th. Passed New Inlet on 17th, and landed at Smithville. Moved for Fort Anderson. Moved on enemy's pickets at 7 A. M., 18th. Drove in his skirmishers, with but little difficulty. Entrenched in a semi-circle around fort, one-half mile in rear. The enemy shelling furiously, six men were wounded. Held the position during the day, and attacked fort at daylight, on morning of 20th, and found it evacuated, excepting 52 men, taken prisoners. Regiment took the fort's colors. Followed retreating enemy to Brunswick river, opposite Wilmington. Crossed Cape Fear river, on morning of 22d. Remained at Wilmington two weeks, doing guard and picket duty. Arrived at New River, March 8th. Arrived at Kingston, on 14th, and remained until 19th, when moved forward again for Goldsboro, arriving there on evening of the 21st, and meeting advance of General Sherman's army.

Remained at Goldsboro until April 10th, awaiting clothing and supplies for Sherman's army.

Remained at Raleigh until surrender of Johnson. After surrender, Regiment, with Division, went to Salisbury, North Carolina, where it remained doing guard duty, until June 21st, 1865, when mustered out of service. June 22d, left for Camp Butler, Illinois, where it arrived July 2d, 1865, and received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIRST INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Eighth Illinois Infantry Volunteers was organized and rendezvoused at Camp Peoria. The first company for the Regiment was recruited at Pekin, Illinois, by Charles Turner, and arrived in camp on the 14th day of August, 1862. The Regiment was organized on the 27th of August, and mustered into the service of the United States, August 28th, 1862.

October 6th, the Regiment left Camp Peoria, by rail, for Covington, Kentucky, via Logansport, Indianapolis and Cincinnati, arriving in Covington on the morning of the 8th. In the organization of the troops, at Covington, Kentucky, the One Hundred and Eighth Regiment was assigned to the First Brigade, Third Division, Army of Kentucky—Colonel John Coburn, Thirty-third Indiana Infantry, commanding the Brigade; Brigadier General A. Baird commanding the Division; Major General Gordon Granger commanding the Army.

The Regiment here drew the necessary transportation and camp equipage, and, on the 17th, marched, with the Division, into interior of the state, following the retreating enemy. The Regiment passed through Fa'mouth, Cynthiana, Paris and Lexington, to Nicholasville, where a halt was made, and the troops went into camp, November 1st, and remained until the 14th.

At Lexington, the troops were reorganized, and the One Hundred and Eighth was assigned to the Second Brigade, First Division, Army of Kentucky—Colonel W. G. Landram, of Nineteenth Kentucky, commanding Brigade, and Brigadier General A. J. Smith commanding Division.

November 14th, the Regiment marched, with the Division, for Louisville, via Versailles, Frankfort and Shelbyville. Reached Louisville on the 19th, and, on the 21st, embarked on board transports for Memphis, Tennessee, where it arrived on 26th, and went into camp near the city. The troops were here organized for a winter campaign, and General A. J. Smith's Division was designated as the First Division, Right Wing, Army of the Tennessee.

The Regiment remained at Memphis, performing picket and such other duty as was required of it, until the 20th of December, when it embarked on board the "City of Alton," and proceeded with the expedition, under Major General W. T. Sherman, against Vicksburg. There were crowded upon this boat the Brigade commander and his staff, with their horses and other necessary equipage and transportation, the One Hundred and Eighth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry and the Forty-eighth Regiment Ohio Volunteer Infantry, together with the transportation, horses, mules and equipage belonging to both regiments.

The expedition proceeded down the Mississippi river to the mouth of the Yazoo, and up that river to Johnson's Landing, near Chickasaw Bluff, where, on the evening of the 28th, the Regiment disembarked and bivouacked for the night.

On the morning of the 29th, the Regiment moved, with the Division, upon the enemy, who was found strongly fortified upon the bluffs running north-east from the city of Vicksburg. Here, in the engagement of Chickasaw Bayou, the One Hundred and Eighth Illinois first met the enemy. In this engagement the Regiment occupied the extreme right of the Union lines, its right resting on the Mississippi river. There was no heavy fighting on this part of the line, but some sharp skirmishing. The Regiment began skirmishing with the enemy on the afternoon of the 29th, and quite a rapid fire was kept up until dark, when, in compliance with orders, the line was withdrawn about 300 yards, and held during the night.

On the morning of the 30th, the line was again advanced to retake the former position, which, it was found, had been occupied by the enemy. A lively skirmish here took place, which lasted about half an hour, and resulted in the enemy being compelled to retire, in considerable confusion, with the loss of 7 killed and 4 prisoners captured by the Regiment. The orders to the Regiment were to retake and hold its former position, and, having done this, no attempt was made to do more.

About noon, the Regiment was relieved and allowed to fall back and rest, and make coffee.

On 1st of January, 1863, the One Hundred and Eighth was again ordered to the front, where it remained, on the skirmish line, until midnight, when, just as the clock on the court house, in Vicksburg, told the hour of 1, in compliance with orders received early in the night, the Regiment silently withdrew, and, with one section of the Chicago Mercantile Battery, covered the retreat of General Sherman's army. The Regiment reached Johnson's Landing before daylight, on the morning of the 2d, and immediately re-embarked on board the "City of Alton."

Although the lines of the two armies were so close to each other that the men could distinctly hear the voices of their opponents, yet the plans for the retreat were so well laid and executed that the enemy did not discover it until the whole fleet was steaming down the Yazoo.

The fleet proceeded down the Yazoo river, to the Mississippi. Thence, up that river, to the mouth of the White river, and up that river, and through a cut-off, into the Arkansas, to Arkansas Post, where, on the afternoon of the 10th of January, the Regiment disembarked and participated in the investment of that fort, and, on the following day, bore an active part in that most brilliant and successful engagement. In a report, afterwards made by the regimental commander, he says:

"At one and a half P. M., we were ordered to advance, through a narrow strip of timber and across an open field, within short range of the enemy's guns, to within pistol-shot of the fort. The engagement at this part of the line, was terrific. From the time the order to advance was given, the officers and men, without a single exception, displayed a coolness and courage, which, taking into consideration the fact of its being the first time the Regiment was ever under a heavy fire, deserves, in my humble opinion, special commendation."

The casualties in the One Hundred and Eighth, during this engagement, were thirteen (13) men wounded. On the 17th of January, the fleet was again moving down stream and proceeded to Young's Point, Louisiana, nearly opposite to Vicksburg, where, on the 24th of January, 1863, the Regiment disembarked and went into camp. The long confinement on the transports and want of pure air and sanitary conveniences, during this expedition, cost the Regiment more lives than all other causes during its term of service—one officer, Philo W. Hill, First Lieutenant Company A, and 134 men, died during the months of February and March, 1863.

Major General J. A. McClelland assumed command of the expedition before the engagement at Arkansas Post, and the title of the army was then changed to "The Army of the Mississippi." The organization of the Division remained the same as before, and the Division was designated as the Tenth Division, Thirteenth Army Corps. The Regiment remained in camp at Young's Point, performing picket duty and working on the famous canal, until the 10th of March, when it embarked on board the "Spread Eagle" for Milliken's Bend, Louisiana, where it again went into camp.

April 15th, the Regiment broke camp and marched with the Corps and Division across the country, via Richmond, Smith's Plantation and along Lake St. Joseph to Hard Times, landing on the Mississippi river nearly opposite to Grand Gulf, Mississippi; thence down along the levee, about two miles, to Brandenburg, arriving there on the night of the 29th of April. On the afternoon of the next day the Regiment crossed the Mississippi river on board the iron-clad gunboat "LaFayette," which had run the batteries of both Vicksburg and Grand Gulf.

On the morning of May 1st, at one o'clock, the Regiment was on the march. After marching rapidly, until about eight o'clock, A. M., it arrived upon the battle-field of Port Gibson, sometimes called the battle of Magnolia Ridge, near Port Gibson, Mississippi. Fighting had begun before the Regiment arrived, and there was no time given for rest; but it immediately moved into position. The fighting on that part of the line occupied by the One Hundred and Eighth was not very heavy, but the maneuvering was very fatiguing. The day was excessively hot, with scarcely a cloud to break the piercing rays of the sun, and the Regiment was kept almost constantly in motion, marching and counter-marching over steep and rugged hills, until nearly sunset, and there had been no time for rest since midnight.

After a very circuitous march, the Thirteenth Army Corps, and with it, the One Hundred and Eighth Illinois Volunteers, reached Champion Hills, on the 16th of May, where the enemy were again met, and driven from the field. The Regiment performed its part in this bloody battle, after which it was detached from its Brigade and Division, and assigned to the duty of guarding prisoners of war. On the 17th, the Regiment moved with the prisoners, to Black River Bridge, where it was joined by the Twenty-Third Iowa Infantry, with another large lot of prisoners. The number which both regiments then had in charge was about 4500. On the night of the 19th, it reached the landing at Haines' Bluff, on the Yazoo river, and on the 20th, embarked, with a portion of the prisoners, on board the "Fanny Bullitt," and proceeded to Young's Point, and went into Camp near the same ground occupied by the Regiment five months before.

On the 25th, the Regiment embarked, with the prisoners, on board the steamer "Gladiator," and proceeded to Memphis, Tennessee, where its charge was transferred to the command there, and the One Hundred and Eighth returned to Young's Point, on board the steamer "Emerald." On the passage down, the boat was several times fired into by guerrillas from the shore, and one man, Peter C. Farner, of Company K, was severely wounded in the leg.

The Regiment remained at Young's Point, performing various kinds of duty, until after the surrender of Vicksburg.

They assisted in keeping up a line of pickets across the point of land immediately opposite the city of Vicksburg. This line, together with the gunboats, above and below the city, formed, with the lines on the east side of the river, a complete circuit around Vicksburg. Large details of men from the One Hundred and Eighth assisted in working the heavy mortars upon the mortar boats, above the city, and several of the men were permanently injured by the concussion of their discharge.

On the 18th of July, the Regiment crossed over into the city, and reported to Major General McPherson, commanding Seventeenth Army Corps, and went into camp. July 26th, the Regiment embarked, and proceeded to Memphis, and reported to Major General Hurlbut on the 29th; and on the 5th of August it proceeded, by rail, to Lagrange, Tenn. The Regiment, upon its arrival at Lagrange, was assigned to the First Brigade, Second Division, Sixteenth Army Corps.

October 28th, 1863, the Regiment broke camp, and marched to Pocahontas, Tennessee, and garrisoned that post until the 9th of November—its Colonel, Charles Turner, commanding the post.

On the evening of the 9th November, the Regiment proceeded, by rail, to Corinth, Mississippi, where it remained on duty until that place was evacuated by our troops, on the 25th January, 1864, when it proceeded, by rail, to Memphis, and went into camp just outside the southern part of the city. Here they were assigned to the Second Brigade, District of Memphis, Sixteenth Army Corps.

On the 2d of June, 1864, about 130 men and officers from all the companies of the Regiment marched with the expedition under Brigadier General Sturgis, which left Memphis at that time to attack the enemy under General Forrest. The weather was bad, and the roads became almost impassable in many places. It rained every day for the first nine days that the expedition was out. On the 10th of June the cavalry engaged the enemy, and the infantry were hurried forward as rapidly as possible, and went into the fight without rest, and by regiments, as they came up.

August 21st, 1864, when Forrest made his noted raid into the city of Memphis, the One Hundred and Eighth did good service in compelling him to make a hasty retreat.

February 28th, 1865, the Regiment broke camp at Memphis, and embarked for New Orleans, Louisiana, where it joined the Sixteenth Army Corps, under Major General A. J. Smith, and was assigned to the Third Brigade, Third Division, and its Colonel, Charles Turner, assigned to command the Brigade.

March 12th, embarked on board the ocean steamer "Guiding Star," for Fort Gaines, on Dauphine Island. The steamer grounded on the bar at the mouth of the Mississippi river, and did not reach Dauphine Island until the 16th, when the Regiment disembarked and bivouacked. Here, Colonel J. L. Geddes, of the Eighth Iowa Infantry, being the senior officer, assumed command of the Brigade. On the 21st of March, the Regiment embarked and proceeded up Mobile Bay and Fish river, to Danley's Mills, about twenty-five miles from its mouth, and bivouacked until the morning of the 25th, when it marched with the Corps in the direction of Mobile. Early on the morning of the 27th, the enemy was met and driven within his works, at Spanish Fort, the strongest of Mobile's defenses. Heavy fighting was kept up all day, and in the night, siege works were begun. The One Hundred and Eighth Illinois occupied the extreme right of the Union lines, which, in this siege, was a most important position, for it was expected that the enemy would attempt to turn this flank. The works of the Regiment were pushed to within one hundred yards of the enemy, the men working both night and day, and under a constant fire from the sharpshooters stationed behind the enemy's works. The siege of this stronghold lasted thirteen days, and was brought to a close on the night of the 8th of April, when the Third Brigade, Third Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, to which this Regiment belonged, charged the enemy's works from the works constructed by this Regiment, and which they had pushed about two hundred yards nearer to those of the enemy than at any other point on the line. The casualties in the One Hundred and Eighth, during the siege and assault were three men killed, and one officer, Captain W. M. Bullock, Company E, severely wounded, and ten men wounded.

April 9th, the Regiment marched with the 16th Corps in the direction of Montgomery, Alabama, where it arrived on the 25th. Here it remained until the 18th of July, performing provost duty. While here Colonel Geddes resigned and Colonel Turner succeeded to the command of the Brigade, and also to the post of Montgomery.

July 18th, the Regiment again broke camp, this time for the pleasing and happy purpose of returning to the homes from which they had been absent for three long and bloody years of war. The Regiment moved, by boat, to Selma; thence, by rail, to Jackson, Mississippi, via Demopolis and Meridian. From Jackson, the regiment marched to Black River, and thence proceeded, by rail, to Vicksburg.

On the 5th of August, 1865, the final muster-out rolls were signed by the mustering officer, and the Regiment embarked for Cairo. From thence it proceeded, by rail, to Chicago, Illinois, where, on the 11th day of August, it was paid and finally discharged from the service of the United States.

ORDER FROM WAR DEPARTMENT.

LAKE PROVIDENCE, LA., April 10, 1863.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 6. }

The officers of the One Hundred and Ninth Regiment Illinois Volunteers, except those of Company K, having been reported as utterly incompetent to perform the duties of their respective commissions, and evincing no disposition to improve themselves, are hereby discharged from the service of the United States.

This is the Regiment which was within a few miles of Holly Springs, when attacked by the rebels, and failed to march to the support of their comrades, but drew in their pickets and stood ready to surrender. From nine companies, three hundred and forty-seven men deserted, principally at Memphis, and but one from Company K.

To render the men efficient, it is necessary to transfer them to a disciplined regiment, and they are accordingly transferred to the Eleventh Regiment Illinois Volunteers—Company K to make the tenth company.

The officers thus discharged are—

Colonel A. J. Nimmo, Major T. M. Perrine, First Lieutenant C. B. Dishon, Regimental Quartermaster.

Captains J. C. Merustucker, Hugh Andrews, Samuel P. McClure, S. A. Lewis.

First Lieutenants James J. McLane, Morgan Stokes, Jacob Milligan, Charles Barringer, B. F. Hartline, Josiah Toler, Abraham Merrenhen, B. B. Bartleson.

Second Lieutenants M. M. Goodman, Squire Crabtree, T. T. Robinson, Henry Gassaway, Charles Kettles, Andrew Colvin.

Chaplain P. H. Crouch will, as the Regiment has been consolidated, be mustered out of the service.

Surgeon T. M. Perrine, Assistant Surgeons John W. Henly and George H. Dewey will be assigned, by Major General Grant, to other Illinois regiments, to fill vacancies.

By order of the Secretary of War.

ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, April 24, 1863.

ORDER OF CONSOLIDATION.

The consolidation of this Regiment was ordered by Paragraph 6, Special Field Orders 124, Headquarters, Department of the Cumberland, May 7, 1863, and approved by Major General John M. Palmer—which order is as follows:

“Major General Palmer, commanding Second Division, Twenty-first Army Corps, will cause the consolidation of the One Hundred and Tenth Regiment Illinois Volunteers, under the instructions contained in General Orders, No. 86, War Department, current series. The officers to be retained in service will be selected by him. The Assistant Commissary of Musters, Second Division, Twenty-first Army Corps, will muster out of service all officers rendered supernumerary by the consolidation.

A report of the battalion, as re-organized, will be made to these Headquarters.

By command of Major General ROSECRANS.

II. THRALL, Capt. and A. A. G.”

May 8, 1863.—Consolidations made, by reducing the Regiment to four (4) Companies.

SPECIAL ORDERS. } Extract:
No. 80. }
XVII. In accordance with telegram order from War Department, dated May 18th, 1865, the men belonging to the One Hundred and Tenth Illinois Volunteer Infantry, whose terms of service do not expire prior to October 1, 1865, are hereby transferred to the Sixtieth Illinois Veteran Volunteer Infantry.

A. C. McCLURG, A. A. G. and Chief of Staff.

By command of Brevet Major General J. C. Davis.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Tenth Illinois Volunteers was organized at Anna, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Thomas S. Casey, and mustered in, September 11th, 1862.

On September 23d, moved to Louisville, Kentucky, and was assigned to Nineteenth Brigade, Colonel W. B. Hague, of Forty-first Ohio, commanding; Fourth Division, General W. S. Smith commanding; Army of the Ohio.

On 1st of October, marched in pursuit of Bragg, to Loudon, within 45 miles of Cumberland Gap, and returning, via Mt. Vernon and Glasgow, to Gallatin and Nashville, Tennessee, arrived November 7th, 1862.

The Regiment was mustered out of service, June 8th, 1865, at Washington City, and arrived at Chicago, June 15th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND ELEVENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Eleventh Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Salem, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel James S. Martin, and was mustered in, September 18th. Aggregate strength, 886.

October 31st, 1862, the Regiment moved, by rail, to Cairo; thence to Columbus, Kentucky, where it remained for the winter. On March 12th, 1863, moved to Fort Hieman, Tennessee, and Colonel Martin was placed in command of post of Paducah, Kentucky. On 29th May, the Regiment moved to Paducah, Kentucky. On 31st October, embarked for Eastport, Mississippi. Landed November 4th, and, on 5th, moved to Gravel Springs, losing, in a skirmish, 4 men. On 27th November, was temporarily assigned to Second Brigade, Second Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, and marched toward Chattanooga, Tennessee. Arrived at Pulaski, November 12th and was assigned to Fifteenth Corps, Major General Frank P. Blair commanding. Remained at Pulaski until February 25th, 1864, and then marched to Decatur Junction. March 9th, Captain Clark, Company A, was accidentally killed. On 16th, moved to Huntsville, and, on 19th, to Larkinsville, Alabama, and were assigned to First Brigade, Brigadier General Giles A. Smith commanding; Second Division, Brigadier General M. L. Smith commanding; Fifteenth Corps, Major General John A. Logan commanding.

May 1st, 1864, moved, via Bridgeport, Chattanooga, Rossville, Taylor's Ridge, Gordon's Springs, and Snake Creek Gap, to Resaca, Georgia. On the 10th day of May, the Regiment was engaged in a heavy skirmish at the Cross Roads, near Resaca. On the 13th, in a skirmish, short distance from Resaca, losing 7 killed and 8 wounded. On the 14th, in battle of Resaca, losing 6 killed and 28 wounded. In this action the Regiment was ordered to force the passage of Camp creek. The Regiment charged the line, driving the enemy back to the hills. Seeing the importance of the enemy's position, Colonel Martin ordered another charge, and, driving the enemy from the hill, occupied their works, until re-enforcements arrived. Second Lieutenant John W. Stover was mortally wounded.

On 16th, marched to Dallas. On 26th, skirmished with the enemy near Dallas. On 28th, was engaged in the battle of Dallas, losing 5 killed and 15 wounded—Lieutenant Colonel J. F. Black being severely wounded.

On 1st of June, fell back and took position near New Hope Church. June 10th, skirmished near Big Shanty, and, on the 24th, at Kenesaw Mountain, losing 1 killed and 3 wounded. On 27th, engaged in assaulting enemy's works at Kenesaw—1 killed and 16 wounded, and 1 missing. Captain Jacob V. Andrews, Company A, killed, and Captain Walker severely wounded.

The One Hundred and Eleventh was heavily engaged on the 22d July, before Atlanta, and took quite a prominent part in that battle. The loss of the Regiment was 18 killed, 40 wounded, and 85 missing. Captain Joseph F. McGuire and Lieutenant Andrew J. Larimer were killed; Major William M. Mabry severely wounded; Captains John Foster, and Abner S. Gray, and Lieutenants Dorris and Young, taken prisoners.

On this day, the noble McPherson was killed.

On July 28th, Captain Joliff, commanding Regiment, engaged at Ezra Chapel, losing 10 wounded and 1 missing. On the 4th of August, the Regiment was transferred to Second Brigade. August 30th, skirmished on Jonesboro road—2 wounded. On 31st, engaged at Jonesboro—1 killed and 7 wounded.

The Regiment marched, with General Sherman's army, through Georgia, and was engaged in the taking of Fort McAllister, Colonel Martin commanding Brigade, and Major Mabry the Regiment. The One Hundred and Eleventh was the first regiment to plant its colors on the works, and to enter the fort—loss 2 killed and 14 wounded. Among the killed was Lieutenant George W. Smith; Lieutenant Lewis J. Land, mortally wounded, and Captain John Foster, severely wounded.

In January 1865, commenced the Carolinas Campaign. Skirmished at South Edisto, February 9th, and at North Edisto, 12th—losing 1 killed.

On 21st March, skirmished at Bentonville. Camped at Goldsboro, 24th. Marched from thence, with the army, to Raleigh, and Washington City.

May 30th, 1865, Colonel Martin having been appointed Brevet Brigadier General, was assigned to command of Provisional Division of Fifteenth Army Corps, which consisted of the non-veterans to be mustered out.

June 10th, the Regiment moved from Washington, and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, on the 15th.

Received final payment and discharge, June 27th, 1865.

The One Hundred and Eleventh was engaged in 7 battles and 9 skirmishes.

Number killed in battle, 42; wounded, 143; missing, 87; died of disease, 191. Number of miles marched, 2800; by steamer, 650; by rail, 1250.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWELFTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Twelfth Regiment Illinois Volunteers was mustered into the service of the United States on the 20th and 22d days of September, 1862, at Peoria, Illinois, and was ordered to report to Major General Wright, commanding the Department of the Ohio, at Cincinnati, Ohio. It accordingly moved from Peoria on the 8th day of October, 1862, by rail, and arrived at Cincinnati, Ohio, about midnight, on the 10th day of October, when it was immediately ordered over the Ohio river, to report to Major General Gordon Granger, at Covington, Kentucky. The Regiment reported to General Granger, about two o'clock on the morning of the 11th of October, and immediately went to work to prepare for the field. Having been brigaded with the Thirty-third Indiana, Seventy-seventh, Ninety-seventh and One Hundred and Eighth Illinois, under command of Colonel Coburn, of the Thirty-third Indiana, and having obtained transportation and supplies, it marched from Covington, Kentucky, on the 18th day of October, 1862, for Falmouth, Kentucky; but on the 19th day of October it was detached from the Brigade and ordered to guard a large supply-train to Big Eagle, on the Lexington and Covington pike. The Regiment arrived at Big Eagle on the evening of the 21st of October, and, under orders, marched to Georgetown, Kentucky, on the 23d, and to Lexington, Kentucky, on the 24th.

It remained in camp at Lexington, Kentucky, for about five months, performing various duties, but was principally engaged in grand guard and provost duty; although detachments were occasionally sent to the ferries on the Kentucky river, to guard against the approach of the enemy. And at one time, one hundred men of the Regiment were mounted and kept on active and severe duty for several weeks; and while thus engaged, aided in driving Cluke's command out of Kentucky.

On the 21st of March, 1863, the Regiment moved for Danville, Kentucky, arriving there on the evening of the 22d, and at midnight on the 23d, it was ordered back to Dick's river bridge, on the Lexington pike, with orders to guard the bridge and hold the opposite bank of the river, at all hazards. It remained at the bridge until the evening of the 24th, when it fell back to the Kentucky river, at the mouth of Hickman, with the rest of the army, retreating before what was supposed to be a superior force of the enemy.

From the Kentucky river, it marched back to Nicholasville, and from thence moved by way of Camp Dick Robinson, Lancaster and Crab Orchard, in the direction of Somerset, Kentucky, in pursuit of the enemy, by forced marches. But the cavalry and mounted infantry having overtaken and defeated the enemy at Dutton's Hill, near Somerset, and driven him across the Cumberland river, the Regiment having only heard the sound of artillery at a respectful distance, countermarched and moved back to Stanford.

In October, 1862, the Regiment, on its arrival at Lexington, Kentucky, was brigaded with the Forty-fifth Ohio and the Eighteenth and Twenty-second Michigan, under command of General Green Clay Smith, of Kentucky. He remained in command until in January, 1863, when Colonel Doolittle, of the Eighteenth Michigan, took the command.

At Stanford, the Regiment was again detached from the Brigade, and ordered to Milledgeville, Kentucky, where it was mounted, and remained in camp until the 26th of April, when, with the new Brigade, consisting of the Forty-fifth Ohio, Thirty-second Kentucky and One Hundred and Twelfth Illinois, under command of Colonel Benjamin P. Runkle, of the Forty-fifth Ohio, it marched for Somerset, Kentucky.

At Somerset, it joined other troops, under the command of Brigadier General S. P. Carter, of Tennessee, and moved to Monticello, Kentucky, south of the Cumberland river, and aided in driving a body of rebel troops, under command of General Pegram, from that place, and out of Kentucky into Tennessee. There the Regiment was under fire for the first time, and although it was not severely engaged and suffered no loss, it was complimented by Colonel Woolford for its steadiness, who remarked that he could scarcely believe the Regiment had not before been under fire.

From Monticello, the Regiment returned to Somerset, Kentucky, where it remained until July, 1863, and where detachments from it were constantly engaged in active and severe duty, scouting up and down the Cumberland river, often at great distances, by night and by day; and in guarding fords and ferries on the Cumberland river. While at Somerset, Kentucky, two hundred picked men from the Regiment, under command of Captain Dunn, of Company D, with similar detachments from other Regiments at Somerset, all under command of Major Dow, of the Regiment, joined Colonel Sanders in his celebrated raid over the mountains into East Tennessee. For rapidity of movement, marching over mountains, and swimming rivers, by day and night, and for successful execution, baffling the enemy, doing him a great amount of damage, and, finally, escaping from a vastly superior force, where every mountain gap was supposed to be securely guarded, this raid stands among the most brilliant of the war. It severely tested the courage and endurance of the men and officers who participated in it. The detachment of the One Hundred and Twelfth lost, in this raid, eleven (11) men captured, and five (5) men drowned in swimming Clinch river, at night.

From Somerset, Kentucky, the Regiment moved back to Danville, Kentucky, and in the month of July, assisted in driving about fifteen hundred (1500) rebels, under command of Scott, across the Cumberland. It was four days and nights engaged in the pursuit of Scott, with but little or no rest or sleep, and for more than a hundred miles was skirmishing with the enemy.

After capturing about five hundred (500) prisoners—scattering many others in the woods—and recovering most of the property stolen by these raiders, Scott was finally driven over the Cumberland river and into the mountains, when the Regiment again returned to Danville, Kentucky, having had one (1) man killed and six (6) wounded in the pursuit, and began the work of preparing for a campaign into East Tennessee.

From Danville, moved to Stanford, and from Stanford to Crab Orchard; from which place, having completed the necessary preparations, the Regiment marched for East Tennessee, with the army under General Burnside, re-brigaded with the First East Tennessee Mounted Infantry, Eighth Michigan Cavalry and Forty-fifth Ohio Mounted Infantry, under command of Colonel Byrd, of the First East Tennessee, on the 21st of August, 1863, and arrived at Kingston, Tennessee, on the 1st of September.

The Regiment actively participated in all of the campaigns in East Tennessee, in 1863, and, up to February 4th, 1864, sharing in the glory of redeeming that truly loyal people, and in wresting what was regarded as the key to the rebellion from rebel rule. Being always at the front and often at great distance from the main body of the army, it was kept constantly on the alert, and compelled to perform the severest duties, always on short rations.

Its operations in East Tennessee were at Kingston, Post Oak Springs, Athens, Calhoun, Charleston, Cleveland, Sweetwater, Philadelphia, Loudon, Campbell's Station, Knoxville, Bean Station, Blane's Cross Roads, Dandridge, Sevinville, Fair Gardens, Kelly's Ford, Flat Creek Gap, and other places, at many of which it was engaged in numerous skirmishes and battles, and being constantly in the presence of the enemy. At Cleveland, one (1) Captain was killed, several men wounded, and about twenty (20) captured in a skirmish.

At Calhoun, the Regiment, with the Brigade, was driven back by an overpowering force under Wheeler and Forrest, and the One Hundred and Twelfth brought up the rear, and for the manner in which it was done, holding the enemy in check and saving all the stores, it was complimented in an official order. It, however, had twenty men captured and one Captain, who were guarding a ford on the Hiawassa, and were cut off. At Philadelphia, it made a handsome charge and drove the enemy from a hill, for which it was cheered by other troops, and Major Dow, commanding, as well as the Regiment, was highly complimented by General Sanders and other officers. In this charge, one man was killed and several wounded.

At Knoxville, the Regiment, with cavalry and other mounted infantry, was thrown out in front to hold Longstreet in check, while the town was put in a defensible condition, and on the 18th day of November, 1863, behaved most gallantly, and lost about one hundred killed and wounded, and about twenty men cut off and captured.

At Bean Station, Dandridge and Flat Creek, the Regiment lost several in each engagement, killed and wounded.

At Kelly's Ford, on the 28th of January, 1864, the Regiment had nineteen wounded, including four commissioned officers, and one man killed.

After the fight at Kelly's Ford, the Regiment moved to Maryville, Tennessee, and from there to Knoxville, where it was dismounted, and marched on foot over the mountains to Mt. Sterling, Kentucky, a distance of about two hundred miles. Arrived there on the 23d of February, and remained until the 6th of April, where the Regiment, after having been refitted as mounted infantry, and about ready for the field, was permanently dismounted and moved to Camp Nelson, Kentucky, by way of Lexington, where, after refitting for the field, as an infantry regiment, it marched back again over the mountains, into East Tennessee, and arrived at Knoxville, on the 3d of May.

From Knoxville, on the 8th day of May, the Regiment moved, by rail, to Cleveland, Tennessee, and from thence marched on foot to Tunnel Hill, Georgia, in charge of a large ordnance and ambulance train; reported to Major General Schofield, commanding Department of Ohio, and the Twenty-third Army Corps, in the field. The Regiment had been re-brigaded with the One Hundredth Ohio, One Hundred and Fourth Ohio, Eleventh and Sixteenth Kentucky, under command of Colonel James W. Riley, of the One Hundred and Fourth Ohio, and known as the First Brigade, Third Division—under command of Brigadier General Cox—Twenty-third Army Corps.

From this time on, the Regiment participated in the campaign of General Sherman, against Atlanta, and was with the Twenty-third Army Corps in all its movements in that interesting campaign. At Resaca, on the 14th day of May, it was actively engaged, and lost some fifty men killed and wounded—among the latter the Colonel.

At Utoy creek, on the right of Atlanta, the Regiment, on the 6th of August, 1864, with the Brigade, made an unsuccessful assault on the enemy's works, and lost seventy-one men killed, wounded and missing. Among the wounded were the Lieutenant Colonel, three Captains and one Lieutenant. Three Sergeants and one Corporal were killed on the field.

The Regiment was engaged in numerous other battles and skirmishes of this campaign.

On the 8th of August, the Regiment was again re-brigaded with the Sixty-third, One Hundred and Twentieth and One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Indiana and Fifth Tennessee Regiments, under command of Colonel Thomas J. Henderson, of the One Hundred and Twelfth Illinois. This Brigade was known as the Third Brigade, Third Division, Twenty-third Army Corps, and the Regiment remained in it until it was mustered out of the service at the end of the war.

On the 31st of August, after having cut loose from Atlanta, and struck for the Macon Railroad—General Cox being anxious to be the first to reach the road—an object it had so long and so severely struggled to accomplish—ordered the One Hundred and Twelfth Illinois, under command of Major Dow, to report to him personally, when the Regiment immediately pushed forward, drove the enemy rapidly back, and successfully reached the Macon Railroad, just in time to cut off three or four long trains, with ordnance, etc., and commenced the work of tearing up the track. From this moment, all felt that the fall of Atlanta was certain. After marching down to Jonesboro, learned of the evacuation of Atlanta, and on to Lovejoy, the Regiment returned with the army and with the Twenty-third Army Corps, went into camp at Decatur, Georgia, and to rest, after being for four months marching and fighting, constantly in the presence of the enemy, and under fire almost every hour of the day and night.

Here the Regiment remained, from the 8th of September until the 4th of October, when Hood having recrossed the Chattahoochee, the Regiment and Brigade, with Sherman's army, moved in pursuit, and marched during the month, by indirect marches, nearly four hundred miles, passing through Marietta, Ackworth, Allatoona, Cartersville, Cassville, Kingston, Rome, Calhoun, Resaca, Snake Creek Gap, Villanow, Sommersville, Gaylesville and Cedar Bluff, Alabama, and then back again to Rome.

Here, the Regiment, with the Twenty-third Army Corps, was separated from General Sherman, and sent back into East Tennessee, to look after Hood, who was reported to have crossed the Tennessee. It accordingly marched on foot to Dalton, Georgia, and from thence by rail moved to Nashville, and to Thompson Station, below Franklin, and from thence marched to Pulaski, Tennessee, on foot.

Remained in camp, at Pulaski, until the 22d of November, when it commenced retreating to Nashville. During the retreat, participated in the battles of Columbia and Franklin, losing some thirty or forty men killed and wounded.

The Regiment also participated in the battles of Nashville, on the 15th and 16th of December. The battles of Franklin—November 30th—and Nashville, were glorious battles, and virtually terminated the war in the West.

The Regiment, with the Twenty-third Army Corps, having pursued Hood's army to the Tennessee river, was then ordered to a new field of operations, and proceeded by steamboat down the Tennessee and up the Ohio river to Cincinnati, and from that city, by rail, to Washington City. From Alexandria, it went by the steamship "Atlantic" to Fort Fisher, North Carolina. The Regiment then aided in the reduction of Fort Anderson, in driving the enemy from his works at Town Creek bridge, and finally from Wilmington, which place was occupied on the 22d of February, 1865. From Wilmington, the Regiment marched to Kingston, North Carolina, passing through a country which left doubt whether it was land or water. From Kingston, moved to Goldsboro, and, with the army, occupied that place. From Goldsboro, moved to Raleigh. At Raleigh, after the surrender of Johnson's Army, moved to Greensboro, North Carolina, where the Regiment remained until the 20th of June, 1865, when it was mustered out of the service, and ordered to Chicago, Illinois. The Regiment arrived at Chicago on the 27th of June; was finally discharged on the 7th day of July, 1865.

The Regiment was always in the Department of the Ohio, and served in the Twenty-third Army Corps, from its organization to the close of the war.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND THIRTEENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Thirteenth Regiment left Camp Hancock, near Camp Douglas, Illinois, November 6th, 1862, when it was ordered to Memphis, Tennessee, to report to General Sherman.

On its arrival there, it went into Camp, and remained there till it joined the expedition known as the "Tallahatchie Expedition," General Sherman commanding.

On its return from that expedition, it went into camp and remained until 24th December, 1862, when it accompanied General Sherman in his movement against Vicksburg. It was then brigaded as the Second Brigade, Fourth Division—General Morgan L. Smith commanding Division, and Colonel Giles A. Smith commanding Brigade.

Participated in the battle of Chickasaw Bayou. Went from there to Arkansas Post, where the Regiment lost heavily. After the battle, five companies—C, D, F, I, and K—were detailed, by order of General Sherman, to guard prisoners of war to the north. These companies were ordered to Springfield, to recruit, as they were much depleted by over-work and the exposure of the trip. When ordered to return to the field, every exertion was made by the Colonel commanding, and all intermediate officers, to have them join their comrades in the field, but without avail, until late in the fall of 1864. After these companies left, those remaining went to Young's Point, with the army—its Colonel being there appointed Provost Marshal, for the Fifteenth Army Corps, (General Sherman,) and holding that position until the army went to Milliken's Bend. The One Hundred and Thirteenth was the last Regiment to leave the ground where it buried so many of its brave comrades in arms.

While lying at Young's Point, Colonel Hoge was ordered, with the balance of his Regiment and Thirteenth United States Infantry, up Black's Bayou, where Admiral Porter, in six or eight of his gun boats, was surrounded by the enemy. After leaving the transport, it had to make a forced march of 25 miles, General Sherman commanding the Brigade, in person, and on foot. The country was of such a nature, that the Regiment had to march a considerable distance, over a marsh, single file, on an extemporized bridge (a single plank in width); consequently could take no horses. Came up to the enemy, toward evening, and had a sharp skirmish, driving him back to the timber. The following day, started on its return—the gun-boats having been relieved—and reached camp after an absence of 10 days.

Remained at Milliken's Bend some two or three weeks, and then started, with General Sherman, on the march to the rear of Vicksburg. Arrived there on the evening of the 18th, and participated in the assault of the 19th and 22d, in which the Regiment lost heavily. Colonel Hoge being wounded, on the peremptory order of the Corps Surgeon he received leave of absence. Shortly after his departure, the Battalion was detailed on provost duty on Chickasaw Bayou, an exceedingly unhealthy place. The result was, that in a short time, almost every officer and man was on the sick list. Major Clark then got an order to proceed to Springfield, Illinois, and take command of the five companies there, where he remained till he joined the Battalion, with his command, in Memphis, Tennessee, late in the fall of 1864.

Shortly after the fall of Vicksburg, Companies A, B, E, G and H, were ordered to Corinth, Mississippi, and, on October 1st, 1863, Colonel Hoge was placed in command of that post, and remained in command till the evacuation, which was on the 25th of January, 1864. From there, was ordered to Memphis, and brigaded with the Second Brigade, Post and Defenses of Memphis, Colonel Hoge commanding.

On the 12th of January, 1864, Colonel Hoge was ordered to take command of the following named Regiments and Batteries: Eighty-second Illinois, Ninety-fifth Illinois, One Hundred and Eighth Illinois, One Hundred and Thirteenth Illinois, One Hundred and Twentieth, and Company B, Second Illinois Light Artillery—and join General Sturgis, in his expedition against Forrest.

Was present at the time Forrest made his raid on Memphis.

On the —, Colonel Hoge was ordered to take the One Hundred and Thirteenth Illinois, One Hundred and Twentieth Illinois, Sixty-first United States Colored Infantry, and Company G, First Missouri Light Artillery, and proceed up the Tennessee river. Met with a repulse from a large force under Forrest, and returned with the command to Memphis.

On March 23d, 1865, Colonel Hoge was appointed Provost Marshal of the District of West Tennessee, and remained in that position till he was mustered out, with his Regiment, June 20th, 1865.

The Regiment was then ordered to Chicago, where they received final payment and discharge, June 25th, 1865.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FOURTEENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Fourteenth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry was organized in the months of July and August, and mustered into the United States' service at Camp Butler, Illinois, September 18th, 1862. Companies A and D were from Cass county; Companies B, C, E, G, H and I, from Sangamon county, and Companies F and K, from Menard county. The Regiment left Camp Butler for Memphis, Tennessee, November 8, 1862, arriving November 16th, and remained there, on picket duty, until November 26th. It then started on the Tallahatchie Campaign, being attached to the First Brigade of Brigadier General Lauman's Division. Arrived at College Hill, Mississippi, December 4th, where it remained until December 23d. Then left for Jackson, Tennessee, which was threatened by the rebel General Forrest, where it arrived, after two weeks very hard marching, on January 8th, 1863, and remained, doing picket duty, until February 9th. It then returned to Memphis, doing guard duty on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad.

On March 17th, the Regiment left Memphis, on transports, bound down the river. Ordered to Young's Point, Louisiana, where it arrived April 2d, and was assigned to the First Brigade, First Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, commanded by Major General W. T. Sherman, and ordered into camp at Duckport, Louisiana.

On the 2d of May, the Regiment left for the rear of Vicksburg, and, on May 14th, was engaged in the battle of Jackson, Mississippi—loss, 5 men, killed and wounded. Arrived in rear of Vicksburg, May 18th, and participated in the siege—loss, 20 men, killed and wounded.

On the surrender of Vicksburg, the Regiment was ordered to move against the rebel General Joe Johnson, who retreated to Jackson, Mississippi—during the siege of which place the loss of the Regiment, in killed and wounded, was 7 men. Johnson evacuating, it followed him as far as Brandon, and then returned to Camp Sherman, near Vicksburg, and remained there, doing picket duty, until September 3d. While in camp there, Colonel Judy resigned, and was succeeded in command by Lieutenant Colonel King.

Was then ordered to Oak Ridge, Mississippi, and, while doing picket duty there, had several skirmishes with guerrillas. Lieutenant McClure, Company A, was killed, and two men captured, while on duty. While there, the Regiment participated in two scouts. About the 20th November, left, on transports, for Memphis, and, on the 26th of November, went on provost duty there.

February 5th, 1864, Regiment left, on a scout, and engaged the enemy at Wyatt, Mississippi—enabling the cavalry, under General W. S. Smith, to cross the Tallahatchie above, at New Albany. Then returned to Memphis, and went again on provost duty.

April 30th, went on another scout, under General Sturgis, of a couple of weeks' hard marching. Returned to Memphis, and was put on picket duty.

June 1st, went out again, under General Sturgis, engaging the enemy, under Generals Forrest and Lee, at Guntown, Mississippi. The action commenced early in the afternoon, between the enemy and the advance Cavalry. The Infantry was immediately hurried forward, at more than double quick, for about 3 miles, and, the day being one of excessive heat, numbers fell from the ranks, from fatigue and sun stroke. Almost completely exhausted, the troops were pushed into the fight, and, after a severe engagement of five or six hours, the lines were everywhere repulsed, and commenced falling back. The One Hundred and Fourteenth remained as rear guard, assisting in holding the enemy in check, during the whole of the first night's retreat. The Regiment lost, out of 397 men, 205, in killed, wounded and missing. Assistant Surgeon A. S. French was here killed, while nobly performing the duties of his position. Among the wounded were Adjutant Henry L. Vanhoft, Captain J. M. Johnson, Company A, and Lieutenant T. S. Berry, Company D; and Lieutenants E. P. Strickland and J. D. Zeigler, Company B, captured.

Falling back to Memphis, after two weeks' picket duty, left again, under General A. J. Smith, for Tupelo, Mississippi. On July 13th, the Brigade to which the Regiment was attached was surprised by the enemy, near Harrisville, Mississippi, and, after a sharp engagement, the rebels were repulsed and driven back—the One Hundred and Fourteenth receiving the thanks of the Brigade commander, on the field, for the gallant and effective charge made by it. On the next morning, the fight was renewed, the rebels being repulsed in repeated charges made during the day and the succeeding night. The next day—the object of the expedition having been accomplished, the troops started back to Memphis, and, on going into camp in the evening, were attacked by the rebels, under General Forrest. The Regiment participated in the charge, by which the enemy was driven from the field. Captain Berry, Company D, commanding the Regiment, and Lieutenant Chadsey, commanding Company H, were severely wounded. The Regiment lost, in these engagements, in killed and wounded, forty (40) men.

Returning to Memphis, the Regiment remained there until August, when it went out under General A. J. Smith, on another expedition, into Mississippi, Major J. M. McLean commanding (Lieutenant Colonel King being sick); and upon its return to Memphis, was sent, under General Jos. Mower, to report to General Steele, at Duvall's Bluff, Arkansas. Went into camp at Brownsville, Arkansas. Leaving there, after General Price, marched to Cape Girardeau, Missouri, in seventeen days, on ten days' rations; arriving October 6th. It then embarked on transports, for Jefferson City, Missouri, and, disembarking, under command of Major McLean, (Lieutenant Colonel King, being left sick at St. Louis,) was transported, by rail, to Otterville. Then continued the pursuit, by long and tedious marches, to Kansas City; at which point was ordered to St. Louis. Arrived there November 15th. The Regiment was then ordered to Nashville, Tennessee, and was engaged in the battles of the 15th and 16th December, making several charges during the engagements. The One Hundred and Fourteenth was attached to McMillan's Brigade, McArthur's Division, of General A. J. Smith's Corps, which Brigade was specially complimented in General Thomas' report to the War Department for charging and capturing the salient point of the enemy's line. In making this charge a rebel battery was captured, which Captain John M. Johnson, with a few men of the Regiment, and some involuntary assistance compelled from some captured rebels, immediately brought to bear upon the retreating ranks of the enemy, aiding materially in their disorder and capture. The loss of the Regiment was 15 men, in killed and wounded—Captain J. M. Johnson, Company A, commanding Regiment, being slightly wounded. The Regiment was engaged in the pursuit of Hood's forces as far as Pulaski, Tennessee. Then went, by transport, from Clifton, Tennessee, to Eastport, Mississippi, and was there detached as pontooneers of Sixteenth Army Corps. Left Eastport, on transports, February 9th, 1865, for New Orleans, Louisiana; arriving there February 22d. On March 23d, embarked on steamer, at Lake Ponchartrain, for Spanish Fort, Alabama, and was engaged during the siege of Spanish Fort.

Lieutenant Colonel King, having resigned, and Major McLean having died, Captain S. N. Shoup, Company E, here received a commission as Lieutenant Colonel, and Captain J. M. Johnson, Company A, as Major.

On the night of the 13th of April, the Regiment was ordered to attack Forts Tracy and Huguee, situated in Mobile Bay. The movement was made in pontoon boats, and on arriving at the forts, they were found to have been just evacuated.

After the surrender of Mobile, the Regiment marched to Montgomery, Alabama, arriving April 24th, and bridging the Alabama river with pontoons, remained on duty at the bridge until July 17th, when it was ordered to Vicksburg, Mississippi, for muster-out.

The Regiment was mustered out of the United States' service August 3d, 1865. Arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, August 7th, and received final payment and discharge August 15th, 1865.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTIETH INFANTRY.

Marched out of Louisville, Kentucky, on the 1st day of February, 1862, by Louisville, with Army of Kentucky, and moved, by the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers, to Nashville, Tennessee. Landed at Nashville, and went into camp first at Nashville, on the 10th of February. Remained there till about the 1st of March. Moved thence to Franklin, Tennessee, and went into camp.

and General Steadman, of Ohio, the command of the Division. In this engagement the Regiment lost 6 men.

September 20th, crossed to the support of General Thomas, on the extreme right, leaving camp at sunrise. Engaged the enemy, on Thomas' right, at 1 o'clock, P. M., with Steadman's Division, 10 Regiments Reserve Corps. After a most fearful struggle, held the ground till night. Half the entire command was cut down. The Colonel and his Regiment were commended in orders.

Participated in all the engagements around Chattanooga and Mission Ridge. The Regiment lost, in killed, wounded and captured, in the campaign about Chattanooga, in the fall of 1863, about 235 men, and 10 officers, among whom was Lieutenant Colonel Kinman, of Jacksonville, Illinois, a very brave and efficient officer. The Army of the Cumberland being reorganized, after the battle of Chickamauga, the Regiment became attached to Second Brigade, First Division, Fourth Army Corps, Department of the Cumberland; General Whittaker commanding Brigade; Stanley, the Division; Granger, the Corps; Thomas, the Department.

About the 21st February, marched, with a detachment of the Department of the Cumberland, under General Palmer, against Dalton, Georgia. Spent 10 days feeling the enemy, and returned to camp, near Cleveland, Tennessee. The Regiment lost 6 men. Remained here till 3d of May, when, with Sherman's Grand Army, started on the Atlanta Campaign. General Howard had previously assumed command of the Fourth Army Corps. The Regiment on 7th May, lead the charge upon Tunnel Hill, Georgia, driving the enemy through Buzzard Roost Gap. 15th and 16th May, engaged in battle at Resaca, Georgia. Sustained, stubbornly, a charge upon the left flank, for which the Regiment was commended in orders. Lost, in this contest, about 30 men and 1 officer.

Inscribed, by orders, upon the regimental banner all the principal engagements of the Military Division of the Mississippi, which resulted in the fall of Atlanta. Lost, during Atlanta Campaign, about 100 men. When, in October, 1864, Hood threw himself on Sherman's rear, and was marching on Chattanooga, Company D, One Hundred and Fifteenth Illinois, occupied a block house in Buzzard Roost Gap, and held in check Hood's army for ten hours, and fighting stubbornly, refused to surrender the Gap, till the block house was rendered untenable and nearly demolished, by the enemy's artillery. One-third of the company, of 41 in the aggregate, was killed and wounded; the remainder surrendered. For this special act of gallantry the Captain was breveted Major, and has since been made a Captain in the regular army. This officer was Samuel Hymer, of the county of Schuyler, Illinois. He mustered in as Second Lieutenant of Company D, One Hundred and Fifteenth Illinois Volunteer Infantry.

When Sherman had determined to march to the sea, the Fourth Army Corps, now commanded by Major General Stanley, together with the Twenty-third Corps—all under command of Major General Thomas—were detached from the Military Division of the Mississippi and ordered back into Tennessee, to watch the movements of General Hood, now near Florence, Alabama, on the Tennessee river, and threatening Nashville, Tennessee. The One Hundred and Fifteenth Illinois still belonged to the Second Brigade, First Division, Fourth Army Corps—Generals Whitaker, Kimball and Stanley commanding, respectively, Brigade, Division and Corps. The Regiment took an active part in the engagements which, in November and December, 1864, resulted in the destruction of Bragg's old veteran army, known as the Army of the Tennessee, and then commanded by the rebel General Hood. The Brigade to which the One Hundred and Fifteenth Illinois was for nearly two years attached, without material alteration, was known throughout the Department as the "Iron Brigade," and was, for the most of the time, up to the 23d of December, 1864, commanded by Brigadier General Walter C. Whitaker, of Kentucky, who neglected no opportunity to win distinction for himself and his command.

On the 23d of December, 1864, while pursuing Hood, in his retreat from Nashville, Colonel J. H. Moore, of the One Hundred and Fifteenth Illinois, took command of this splendid Brigade, and continued in command until it was mustered out of the service, at the close of the war. Colonel Moore was breveted Brigadier General, before leaving the army.

Hood having been driven, with the remains of a broken army, across the Tennessee, the Regiment, with the Fourth Army Corps, marched for Huntsville, Alabama, and went into camp, on the 5th day of January, 1865. Marched thence, on the 14th of March, into East Tennessee; thence, expecting to move by the way of Lynchburg, Virginia, to assist in the capture of Richmond. But, while in the vicinity of Greenville, Tennessee, Richmond fell, and the rebel General Lee surrendered.

The Regiment then moved back, with the Fourth Army Corps, and went into camp near Nashville, Tennessee, and there remained until mustered out of service, June 11th, 1865.

Arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, June 16th, 1865, and received final pay and discharge June 23d, 1865.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTEENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Seventeenth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Risdon M. Moore, and was mustered in September 19th, by Captain Washington, United States Army.

Moved from Camp Butler, November 11th, and arrived at Memphis, Tennessee, on the 17th. Remained on duty at Memphis until July 5th, 1863, when it was sent to re-enforce Helena, Arkansas, and returned. December 25th, it was sent after Forrest, in Western Tennessee, losing 3 men killed in a skirmish at LaFayette, Tennessee.

December 29th, 1863, moved to Vicksburg, in Third Brigade, Third Division, Sixteenth Army Corps. Was engaged in the Meridian Campaign. On 5th February, was engaged in a skirmish, losing 2 killed and 5 wounded. Returned to Vicksburg, March 4th. On 10th of March, embarked for Red River expedition. Assisted in the capture of Fort De Russey, March 14th, 1864. Engaged at the battle of Pleasant Hill, April 9th. Moved to Grand Ecore, 11th. On 14th, was sent to relief of the gun-boats and transports, at Camp-ta, Louisiana, and was engaged at Cloutierville and Cane River; at Bayou Rapides, May 2d; at Governor Moore's plantation and Bayou Roberts, May 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th and 11th. Continued on return march to Mississippi river, on 14th, skirmishing daily. In battle of Yellow Bayou, May 18th, and arrived at Mississippi river on 20th, and at Vicksburg on 27th. Took part in driving Marmaduke from Chicot Lake and Columbia, Arkansas, and arrived at Memphis, June 10th, 1864.

Marched to the relief of Sturgis on June 14th, and, on 23d, commenced the Tupelo Campaign. Was engaged at Tupelo, July 14th, and at Old Town Creek, 15th. Commenced Oxford Campaign, August 5th. Was engaged at Hurricane Creek, 18th, 19th and 20th, and returned to Memphis on 30th.

Arrived at Jefferson Barracks, September 19th. Was engaged October 1st, at Franklin. Moved, via Jefferson City, Sedalia, Lexington, Independence, and Harrisonville, and returned to St. Louis, November 19th.

Moved to Nashville, Tennessee, and took position in the works, December 1st, 1864. Was engaged in the battle of Nashville, December 15th and 16th, and in the pursuit of Hood, reaching Clifton, January 4th, 1865. Embarked at Eastport for New Orleans, arriving January 17th. Embarked at Chalmette, March 7th, and moved to Dauphine Island. Moved to Fish River, with the Sixteenth Corps, Major General A. J. Smith commanding. Engaged at Spanish Fort, from March 27th to April 2d, and at Blakely until the 9th, taking part in its capture.

Marched for Montgomery, April 13th, and thence to Camp Butler, Illinois, where the regiment was mustered out, August 5th, 1865, by Captain James A. Hall, United States Army.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND EIGHTEENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Eighteenth Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers, came into the service under the call of July 2d, 1862, and was organized in August, 1862. Companies A, B, C, E and H, in Hancock county; Companies D, F and K, in Adams county; Company G, Henderson county; and Company I, Gallatin county.

Rendezvoused at Camp Butler, Illinois, from the 1st to the 8th of September, 1862, and was at once placed on duty, guarding Confederate prisoners of war. Was mustered into the United States' service, November 7th, 1862, by Captain Washington. Remained at Camp Butler, on duty, until December 1st, 1862, when it left for the field. Went, by railroad, to Alton, Illinois, where it embarked for Memphis, Tennessee, December 3d, and arrived on the 11th. Remained till the 20th, and then left, with Sherman, for Vicksburg, Mississippi; arrived at Yazoo river, and participated in the engagement at Chickasaw Bluffs, from the 26th to the 30th of December, 1862. Re-embarked and arrived at Arkansas Post, Arkansas, January 9th, 1863, and participated in the fight and capture of the fort, on the 10th and 11th.

Returned to Young's Point, Louisiana, January 23d, where it remained until March 9th, when the Regiment moved to Milliken's Bend, Louisiana, where it remained until April 2d, when it left on the expedition against Vicksburg, forming a part of General Osterhaus' Division. Crossed the Mississippi river, at Bruinsburg, April 30th, and participated in the fight at Thompson's Hills, Mississippi, (Port Gibson,) May 1st; Champion Hills, Mississippi, May 16th, in which Captain A. W. Geddes and Lieutenant Thomas B. White, of Company A, were both killed; Black River Bridge, Mississippi, May 17th; and in the siege of Vicksburg, until after the assaults on the 19th and 22d of May. Was then ordered to Black River Bridge, with General Osterhaus, May 24th.

By order of General Grant, the Regiment was mounted, June 10th.

Remained at Black River Bridge, on duty, until July 6th, when the Regiment marched, with General Sherman's expedition, to Jackson, Mississippi. Participated in the fight at Jackson, from the 10th to the 17th. Went on a raid to Brookhaven. Returned to Vicksburg, July 24th.

On the 4th of August, an order was received, transferring the Thirteenth Army Corps to the Department of the Gulf. The horses of the Regiment were turned over to the Quartermaster, August 6th. Left Vicksburg, August 7th; arrived at Port Hudson, Louisiana, August 8th. Left Port Hudson, August 15th; arrived at Carrollton, Louisiana, August 16th. Left Carrollton, September 5th; arrived at Bayou Boeuff, Louisiana, September 6th; arrived at Brashear City, Louisiana, September 11th. Crossed the bay to Berwick City, Louisiana, September 23d; arrived at Camp Bisland, Louisiana, October 3d.

On the 4th of October, the Regiment was ordered to Algiers, Louisiana, to report to Brigadier General A. L. Lee, Chief of Cavalry, Department of the Gulf; arrived at Algiers, October 7th. Drew horses, and re-mounted, October 10th. Left Algiers, October 11th, on the cars, for Brashear City. Crossed the Bay, and marched to Vermillionville, Louisiana, where it arrived October 14th. Arrived at Opelousas, Louisiana, October 23d. Participated in an engagement near Washington, Louisiana, October 24th. Left Opelousas, Louisiana, November 1st. Camped at Carrion Crow Bayou, the same day. Was in a severe engagement, November 3d, known as the battle of Grand Coteau. Moved camp to Vermillionville, November 6th. Participated in a battle near Vermillionville, November 11th, in which Captain A. W. Marsh, of Company C, was killed. Moved from Vermillionville to New Iberia, Louisiana, November 15th. Was in an engagement near Vermilion Bayou, Louisiana, in which seventy-eight (78) prisoners were captured. Remained at New Iberia, participating in the daily scouts and skirmishes, until December 18th, when the Regiment was ordered to march to Donaldsonville, Louisiana, and there embarked for Port Hudson, Louisiana, where it arrived January 7th, 1864. Remained at Port Hudson, until July 3d, scouting, almost daily. Had many sharp skirmishes and captured a great many prisoners. March 30th, a portion of the Regiment was in a severe fight on Bayou Grosse Tete, Louisiana, in which a determined sabre charge and hand to hand fight, against superior numbers, saved them from defeat and capture. April 7th, a detachment of 75 men from the Regiment, and 25 from the Third Illinois Cavalry, and one gun from the Twenty-first New York Battery, were surrounded by some six hundred rebels, near Plain's Store, Louisiana, and, after a desperate resistance, succeeded in escaping.

Moved to Baton Rouge, Louisiana, July 3d. Remained there until the 4th of September, participating in General Lee's raids, and in engagements at Redwood, Comite Bridge and Clinton, Louisiana, August 25th.

September 4th, marched to Doyalis Plantation, and on the 7th, marched to Hermitage Plantation, opposite Donaldsonville, Louisiana. From this point, scouted the country to Amite river, capturing prisoners almost daily.

The Regiment went from here, with General Lee, on his raid to Liberty and Brookhaven, Mississippi, participating in the fight at Liberty, November 19th. Moved from Hermitage Plantation to Baton Rouge, November 24th. Left Baton Rouge, November 27th, with General Davidson's expedition, to West Pascagoula, Mississippi, where it arrived December 12th. Embarked for New Orleans, via Lakeport, December 24th; arrived at New Orleans, December 26th, and returned to Baton Rouge, December 27th.

During the months of January, February, March, April, and to the 22d of May, 1865, the Regiment was engaged in scouting, picketing, etc. May 22d, the horses were turned over to the Quartermaster, and, from that time, the Regiment was doing provost duty in the city of Baton Rouge, up to October 1st, 1865, when it was mustered out of service.

NOTE.—October, 1863, Colonel John G. Fonda was assigned to the command of a Cavalry Brigade, which command he retained until May 30th, 1865. June 28th, 1865, he was appointed Brigadier General, by brevet, and was in command of the Post of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, until mustered out, October 1st, 1865.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND NINETEENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Nineteenth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Quincy, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Thomas J. Kinney, and was mustered in, October 10th, by Lieutenant K. Knox, United States Army.

Moved, November 2d, to Columbus, Kentucky, and, thence, to Jackson, Tennessee. On December 3d, moved to post of Kenton. On December 21st, Companies G and K were captured at Rutherford's Station. On 6th February, 1863, moved to Humboldt. On March 10th, moved to Buntyn Station. On May 30th, moved to Memphis, and was assigned to Fourth Brigade, Colonel D. Moore commanding; Fifth Division, Brigadier General J. C. Veach commanding; Sixteenth Corps, Major General S. A. Hurlbut commanding.

On 27th January, 1864, the Regiment moved to Vicksburg, Mississippi. Was engaged in the Meridian Campaign, under General Sherman, returning to Vicksburg, March 4th. On 10th, embarked on Red River Expedition. Engaged in the battle of Fort De Russey—losing 2 killed, and 18 wounded. Engaged at Pleasant Hill, Louisiana, May 9th—1 killed and 1 wounded. At Bayou la Moore—1 killed and 1 wounded. At Yellow Bayou, March 18th—losing 1 officer and 3 men killed, 3 men mortally wounded, and 3 officers and 34 men wounded.

Moved to Vicksburg, May 25th, and to Memphis, June 24th. Moved, by rail, to La-grange, and, July 5th, commenced march through Mississippi. Engaged Forrest's forces at Tupelo, on the 14th, and returned to Memphis, on the 27th. On September 5th, moved to Jefferson Barracks, Missouri. On October 2d, started after Price, and returned 18th November, having marched over 700 miles.

December 1st, arrived at Nashville. Was engaged in the battle of December 15th and 16th—loss, 9 wounded. Pursued the enemy as far as Eastport.

On February 8th, embarked for New Orleans. On March 5th, moved to Dauphine Island. On 19th, moved to Spanish Fort and Blakely. Was engaged at both—losing 2 killed and 14 wounded—the One Hundred and Nineteenth being in the skirmish line, on April 9th. Moved thence to Montgomery and Mobile.

Mustered out August 26th, 1865, by Captain S. C. Howell, A. C. M., and arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, September 4th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SECOND INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Twenty-second Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Palmer, Carlinville, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel John J. Rinaker, and was mustered in September 4th.

On 8th October, moved to Columbus, Kentucky, and, thence, to Trenton, Tennessee. On November 12th, Companies A, D and F moved to Humboldt. December 18th, the Regiment moved to Jackson, to defend that place against Forrest. Marched in pursuit of the enemy to Lexington, Tennessee, returning to Jackson, December 21st.

The enemy, under General Forrest, captured the sick in Hospital at Trenton, including Major Chapman, and 60 enlisted men of the Regiment. Marched from Trenton, December 27th, in pursuit of the enemy. On 31st, was engaged at Parker's Cross Roads, in connection with detachments of Thirty-ninth Iowa, Fiftieth Indiana, and Eighteenth Illinois, capturing 7 pieces of artillery, and 500 prisoners. The loss of the One Hundred and Twenty-second was 1 officer and 22 men killed, and 2 officers and 54 enlisted men wounded. Colonel Rinaker was severely wounded.

On 17th February, 1863, the Regiment moved to Corinth. Moved from Corinth, April 15th, and, on the 25th, was engaged at Town Creek. Moved to Saulsbury, June 25th, and, October 30th, to Iuka, Colonel Rinaker commanding post at each place. November 4th, 1863, moved to Eastport, where it remained—Colonel Rinaker commanding post—until December 8th, when it moved to Paducah, and, January 19th, 1864, to Cairo—Col. Rinaker being assigned to command of post.

Companies E, H and K, were engaged in defending Paducah against the attack of Forrest, March 24th, repelling three attacks made on Fort Anderson.

June 26th, 1864, moved to Memphis and Lagrange, and, joining the command of General A. J. Smith, was assigned to First Brigade, Third Division.

July 14th, the Regiment was engaged at Tupelo, losing Captain Josiah Burrough and 9 enlisted men killed, and 33 wounded. Returned to Memphis, July 23d, 1864.

August 4th, moved to Holly Springs, and returned on 31st.

Arrived at Cairo, Illinois, September 8th, and, on 12th, at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri.

Was engaged in the campaign in Missouri, after Price, returning to St. Louis, November 18th, 1864.

The Regiment embarked for Nashville, Tennessee, November 24th. On December 15th and 16th, was engaged in the battle of Nashville, Tennessee, losing 1 killed, and 3 mortally wounded, and 26 men wounded, and capturing 4 pieces of artillery and a battle flag. Was engaged in the pursuit of the enemy to Eastport.

Embarked, February 18th, for New Orleans, and, on March 6th, for Dauphine Island, Alabama. March 23d, moved with the fleet up Fish River, to Donley's Landing, and, on 24th, marched to Spanish Fort. The Regiment, at this time, was in the First Brigade, Second Division, Sixteenth Army Corps—Colonel Rinaker commanding Brigade.

On April 3d, moved to Fort Blakely. Engaged in the charge of the 9th, losing 20 killed and wounded—Lieutenant Colonel Drish being among the latter. On 12th, marched from Blakely, arriving at Montgomery, on 26th. On June 4th, embarked at Providence Landing, and moved down Alabama river, to Mobile.

Mustered out of service, July 15th. Arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, July 27th, and, August 4th, 1865, received final payment and discharge.

HEADQUARTERS MILITARY DIVISION OF THE TENNESSEE,
NASHVILLE, TENN., June 28, 1865.

SPECIAL ORDERS {
No. 5. } Extract:

XXVII. Those men of the One Hundred and Twenty-third Illinois Volunteers who are ineligible to be mustered out with that command, now at Edgefield, Tennessee, will proceed, without delay, to Franklin, Tennessee, under charge of Lieutenant L. Grundy, Sixty-first Illinois. On arrival at Franklin, these men will be transferred to and permanently consolidated with the Sixty-first Illinois Volunteer Infantry. Brevet Major A. L. Hough, Chief Commissary of Munitions, M. D. T., is hereby charged with the execution of this order. The transfer to be made under provisions of Circular No. 64, series 1864, War Department.

By command of Major General THOMAS,

HENRY M. CIST, A. A. G.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in September, 1862, by Colonel Thomas J. Sloan, and was mustered in September 10th, by Lieutenant DeCoursey.

Moved from Camp Butler, October 6th, arriving at Jackson, Tennessee, on the 9th. Was assigned to Third Brigade, First Division, Thirteenth Corps. Moved to Lagrange, November 4th. On the 28th, drove the enemy across the Tallahatchie, and advanced to the Yocona river.

The Regiment was in First Brigade, Colonel John E. Smith; Third Division, Brigadier General John A. Logan commanding; Seventeenth Army Corps, Major General James B. McPherson commanding. December 24th, arrived at Tallahatchie river, and, January 7th, 1863, at Lagrange. Brigadier General I. N. Haynie took command of the Brigade.

On the 23d of February, 1863, moved down the river, from Memphis to Lake Providence. On March 15th, Colonel Sloan took command of the Brigade. On the 17th, went into camp, at Berry's Landing.

April 18th, moved to Milliken's Bend. On the 25th, commenced the campaign against Vicksburg. On the 30th, crossed the river, sixty miles below Vicksburg, and, May 1st, was engaged at Thompson's Hill.

The One Hundred and Twenty-fourth was engaged in the battles of Raymond, May 12th; at Jackson, 14th; at Champion Hills, 16th; and during the entire siege of Vicksburg, including the charge on the fortifications, May 22d, and assault on Fort Hill, June 26th. During the latter part of the siege, Brigadier General M. D. Leggett commanded the Brigade.

On the 31st of August, went on campaign to Monroe, Louisiana, Brigadier General John D. Stephenson commanding. October 14th, on McPherson's campaign to Brownsville, and was in the battles at that place, of October 16th and 17th.

On November 7th, moved camp to Black River.

On the 25th of November, the regiments of the First Brigade, viz: Twentieth, Twenty-ninth, Thirty-first, Forty-fifth and One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Illinois, and Twenty-third Indiana, engaged in a prize drill—the Thirty-first Illinois excelling in drill, and the One Hundred and Twenty-fourth in picket duty, etc. But at a subsequent contest for a prize banner, offered by Brigadier General Leggett, commanding Division, the One Hundred and Twenty-fourth received the banner, inscribed "Excelsior Regiment, Third Division, Seventeenth Army Corps," from the hands of Major General McPherson, for excelling in soldierly appearance, discipline and drill.

On February 3d, 1864, commenced the raid to Meridian. On the 14th, had a severe skirmish with the enemy, at Chunky Station. Returned to Vicksburg, March 4t. On May 4th, under Brigadier General McArthur, moved toward Benton and Yazoo City. Was engaged at Benton, on the 7th and 10th, and returned on the 21st.

From July 1st to 9th, the Regiment moved, with General Slocum, on his Jackson Campaign, and was engaged in the sharp fights at Jackson Cross Roads, July 5th and 7th.

From October 14th to 26th, was in campaign to White river and Memphis. Remained at Vicksburg, on Provost duty, until February 25th, 1865, when the Regiment moved to New Orleans, and was assigned to the Third Brigade, Colonel James A. Geddes, Eighth Iowa, commanding; Third Division, Brigadier General E. A. Carr commanding; and Sixteenth Corps, Major General A. J. Smith commanding.

On March 12th, embarked for Mobile. Moved to Dauphine Island, and up Fish river, and commenced siege of Spanish Fort, March 29th. The Regiment was the extreme left of the investing line, and, with one-half deployed as skirmishers, drove the enemy within their fortifications. The Brigade consisted of Eighth Iowa, Eighty-first, One Hundred and Eighth and One Hundred and Twenty-fourth Illinois. Was engaged until the surrender of the fort. On the 13th of April, started for Montgomery.

On July 17th, 1865, started home for muster-out. Arrived at Chicago, Illinois, August 3d, and was mustered out August 15th, 1865, by Captain George W. Hill, United States Army.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Danville, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel Oscar F. Harmon, and mustered in September 3d.

Moved from Danville, September 3d, to Cincinnati; thence to Louisville, Kentucky, arriving on 26th, and was assigned to Thirty-sixth Brigade, Colonel Dan McCook commanding, and to Sheridan's Division. Left, October 1st, in pursuit of Bragg. Took an active part in the battle of Chaplin Hills, and followed Bragg to Crab Orchard. Commenced the return march, October 20th. Arrived at Bowling Green, November 1st, and at Nashville, November 7th.

The Regiment was mustered out of service June 9th, 1865, at Washington City, and arrived at Chicago, Illinois, June 14th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-SIXTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Alton, Illinois, by Colonel Jonathan Richmond, and mustered in September 4th, 1862.

Moved, November 20th, to Columbus, and thence to Bolivar, Tennessee. On 28th, moved to Lagrange. On December 19th, 6 companies marched to Jackson, Tennessee, to re-enforce that place, and, afterward, moved to Humboldt, where they were joined by the remaining 4 companies, January 20th, 1863. On 25th March, moved to Jackson, and was assigned to Second Brigade, Colonel James M. True commanding; Second Division, Brigadier General Nathan Kimball commanding; Sixteenth Army Corps, Major General Hurlbut commanding. Moved, by rail, to Memphis, and embarked for Vicksburg Landing, at Haines' Bluff, June 2d.

Embarked for Helena, Arkansas, July 24th. Marched, with General Steele's army, participating in the capture of Little Rock, September 10th. Marched, to Duvall's Bluff, October 24th, 1863, and Colonel Richmond was assigned to the command of the post. On August 19th, 1864, marched, via Little Rock, to Pine Bluff, Arkansas. February 12th, 1865, moved to mouth of White river. Returned to Pine Bluff, June 4th, and, July 12th, 1865, was mustered out.

The Regiment participated in the siege of Vicksburg. Six companies engaged in skirmish line, near Humboldt, Tennessee, December 21st, 1862, in capture of Little Rock, Arkansas, and in the fight at Clarendon, Arkansas, June 26th, 1864.

ORDER FROM WAR DEPARTMENT.

CAIRO, ILLINOIS, April 1, 1863.

SPECIAL ORDER.

The One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Regiment of Illinois Volunteers having, in its short period of service of less than five months, been reduced from an aggregate of eight hundred and sixty to one hundred and sixty-one—principally by desertions—and there having been an utter want of discipline in it, the following officers are hereby discharged from the service of the United States, to take effect the 4th inst., viz :

Colonel Robert M. Hundley, Lieutenant Colonel James D. Pulley, First Lieutenant George W. Akin, R. Q. M., Chaplain Archibald T. Benton.

Captains William J. Moyers, William G. Durham, Jefferson S. Allen, John Brown, Joel H. Swindell, Robert M. Allen, William Huffstutler, Aaron A. Bell, William A. Fry, Joshua Pemberton.

First Lieutenants James V. Moore, John A. Ensminger, Sibron A. Walker, Zachariah Hudgens, Iradell A. Williams, Jesse A. McIntosh, William L. Stilley, Samuel Upchurch.

Second Lieutenant Martin A. B. Dial, Joseph M. Dorris, Jasper A. Crain, Addison Reese, Martin W. Robertson, N. E. Norris, Joseph B. Fuller, Wiley W. Hall, and Samuel Pemberton.

The few remaining men of this Regiment will be consolidated into a Detachment, under First Lieutenants W. A. Lemma, William M. Cooper, and Assistant Surgeon George W. French, for transfer to some other Illinois regiment, to be designated by Major General Grant, commanding the Department of the Tennessee.

Brigadier General A. Asboth, commanding District of Columbus, Kentucky, will order an officer of the regular army to this place, to critically inspect the Detachment, to muster out of the service such old men and others who, by reason of defects, should not have been mustered into the service.

By order of the Secretary of War.

L. THOMAS, Adjutant General.

Official: E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant General.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-NINTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Twenty-ninth Illinois Volunteers was organized at Pontiac, Illinois, in August, 1862, by Colonel George P. Smith, and mustered in September 8th.

On September 22d, the Regiment moved to Louisville, Kentucky, and was brigaded with the Thirty-eighth Brigade, Colonel M. W. Chapin, Twenty-third Michigan, commanding; Twelfth Division, Major General Gilbert commanding.

On October 3d, marched in pursuit of Bragg, via Frankfort and Danville, to Crab Orchard. On 17th, the Brigade was transferred to Tenth Division, Brigadier General R. S. Granger commanding. Commenced the return march October 20th, and moved, via Danville, Perryville and Mumfordsville, to Bowling Green. On 21st November, the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth was sent as garrison to Mitchellville, Kentucky.

The Regiment was mustered out of service June 8th, 1865, at Washington, District of Columbia, and arrived at Chicago, June 13th, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

ORDER OF CONSOLIDATION.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE GULF, NEW ORLEANS, January 14, 1865.

SPECIAL ORDERS, }
No. 14. } Extract.

The Seventy-seventh and One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois Volunteers will be consolidated into and known as the Seventy-seventh Illinois Volunteers. Brigadier General T. W. Sherman, commanding Defenses New Orleans, (who is charged with the execution of this order,) will designate such commissioned officers as will be retained in service, to command the new organization. All other officers will be at once mustered out of service.

All supernumerary non-commissioned staff officers, and all supernumerary non-commissioned officers who were appointed, as such, at the date of the original organization of their respective companies, will be mustered out of service. All other surplus non-commissioned officers, who have been appointed since the original organization, will be reduced.

By command of Major General HURLBUT.

C. S. SARGENT,
First Lieut. 2d La. Vols. and A. A. G.

II. The companies of the Seventy-seventh Illinois Volunteers will be completed by the transfer into the same of the retained officers and enlisted men of the One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois Volunteers.

The commanding officer of the One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois Volunteers will turn over, without delay, an accurate descriptive-roll of his Regiment, and all papers and books connected with the Regiment, to the commanding officer of the Seventy-seventh Illinois Volunteers, who will assign the officers and men to their companies, and select, from the non-commissioned staff of the two regiments, the legal non-commissioned staff of the new organization. He will, also, complete the legal number of non-commissioned officers of companies from the non-commissioned officers of the One Hundred and Thirtieth Illinois Volunteers, and will render a list of all supernumerary non-commissioned staff officers, and supernumerary non-commissioned company officers who were appointed, as such, at the date of the original organization of the two regiments, to the Chief Mustering Officer, Defenses of New Orleans, for muster-out.

All other surplus non-commissioned officers, and all surplus field musicians, will revert to the position of private.

By command of Brigadier General SHERMAN.

GENERAL ORDER, }
No. 4. }

I. The One Hundred and Thirty-first Illinois Infantry having been consolidated with the Twenty-ninth Illinois Infantry, by Special Order, No. 90, from the Secretary of War, dated Natchez, Mississippi, October 30, 1863, and the officers and enlisted men having reported, in compliance with Special Orders, No. 261, Headquarters Seventeenth Army Corps, of date November 14, 1863, the following assignments of officers are hereby made :

First Lieutenant J. S. Armstrong.....to Company H.
 First Lieutenant John F. McCartney.....to Company D,
 First Lieutenant John Dailey.....to Company G.
 Second Lieutenant J. A. Peter.....to Company H.
 Second Lieutenant John M. Lockwood.....to Company A.
 Second Lieutenant Arden Ray.....to Company I
 Second Lieutenant W. H. H. Tindall.....to Company K.

Assistant Surgeon Samuel Bumstead will report to Surgeon Samuel L. Cheaney for duty.

II. The non-commissioned officers and privates are assigned to such companies as they have already selected or been placed in.

III. All non-commissioned officers in excess of those needed to fill vacancies, are hereby reduced to ranks, until such time as they can be reinstated.

IV. Commanding officers are ordered to fill any vacancies that may occur, with those who have heretofore been non-commissioned officers in the One Hundred and Thirty-first Illinois Infantry. The reduction to ranks is made in compliance with verbal instructions from Adjutant General of the Army, to save to the service all men now enlisted in it.

V. All non-commissioned officers and privates not yet assigned, will be allowed the privilege of selecting their companies, and this selection must be made to-morrow at 12 o'clock, that the arrangements may be completed.

By order of Colonel L. KENT.

RICHARD M. BOZMAN, Adjutant.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Forty-seventh Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Fry, Illinois, by Colonel Hiram F. Sickles, and mustered in for one year, on the 18th and 19th of February, 1865.

On the 21st of February, moved, via Louisville, Kentucky, to Nashville, Tennessee, arriving 25th. On the 28th, moved to Chattanooga, and thence to Dalton, Georgia, Colonel Sickles commanding post. On March 13th, went on expedition to Mill creek, on Cleveland road, and broke up a nest of guerrillas. On 20th, under command of Major Bush, went on an expedition to Spring Place. March 15th, the Regiment was assigned to First Brigade, Second Division, Army of the Cumberland, Brigadier General H. M. Judah commanding. On March 28th went on an expedition to Ringgold. On April 23d, moved to Pullen's Ferry, on Coosawatchie river, and had several skirmishes with the enemy, killing Major Edmeston, their commander, and several officers and men. On May 2d, the Regiment moved to Resaca, Georgia, and were engaged in repairing the railroad. On May 12th, Wofford, commanding rebel forces in Northern Georgia surrendered his forces to General Judah. May 14th, Colonel Sickles took command of the Brigade. Marched to Calhoun, June 26th, and July 27th, moved to Marietta. From thence, ordered to Macon, Georgia, and to Albany, Georgia arriving July 31st. October 16th, brigade organization dissolved. October 28th, ordered to Hawkinsville, Georgia. November 25th, the Regiment was ordered to Savannah, Georgia, via Macon, Atlanta and Augusta, where it remained, December 31st, 1865.

Mustered out January 20th, 1866, at Savannah, Georgia, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-EIGHTH INFANTRY.

The Regiment was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, February 21st, 1865, for the term of one year. February 22d, left Camp Butler, for Nashville, Tennessee, where it arrived on the 25th. March 1st, moved to Tullahoma, Tennessee, where it remained until the 18th of June, engaged in guard duty, when five companies were ordered to Decherd: one company was stationed at McMinnville, the other four companies were engaged guarding the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad, from Lombardy to Anderson Station, near the Alabama line—until ordered to Springfield, Illinois, for final payment and discharge. The Regiment was mustered out September 5th, 1865, at Nashville, Tennessee. Arrived at Springfield, Illinois, September 9th, 1865, where it was paid off and discharged.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-NINTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Forty-ninth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, on February 11th, 1865, by Colonel William C. Kueffner, and mustered in for one year. On February 14th, moved for Nashville, Tennessee, and from thence moved to Chattanooga. Was assigned by Major General Steadman, to duty, guarding railroads. On May 1st, was assigned to Colonel Felix Prince Salm's Second Brigade, Second Separate Division, Army of the Cumberland, and on the 2d, moved to Dalton, Georgia. On July 6th, moved to Atlanta. On the 26th, being assigned to duty in the Fourth Sub-District of District of Allatoona, it was assigned to guard duty in that District.

Mustered out January 27th, 1866, at Dalton, Georgia, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTIETH INFANTRY.

This Regiment was organized at Camp Butler, February 14th, and mustered in February 14th, 1865, for one year, and left for the front, February 18th, 1865. Arrived at Bridgeport, Alabama, February 27th, where it garrisoned Forts Nos. Three and Four, and the block houses on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad, from Bridgeport to Chattanooga. Left Bridgeport, March 24th, and arrived at Cleveland, Tennessee, March 25th. Left Cleveland, May 2d, and arrived at Dalton, Georgia, May 3d. Left Wing of the Regiment marched to Spring Place, Georgia, and garrisoned that town until July 1st, the Right Wing remaining on duty at Dalton. Left Dalton, July 7th, and arrived at Atlanta, Georgia, July 8th, being the first regiment that passed over the road since the grand march of Major General Sherman. Left Atlanta August 14th, and arrived at Griffin, Georgia, the same day, where it occupied the Second Sub-District, District of Allatoona, Third Division, Department of Georgia, as follows: Companies A and E, Griffin; Company D, Jackson; Company C, West Point; Company F, Newnan; Companies B and G, Lagrange; Company K, Greenville; Company H, Franklin; and Company I, Atlanta. December 31st, the Regiment was assigned to the District of Atlanta, with Headquarters at Atlanta, Georgia.

Mustered out of service January 16th, 1866, at Atlanta, Georgia, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIRST INFANTRY.

This Regiment was organized at Quincy, Illinois, and mustered into the United States' service, February 23d, 1865, and was composed of companies from various parts of the state, recruited under the call of December 19th, 1864.

From Quincy, it proceeded, by rail, to Springfield, Illinois, where the field and staff officers were mustered in, February 25th, 1865. The Regiment received its arms and accoutrements, and was then ordered to proceed to Nashville, Tennessee, via Louisville, Kentucky. Thence, on March 7th, marched to Murfreesboro, and proceeded, by rail, to Chattanooga, Tennessee, and reported to Major General James B. Steadman, commanding the District, who at once ordered the Regiment to report to Colonel Sickles, at Dalton, Georgia, where it arrived, February 13th, 1865. There the Regiment remained, drilling, and engaged in picket and guard duty, and scouting.

The One Hundred and Fifty-first Illinois, One Hundred and Forty-seventh Illinois, One Hundred and Forty-fifth Indiana, and the One Hundred and Eighty-seventh Ohio, were brigaded, and became the First Brigade, Second Separate Division, Army of the Cumberland.

April 23d, Colonel Woodall was detailed to proceed, under flag of truce, to Macon, Georgia, via Atlanta, to communicate with Major General Wilson, and carry, also, terms offered to the rebel General Warford, for his surrender, together with that of his command. This mission he executed with credit and dispatch, and was complimented by his commanding officer, Brigadier General H. M. Judah, who had relieved Colonel Sickles, and was, at that time, in command of the Brigade.

May 2d, ordered to proceed to Resaca, Georgia, where, after a few days, was ordered to Calhoun, and thence, to Kingston, Georgia, where the Regiment arrived May 12th, after a most toilsome march. The Regiment marched into this town with the precision of Regulars, as it was here they were to receive the surrender of the rebel General Warford, and his command, which was done on the 13th, 14th and 15th of May, 1865. 10,400 rebels paroled, in all.

Colonel Woodall was left in command of the post of Kingston. Company D, Captain David, was sent to garrison Adairsville, and Company F, Captain Heir, was sent to garrison Rome, while the Lieutenant Colonel was left in command of the Regiment. The garrison was chiefly engaged in securing good order, and guarding government property.

July 24th, Lieutenant Colonel Snow was ordered to proceed, with 3 companies, to Cartersville, and Major Battey sent to Rome, to relieve Captain Heir. Captain Slaughter in command of the Regiment, and Captain Goble detailed as Provost Marshal.

July 28th, Regiment ordered to proceed to Columbus, Georgia, where it arrived July 31st, 1865.

Colonel Woodall was assigned to the command of 6 counties, and Lieutenant Colonel Snow, to the command of the Regiment. Lieutenant Colonel Snow subsequently detailed as Agent of Freedmen's Bureau; then Provost Marshal General of the state of Georgia, on General Steadman's staff, where he remained until the office was abolished by orders of War Department. Detailed again as Judge Advocate of a Military Commission, until relieved and ordered to join his Regiment for muster-out.

This Regiment saw no fighting, but guerrilla skirmishes.

It was mustered out at Columbus, Georgia, January 24th, 1866, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, where it received final payment and discharge, February 8th, 1866.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THIRD INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Fifty-third Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Fry, Illinois, by Colonel Stephen Bronson, and was mustered in February 27th, 1865, for one year. On March 4th, moved, by rail, via Louisville and Nashville, to Tullahoma, reporting to Major General Millroy. The Regiment was assigned to the Second Brigade, Defenses of Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad, Brevet Brigadier General Dudley commanding Brigade. In the latter part of March, Major Wilson, with three companies, went on a campaign into Alabama and returned. On July 1st, moved, via Nashville and Louisville to Memphis, Tennessee, and was assigned to the command of Brevet Major General A. L. Chetlain. Was mustered out September 15th, 1865, and moved to Springfield, Illinois, and September 24th, received final pay and discharge.

Colonel Bronson received appointment as Brevet Brigadier General.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Fifty-fourth Regiment Illinois Volunteer Infantry was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, February 21, 1865, under the call of December 19th, 1864

Left, by rail, for Louisville, Kentucky, February 24th; arrived at Nashville, Tennessee, February 27th; was detained there by floods until March 2d, then went, by rail, to Murfreesboro. The Regiment here suffered very much from exposure to continued cold rains, and sickness prevailed to a great extent, and many of the men died from the severe exposure. Remained at Murfreesboro, drilling and doing picket and guard duty, until May 13th. Marched for Tullahoma, May 15th; remained at Tullahoma until June 11th, when the Regiment returned, by railroad, to Nashville, Tennessee, where the Regiment was put on picket, guard and garrison duty, and many of the officers on courts martial and military commissions. Colonel McLain F. Wood died August 6th, being at the time in command of the post of Nashville. Dr. Melvin W. Rush, Surgeon, died August 13th. September 18th, 1865, the Regiment was mustered out, at Nashville, Tennessee, and ordered to Springfield, Illinois, for final payment and discharge, where it arrived September 22d. On the 29th of September, 1865, the Regiment was paid off and discharged at Camp Butler, Illinois.

HISTORY OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The One Hundred and Fifty-fifth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, by Colonel Gustavus A. Smith, and mustered in February 28th, 1865, for one year. On March 2d, the Regiment—904 strong—moved, via Louisville, and Nashville, to Tullahoma, Tennessee, and, reporting to General Milroy, was assigned to the command ofrevet Brigadier General Dudley. On June 17th, the Regiment was divided into detachments of twenty or thirty men each, and assigned to guard duty on the Nashville and Chattanooga Railroad occupying the block houses from Nashville to Duck river, a distance of fifty miles.

On September 4th, the Regiment was mustered out of service, and moved to Camp Butler, Illinois, where it received final pay and discharge.
